NOTICE OF HEARING

BOARD OF ZONING APPEALS

CITY OF THIEF RIVER FALLS

Notice is hereby given, pursuant to Chapter 11 of the Thief River Falls City Code, that Alan L. and DeVonna M. Noreen, d.b.a. Dee's Kitchen, 811 Atlantic Avenue North, Thief River Falls, MN 56701, have requested a Variance to the Zoning Regulations governing Front Yard Setbacks in the C-2 General Business District. The property is legally described as Lots 3, 4, 5 and 6 in Block Fifteen of Oakland Addition.

Granting of the Variance Request would allow the petitioners to construct a 12' X 46' addition onto the south side of the existing structure which houses Dee's Kitchen. The petitioners propose to remove an existing addition on the southeast corner of the structure and replace it with the proposed addition. The proposed addition would have a Front Yard Setback (to the roof overhang) of one foot (1'-0"), at the east property line, which is the same setback as the front of the existing building. In order to proceed with the addition, the petitioners have requested a Variance of twenty-four feet (24'-0") to the twenty-five feet (25') minimum Front Yard Setback as required by Sec. 11.51., Subd. 5., for the C-2 General Business District.

Notice is further given that the Board of Zoning Appeals will conduct a Hearing on the Variance Request at 7:00 P.M. (CDST) on Monday, August 15, 1994, in the City Council Chambers, City Auditorium, 123 Main Avenue North, Thief River Falls, MN 56701. ORDINANCE NO. 238 2ND SERIES

AN ORDINANCE OF THE CITY OF THIEF RIVER FALLS, MINNESOTA, AMENDING CITY CODE CHAPTER 11 ENTITLED "LAND USE REGULATIONS" BY ADDING A PROVISION RELATING TO WETLAND CONSERVATION, AND BY ADOPTING BY REFERENCE CITY CODE CHAPTER 1 AND SECTION 11.99, WHICH, AMONG OTHER THINGS, CONTAIN PENALTY PROVISIONS

THE CITY COUNCIL OF THIEF RIVER FALLS ORDAINS:

Section 1. City Code Sec. 11.90 entitled "Wetland Conservation" is hereby added to read:

Sec. 11.90 WETLAND CONSERVATION.

Subd. 1. Purpose. This ordinance is adopted to implement the Wetland Conservation Act of 1991, (Minnesota Laws 1991 chapter 354, as amended), and the accompanying rules of the Minnesota Board of Water and Soil Resources (Minnesota Rules chapter 8420, as amended).

Subd. 2. Incorporation by Reference. This ordinance incorporates by reference the Act and the Rules. Terms used in this ordinance which are defined in the Act or the Rules have the meanings given there.

Subd. 3. Scope. This ordinance regulates the draining and filling of wetlands and parts of wetlands within the City.

Subd. 4. Procedures.

A. Exemption and No-loss Determinations. Exemption and no-loss determinations under Minnesota Rules parts 8420.0210 and 8420.0220 shall be made by the zoning administrator. The administrator should seek the advice of the technical evaluation panel on questions of wetland delineation and type. The zoning administrator's decision is final unless appealed to the board of adjustment within 30 days.

B. Sequencing and Replacement Plan Decisions. Sequencing and replacement plan decisions under Minnesota Rule part 8420.0520-0550 shall be made following the same procedures as for conditional use permits plus the additional notice and time requirements of part 8420.0230. If the amount of wetland to be drained or filled is less than one-tenth of an acre, the sequencing determination under Minnesota Rule part 8420.0520 shall be made by the zoning administrator.

C. Monitoring. The zoning administrator shall assure that the replacement plan monitoring and enforcement requirements of Minnesota Rule part 8420.0600-0630 are fulfilled.

D. Wetland Banking. Wetlands may be restored or created within the City for purposes of deposit in the wetland bank in accordance with Minnesota Rule parts 8420.0700-0760. The zoning administrator is responsible for approving bank plans, certifying deposits, and monitoring of banked wetlands and enforcement under the rules.

E. Appeals. Decisions made under this ordinance may be appealed to the Board of Water and Soil Resources under Minnesota Rule part 8420.0250, after administrative appeal rights under the official controls have been exhausted.

F. Variances. The board of adjustment may issue variances from the official controls of the City so long as the variances do not vary requirements of the Act or the Rules.

G. Technical Evaluation Panel. The City Council shall appoint a person to serve on the technical evaluation panel.

Decisions under this ordinance must not be made until after receiving the determination of the technical evaluation panel regarding wetland public values, location, size, and/or type if the decision-maker, the landowner, or a member of the technical panel asks for such determinations. This requirement does not to apply to wetlands for which such data is included in a approved comprehensive wetland management plan per Minnesota rule part 8420.0240.

The planning commission may seek and shall consider recommendations, if any, made by the technical evaluation panel in making replacement plan decisions.

Subd. 5. High Priority Areas. Decisions regarding sequencing, replacement plans and banking shall particularly favor preservation, restoration, and creation of wetlands in high priority areas as identified in water management plans pursuant to Minnesota Rule part 8420.0350.

Subd. 6. Delegation. The city may delegate to the soil and water conservation district under M.S. sections 471.59 and 103C.331, subdivision 119, the authority to administer all or any part of this ordinance.

Section 2. City Code Chapter 1 entitled "General Provisions and Definitions Applicable to the Entire Code Including Penalty for Violations" and Section 11.99 entitled "Violation A Misdemeanor" are hereby adopted in their entirety, by reference, as though repeated verbatim herein.

COUNTY BOARD PROCEEDINGS 8/3

August 3, 1994

OFFICIAL PROCEEDINGS
BOARD OF COMMISSIONERS
PENNINGTON COUNTY
MAY 24, 1994 – 5:00 P.M.

Pursuant to adjournment the Pennington County Board of Commissioners met in the Commissioners' room in the courthouse in Thief River Falls, on Tuesday, May 24th, 1994 at 5:00 p.m. Members present: Murphy, Swanson, Jensen and Naplin.

Commissioner Comstock joined the meeting at 5:30 p.m.

The Chairman called the Public Hearing on the County's intent to adopt an ordinance for County-Wide Solid Waste Collection to order at 5:00 p.m. as duly advertised. Fifteen residents of Pennington County signed the attendance roster. Also present were the County Solid Waste Officer, Howard Person, County Attorney, David Olin, and County Auditor, Ken Olson. The Chairman asked Howard Person to review the events that have led up to this hearing. Mr. Person explained the need to guarantee 8,000 tons of solid waste to SWISCORP and the need to bring in and recycle additional waste to increase the amount recycled to the amount set by the State of Minnesota (30%). The County Attorney outlined the procedure to adopt an ordinance of this kind which included this hearing as the first step. Howard then discussed one proposal that had been submitted to collect the rural solid waste which included placing compactor dumpsters in nine different locations within the county for rural residents to deposit their solid waste into. Several questions were fielded from those in attendance including questions on cost, recycling bins and curbside pickup. The County Board adjourned the hearing at 6:00 p.m. and the Chairman called the regular County Board meeting back to order.

Meeting next with the County Board was Rick Nordhagen and Howard Person to discuss Solid Waste Facility issues. Mr. Nordhagen stated that Forsberg's Inc. could provide a used cyclone for the compost screening equipment for an estimated $1,600.00. Commissioner Naplin moved, seconded by Commissioner Comstock to approve the purchase of a used cyclone from Forsberg's Inc. for an amount up to $1,600.00 conditioned on the approval of Howard Person. Motion unanimously carried.

Commissioner Swanson moved, seconded by Commissioner Naplin to approve the purchase of a riding lawn mower for the Solid Waste Facility. Motion unanimously carried.

Rick Nordhagen then informed the County Board that the ash tests done on the last burn at the Walhalla Ethanol plant shows a mercury content level high enough to classify the ash as hazardous waste. Mr. Nordhagen has contacted Inter-Poll regarding their results as they were contradictory to the results of the air emissions tests. If the tests stand, Archer Daniels Midland would need an approved plan to handle the ash before they could burn pellets in their facility. Mr. Nordhagen will provide the County Board with any new information as soon as he receives it.

Howard Person, Solid Waste Officer and Jeff Lewis, Regional Director of the Pollution Control Agency reviewed a proposed regional solid waste joint powers board. This proposal would be for a group of counties to process, compost and landfill solid waste together. Many different cost analysis were included in Mr. Person's presentation. Mr. Lewis asked that Pennington County wait with turning the solid waste processing over to the Solid Waste Integrated Systems Corporation of Pennington County until this regionalization concept could be thoroughly reviewed.

Robert Kruse, representing Solid Waste Integrated Systems Corporation (SWISCORP) stated that they are still willing to move ahead with their project and he is requesting the County Board to sign the agreements. SWISCORP will start the permitting process through the Minnesota Pollution Control Agency immediately if the Board signs the agreements. The County Board reviewed the letter from the firm of Dorsey & Whitney to the Attorney General's office stating that these agreements with SWISCORP would not affect the tax-exempt status on state or county bonds previously issued to finance the county's compost facility. Mr. Kruse also indicated that if the County Board held up the approval of these agreements they would be forced to withdraw their proposal as they would not be able to bring in the required tonnage to make the plant operate efficiently. The following resolution was introduced by Commissioner Swanson, seconded by Commissioner Naplin and upon vote was unanimously carried.

BE IT RESOLVED, that the County Board approve the Solid Waste Services Agreement and Compost and Management Service Agreement with Solid Waste Integrated Systems Corporation.

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED, that the County Board Chairman and County Auditor be authorized to sign the agreements on behalf of Pennington County as previously authorized on April 26th, 1994.

Ray Safranski and Terry Nelson representing the Pennington County Fair Association met with the County Board to request assistance to build an aggregate base where the carnival sets up to provide for drainage. The Board asked the County Engineer to check into what is required for the proposed improvement with work to be done if time permits.

Gary Lane, Director of the Pennington County Soil and Water Conservation District presented the County Board with a Cost-Share Assistance contract. The contract would provide 75% of funds to put into place stormwater control systems up to a maximum of $9,450.00. Commissioner Jensen moved, seconded by Commissioner Naplin to approve the Minnesota Soil and Water Conservation Board Cost-Share Assistance Contract and authorize the Chairman to sign the contract on behalf of Pennington County. Motion unanimously carried.

At this time the County Engineer joined the meeting. Also present was Pat Gorzawski who wanted to discuss who should be paying for the pipe for the approach he needs coming off of Trunk Highway #1. Since this approach connects to a platted frontage road he did not feel this should be all his expense as it is not only for his benefit. The County Engineer was instructed to contact North Township, City of Thief River Falls and MNDOT in an attempt to formulate participation in a cost-sharing for installation of this approach.

Commissioner Comstock moved, seconded by Commissioner Naplin to authorize the Auditor and Engineer to advertise S.A.P. 57-603-21, bituminous overlay of C.S.A.H. #3 from the west County-Line in the intersection of T.H. #32, with bids to be opened June 21st, 1994 at 10:00 a.m. Motion unanimously carried.

The County Board was informed of a claim filed by William Bosepaniak because of the delay in proceeding with the gravel crushing contract in Norden Township due to a required variance needed for the Norden Township Zoning Ordinance.

The County Engineer discussed the Culvert failure through the approach located near the E1/4 of Section 17, in North Township which services the Jerry Nelson residence. Commissioner Jensen moved, seconded by Commissioner Naplin to authorize the County Engineer to repair Jerry Nelson's approach. Motion unanimously carried.

The County Board set the Road, Bridge and Culvert Committee road inspection for June 1st, 1994 at 7:00 a.m.

The County Engineer discussed the repair needed of Judicial Ditch #25-3 immediately East of C.S.A.H. #13 in Section 6, Sanders Township. Repair work proposed is the removal of Concrete headwalls at both the upstream and downstream, the removal of approximately 150 feet of rusted CMP upstream to the toe of a dike, and removal of two 20 ft. sections of CMP downstream. The work proposed is estimated at $10,000. Commissioner Naplin moved, seconded by Commissioner Comstock to replace the rusted CMP's in the Structure in Section 5, Sanders Township. Motion unanimously carried.

The County Board then discussed Henry Hermanson's concerns regarding a crossing over J.D. #13 between Sections 14 & 15, Reiner Township. The County Board felt this was a Township matter and requested the County Engineer to contact the Reiner Township Officials.

The following resolution was introduced by Commissioner Swanson but died for lack of a second.

WHEREAS, the American Disabilities Act of July 26, 1992 provides for an employer, having 25 or more employees, to make available such facilities which will accommodate the handicapped, and;

WHEREAS, such compliance must be adhered to by January 25, 1995, and;

WHEREAS, the Pennington County Courthouse in order to be in compliance with the American Disabilities Act, must make certain modifications to its Courthouse;

NOW THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED, by the Pennington County Board of Commissioners, direct the County Engineer to prepare a REQUEST FOR PROPOSALS, to solicit Architectural and Engineering Firms to be interviewed by County Commissioners, and, the Firm selected shall evaluate and present alternatives to the Commission which will incorporate modifications to the Pennington County Courthouse to bring such building into compliance with the American Disabilities Act.

The following resolution was introduced by Commissioner Comstock, seconded by Commissioner Naplin and upon vote was unanimously carried with Commissioner Swanson voting against:

WHEREAS, Pennington County and City of Thief River Falls are contemplating the construction of a building located between the County Courthouse and the City Auditorium to meet the requirements of the Americans with Disabilities Act, and

WHEREAS, County and City desire to further investigate the feasibility of the Building with certain understandings,

NOW, THEREFORE, Be it hereby resolved that:

1. County and City shall jointly pursue the design, placement, operation, and feasibility of the building.
2. County and City should each make its land located between the County Courthouse and City Auditorium available for placement of the building at no cost.
3. County would be responsible for financing for the cost of the building.
4. County and City would be individually responsible for the cost of modifying the County Courthouse and City Auditorium to allow for connection to the building.
5. County and City would enter into a Joint Powers Agreement for the operation of the building to include a committee which would direct management of space, joint custodial services, repair responsibilities, operational decisions, and additional decisions as they arise.
6. City would provide electricity, sewage, and water utilities at no cost.
7. This resolution shall be subject to modification or termination as the process continues.

The County Board then read correspondence from the Court Administrator requesting that Barb Fladeland be appointed Chief Deputy Court Administrator, a position that had remained unfilled since Barbara Betto was appointed Court Administrator. Commissioner Swanson moved, seconded by Commissioner Jensen to approve the appointment of Barb Fladeland as Chief Deputy Court Administrator as of July 1, 1994 at the 4-year pay step. Motion unanimously carried.

Commissioner Comstock moved, seconded by Commissioner Naplin to reappoint Joyce Fox to a two-year term on the County Welfare Board. Motion unanimously carried.

OFFICIAL PROCEEDINGS
BOARD OF EQUALIZATION
PENNINGTON COUNTY
JUNE 17, 1994 – 10:00 A.M.

Pursuant to Law, the Pennington County Board of Equalization met in the County Board room of the Pennington County Courthouse in Thief River Falls on Friday, June 17, 1994 at 10:00 a.m.

Members present: Commissioners Oliver Swanson, Charles Naplin, Ken Murphy, Don Jensen and County Auditor Ken Olson.

Members absent: Commissioner Arden Comstock.

Also present was County Assessor Adeline Olson.

Roger Phillip appeared before the Board to request that the valuation on his property in the SW1/4, Section 10, Cloverleaf Township be lowered. Roger Phillip feels that the market value on his property is too high and should be valued closer to that of the land surrounding his. The County Board will check into how the property is valued and make a decision at the June 28, 1994 meeting at 9:00 a.m.

Scott Phillip discussed the valuation on his property described as the SE1/4, Sec. 7, Silverton Township. The ASCS Office says that there is 148 tillable acres on his property and Scott Phillip feels that there is more like 153 tillable acres on this property. Mr. Phillip stated that the property on the east and west of his are of the same soil type or better and therefore his property should not be valued at $55.00 more per tillable acre. Adeline Olson County Assessor referred to the Soil Survey map showing that Mr. Phillipp's property has the same or better soil on it. The Assessor also informed the County Board the value of his property had been lowered by $20.00/tillable acre at the Township Board of Equalization. Scott Phillip does not feel that the value of his property was decreased enough at the Township Board of Equalization. Moved by Commissioner Naplin, seconded by Commissioner Jensen to defer action on this issue until June 28, 1994. Motion unanimously carried.

Ron Rey, a representative from Arctco, Inc., appeared before the Board to request a reduced market value per square foot. Mr. Rey feels that the Arctco, Inc. is valued too high per square foot in comparison to the other similar types of buildings in town that are much smaller. Moved by Commissioner Swanson, seconded by Commissioner Jenson to defer action until June 28, 1994. Motion unanimously carried.

Dateine Johnson also appeared before the Board to request a decrease in the valuation of his property described as the NE1/4, Sec. 9, Sanders Township to be more comparable to the properties surrounding his. The County Assessor informed Mr. Johnson and the County Board that his property had a higher market value because the Soil Survey Map shows that his property has better soil than the properties surrounding his. Moved by Commissioner Jensen, seconded by Commissioner Naplin to defer action until June 28th, 1994 to allow the Assessor time to check the Soil Survey Maps. Motion unanimously carried.

Moved by Commissioner Swanson, seconded by Commissioner Jensen to direct the County Assessor to check the accuracy of the Pennington County Soil Survey Maps with the maps of the Soil and Water Conservation District. Motion unanimously carried.

Adeline Olson, County Assessor then informed the Board about the State ordered increase for payable 1995 taxes.

Adeline Olson also reviewed with the County Board of Equalization what happened with the Township Board of Equalizations.

Moved by Commissioner Naplin, seconded by Commissioner Jensen to adjourn to June 28th, 1994 at 9:00 A.M. Motion unanimously carried.

New State Laws to take effect in MN on August 1

The Department of Public Safety wants to remind the public of several significant new laws or changes to current laws that take effect on August 1, 1994.

Among the changes on August 1:

- Convictions for operating snowmobiles or ATV's under the influence of alcohol will appear on a person's driving record.
- Prior motor vehicle DWI's will increase the severity of snowmobile, ATV and boating under the influence violations to gross misdemeanors. Currently, snowmobile, ATV and boat violations already aggravate DWI violations, but until now the reverse has not been true.
- Any mandatory jail sentence resulting from a DWI conviction will include at least 48 consecutive hours of incarceration.
- Persons convicted of DWI within 10 years of five, or 15 years of seven previous alcohol-related license revocations will be sentenced to a minimum of one year incarceration or intensive probation using electronic monitoring.
- It will become a misdemeanor to present a canceled, suspended or revoked driver's license as proof of driving privileges. You will be able to keep a canceled, suspended or revoked license, but only for identification purposes.
- Fines collected for failure to secure children under the age of four in car seats will be deposited in a special account and used to provide car seats for low income parents and guardians and to educate them on the correct use of the seats.
- Instead of retaking a driving test if your license has been revoked, you will have to pass a written test specific to the particular problem that resulted in revocation. For example, persons with revocations because of a DWI violation will be tested on Minnesota's DWI laws and the problems associated with drinking and driving.
- A new violation of "Inattentive Driving" will be added to the basic speed law. This penalty will be a petty misdemeanor, and will be imposed in cases for which a careless driving violation may not be appropriate.
- Persons involved in crashes with damage totaling $1,000 or more will be required to submit an accident report. Current law requires such a report if damage totals $500 or more.
- It will be a gross misdemeanor for any person other than a licensed firearms dealer to transfer a pistol or assault weapon to another, 1) without complying with the transfer requirements of the gun control act, 2) if the person receiving the firearm uses it within the next year in the commission of a felony crime of violence, and if the receiver was legally prohibited from possessing the weapon at the time of the transfer or if it was reasonably foreseeable at the time of the transfer that the receiver was likely to use or possess the weapon in committing a felony crime of violence.
- Victims of violent crime will have two years to file a claim for financial assistance with the Crime Victims Reparations board. The deadline for victims to report the crime to police will also be extended from five days to 30 days.
- It will be unlawful to advertise the sale of fireworks in Minnesota.
- It will be unlawful to possess a gun or other dangerous weapon in the State Capitol.

Edward D. Jones sponsors business awards program

Entry forms are now available for "The Great American Main Street Awards" program. The recently announced program is co-sponsored by Edward D. Jones & Co. and the National Trust for Historic Preservation's National Main Street Center in an effort to recognize the best downtown revitalization achievements in the nation.

Candidates for the program's five $5,000 awards are municipalities of all sizes that are actively working to renew their downtown business districts. Winning entries will be selected on the basis of several criteria, including: active involvement by public and private sectors in the revitalization process; broad-based community support for the revitalization effort; overall success in boosting the downtown economy; and adaptive use and preservation of key historic downtown buildings.

Without teamwork and strong community support for downtown revitalization efforts, many small towns could become ghost towns in the near future, according to Richard Moe, president of the National Trust for Historic Preservation. "Healthy downtowns are one of the most important ingredients for a successful community-development strategy. The competition in the Great American Main Street Awards program will highlight some of the most innovative of those strategies which address an increasingly critical issue for American cities and towns today," he said.

It is an issue that hits close to home for Jones, whose investment representatives (IRs) are located in more than 3,000 offices in downtowns and neighborhood commercial districts across the country. As the largest brokerage firm in the nation in terms of number of offices, Jones maintains a corporate philosophy that embraces community involvement. In keeping with its grass-roots presence, Jones encourages its IRs to be involved in those cities and towns in which they live and work.

To obtain an entry form or additional information on the Great American Main Street Award program, contact Regan Rohl at (218) 681-8380, or call 1-800-441-2018, or write the National Main Street Center, National Trust for Historic Preservation, 1785 Massachusetts Ave., N.W., Washington, D.C. 20036. Applications must be received no later than November 15, 1994, to be eligible for program awards. The awards will be announced May 15, 1995, at the 1995 National Town Meeting on Main Street, to be held in Little Rock, AR.

Youths to learn about fishing at clinic Thur.

Approximately 120 youngsters are expected to participate in the third annual MinnAqua fishing clinic to be conducted Thursday, August 11, at the Red Lake River fishing pier near Chief Red Robe Park off Eighth Street in Thief River Falls.

The clinic is sponsored by the Thief River Falls parks and recreation department with assistance from the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources and a number of cooperating businesses and volunteers. Jeny Stumpf is handling arrangements for the event.

Activities for youngsters from eight to 14 years of age will get underway at 10 a.m. with a welcome. Participants will be divided into four groups to rotate through four stations of activity which will conclude at noon.

Lunch will be eaten from noon to 12:30 p.m. Each youngster participating is to bring a sack lunch and a $2 fee is charged for each participant. Youngsters are also invited to bring a new or old T-shirt to be used in a unique T-shirt printing activity. A white or light-colored shirt will work best and a shirt with an existing emblem on the front can be printed on the back at the clinic.

Stations during the morning session include a workbook program with Carol Stumpf, Marc Haugen, Julie Thorson and Minnesota Conservation Officer Tony Arhart of Holt.

T-shirt printing will be conducted by Tom Stumpf, Howard Greenwald, Sanna Torgerson, Paula Praska and Cliff Larson.

Food web tag will be directed by Derek Crompton, MinnAqua coordinator from Detroit Lakes; Linda Ronchetti, a volunteer from the Agassiz Environmental Education Council; and Corey Thorson.

Lake game will be led by Bob Eckstrom, assistant DNR manager from Baudette; Gretchen Mehmel, DNR employee at the Red Lake Wildlife Management Area; Howard Thorson and Craig Mattson.

A number of activities are also planned from 12:30 to 2 p.m. A bug hunt will be led by Sanna Torgerson, Bob Eckstrom, Howard Greenwald and Tom Stumpf.

Boat safety while fishing will be demonstrated in fishing boats or on a pontoon boat by Sheriff Gerald Moe, Ray Kuznia, Craig Mattson, Mark Haugen and Gretchen Mehmel.

Pop can rigging—showing how to use a soft drink can as a fishing rod and reel—will be taught by Cliff Larson, Linda Ronchetti, Corey Thorson and LeRoy Stumpf.

Water sampling will be shown by Derek Crompton and fish identification and fishing regulations will be discussed by Tony Arhart, Paula Praska and Jeny Stumpf.

Betty Johnson of Roseau, a member of the Agassiz Environmental Education Council, and Julie Thorson will assist in finishing up the T-shirt and workbook projects.

From 2 to 4 p.m. the actual fishing will be underway. Ray Kuznia, Mark Haugen, Gerald Moe, Craig Mattson and Julie Thorson will continue with boat safety instruction and Derek Crompton, Linda Ronchetti, Tom Stumpf, Paula Praska, Tony Arhart and Jeny Stumpf will teach pop can fishing.

Working with the fishing itself will be Bob Eckstrom, Howard Greenwald, Cliff Larson, LeRoy Stumpf, Corey Thorson, Sanna Torgerson, Gretchen Mehmel and Betty Johnson.

Young people will be well supplied for their fishing efforts Thursday. Not only will Derek Crompton bring four dozen rods and reels with him for use by youngsters who don't have their own, Gary Hoffman of Gary's Bait is donating 40 dozen nightcrawlers and two gallons of minnows for use by those fishing. Northland Tackle of Bemidji has also donated a number of lures.

Although registration for the fishing clinic officially closed August 5, last-minute arrangements can be made by calling the parks and recreation office at 681-2519. Parents are welcome and encouraged to attend.

Maggie Young of Scotland has spent the past two weeks learning about woodburning techniques from Ed Bjorgaard of Thief River Falls. Bjorgaard has been creating wildlife plaques for the past 17 years and was displaying his work at an art show in Ely when Maggie saw his work and became enthralled with the art.

Visitor from Scotland studies woodburning

by Marvin Lundin
Times Editor

It was purely by chance that wee Maggie Young of Penicuik, Midlothian, Scotland made the acquaintance of woodburning artist Ed Bjorgaard of Thief River Falls, but it was by design that she came to Thief River Falls to learn more about the art that she has adopted as her own.

And once she has picked up the woodburning stylus to try her hand at the art she freely admits that she "canna put it doun."

One needn't talk with Maggie for more than a couple of minutes to understand that she has become a fanatic about woodburning and that she considers Bjorgaard a master of the art.

In fact, one couldn't listen to Maggie for more than a couple of minutes without understanding that she finds it impossible to try to be anything but herself. She says exactly what she thinks and—if you can understand all that is said in that charming Scottish accent—you will soon know precisely what her opinion is of a number of things.

After spending much of her adult life working with, counseling and caring for others—including her husband who was hospitalized for nine years before his death several years ago—she decided that it was time she did something for Maggie instead. She came to the United States for the first time shortly after her husband died, because she didn't really want to face the Christmas and New Year holidays by herself at home in her city about 10 miles south of Edinburgh. She had spent the previous nine Christmases with him in the hospital.

This trip is her fifth or sixth to this country. She would have to think about it awhile to decide which, and it doesn't really matter all that much anyway. What does matter is that she discovered a hobby that has been both challenging and therapeutic, and that she has found a fellow enthusiast who is willing to help her learn and improve her technique.

Growth in Minnesota labor slows

Governor Arne H. Carlson and Minnesota Planning officials have released a report showing that the days of rapid labor force growth are over in Minnesota with the growth rate decreasing to two per cent between the years 2010 and 2020. Minorities and women will also make up a larger share of the state's future labor force.

To better prepare for the large women and minority contingent, Governor Carlson announced plans for an upcoming glass ceiling conference that will examine how to remove barriers that prevent career advancement opportunities for all people.

"These projected changes in our labor force compel us to respect and value all Minnesotans from all cultures, races and backgrounds," Governor Carlson said. "We must give everyone the opportunity to reach their full potential. That's why I am announcing an upcoming conference to examine the glass ceiling that prevents qualified employees from advancing within their organization."

"A Symposium on the Glass Ceiling", to be held on Thursday, August 25, will contemplate attitudes in the workplace, corporate culture, how to enhance opportunities, and how to provide mentor opportunities. The seminar is co-sponsored by a number of corporations and advocate groups.

"Everything we have come to cherish in Minnesota — our schools, our parks and the safety of our communities — depends on the health of our economy," Governor Carlson said.. "If Minnesota is to compete and win in the international marketplace, we must all recognize the great benefit of fully using the talents and abilities of our entire work force."

Former U.S. Secretary of Labor Lynn Martin has been invited to keynote the half-day symposium. Also speaking will be Dr. Emma Chappel, chair, president and CEO of the United Bank of Philadelphia. Dr. Chappel has come up against and broken through the glass ceiling to achieve outstanding success as a business woman and civic leader.

The report, "Tomorrow's Labor Force: The Next 30 Years", shows the state's labor force growing about 10 per cent between 1990 and the year 2000, eight per cent from 2000 to 2010, and two per cent between 2010 and 2020. These figures compared to growth of 16 per cent between 1980 and 1990 and 30 per cent in the 1970s. Slower population growth and a small supply of young, entry-level workers are among the demographic shifts that will produce lower levels of labor force growth.

The study projects that by 2020, 48 per cent of Minnesota's labor force will be women, compared to 46 per cent now. The proportion of the labor force that is non-white will go from four per cent in 1990 to 12 per cent in 2020; the concentration of non-white workers will be highest at younger ages.

"Another trend we're expecting is a pronounced aging of the work force," said State Demographer Tom Gillaspy. "As members of the baby boom generation age, the labor force will become noticeably older. During the 1990s, the number of workers ages 45 to 54 is projected to increase more than 50 per cent. By 2020, about 43 per cent of all people in the labor force will be 45 or older, up from 28 per cent in 1990."

Many rural areas are projected to experience a decline in their labor force in coming years, reflecting population losses. By 2020, the report says, about 64 per cent of the state's labor force will live in the Twin Cities metropolitan area, compared to 60 per cent in 1990.

"Tomorrow's Labor Force" is the last of a four-part series. The other reports dealt with statewide population, county population and household projections.

McIntosh Manor Nursing home plans family day

Family members and friends of residents of McIntosh Manor Nursing Home are invited to attend a family day on August 14. If the weather cooperates the event will be held outside.

Last year, McIntosh Manor was awarded a grant for $7,500 from AT&T. In this last year, the grant money was spent on items to enhance the lives of residents. On August 14, the Manor will show families and friends what was purchased and who helped with the grant.

Geri Bell of Denver, CO, whose father is at the Manor, informed the Manor of the grant. Through many telephone calls and faxes the cooperative effort to write the grant was completed. Andy Nelson, formerly of McIntosh and now living in St. Paul, also helped with the writing of the grant. Andy has an uncle living at McIntosh Manor. These two individuals will be present on August 14.

The Kermit Juve family will provide a musical program. Ice cream sundaes, and other refreshments will be provided.

It was while visiting with friends in Minnesota that Maggie attended an art show in Ely where Ed has successfully shown and sold his work for a number of years. She admired his wildlife plaques and pictures and struck up a conversation. And she began to wonder if she might be able to become a woodburner herself—just for Maggie.

Two years ago she bought one of Ed's pictures when she returned to the show. When she got to Minneapolis she bought one of the "machines" and took it home to her residence at Auchendinny Mains Cottage in Penicuik. She experimented with the art and even called Bjorgaard by phone to get his advice.

"But if you get a mental block, you canna clear it up by phone," she said. "If you screw up, you have to have someone show you what you did and how to do it right."

So last spring during a six-week trip to the United States, Maggie came to Thief River Falls during one of Ed's weekends off from work at the City of Thief River Falls water plant and picked up a couple of days of woodburning lessons.

That assistance convinced her that she needed to learn more. Her forthright and easy going manner had already made her seem like a member of the family, so when she called again and asked if they could put her up for a few days, there was no question about it. She is just finishing up "a fortnight"—two weeks—of lessons and practice in Thief River Falls.

"I've traveled quite a bit and been quite a few places and seen quite a lot of woodburning," she said, "but I've seen nothing that compares with Eddie's work. His is just the best that there is. I have been able to learn a lot just by watching him work, and he has been able to catch some of my mistakes and correct me."

Bjorgaard said that in their relatively short acquaintance Maggie has become almost like a sister. He is impressed with her enthusiasm for an art he has been developing for 17 years and with the ability she has shown despite a lack of any artistic experience or training.

"I couldna draw a square box," is the way Maggie describes her dearth of artistic background. "Now I'm pleased that people are wanting to buy some of my work and a store that sells fine crystal in my city has taken several items to sell."

One of the woodburned plaques Maggie creates tells the story of legendary "Greyfriars Bobby," a dog that watched over his master's grave for years with such loyalty that Queen Victoria decreed that he should be buried beside his master when he died. The plaque includes a woodburned picture of the dog as well as the written story.

Given Maggie's determination to excel and her enthusiasm to learn, it wouldn't be surprising if this is not her last trip to Thief River Falls. There might be another "mental block" or technical "screw up" in the future that demands professional attention. And as Maggie explains her current visit:

"Telephone calls cost money, too, so I figured what the hell, why not just hop a plane and go over and find out what to do first hand."

Why not, indeed.

Children eligible for MinnesotaCare

More children became eligible for enrollment in the MinnesotaCare health insurance program on July 1 under legislation passed this year, according to State Rep. Jim Tunheim of Kennedy.

The new legislation also allows individuals with incomes of up to $9,204 and couples without children who earn less than $12,300 to enroll in the program beginning October 1, he added. Many parents and children without insurance are already eligible.

"I urge all parents whose children are now eligible to look into the program," Rep. Tunheim said. "It can help provide the medical services necessary to help assure children grow up healthy when parents can't get other insurance."

The new law repeals a rule which denied eligibility to children who had access to health insurance through a parent or guardian's employer within 18 months prior to enrollment. For example, a child who applied for MinnesotaCare in June 1994 would have been ruled ineligible if the parent could have obtained health insurance at work at any time after January 1993. Today, a child can enroll if he or she meets other eligibility requirements.

"We found many cases where parents might be able to get free coverage for themselves through their employers, but had to pay high premiums to cover dependent children," Rep Tunheim said. "We kept the 18-month rule for adults because we want to encourage them to use employer-provided health insurance when available instead of MinnesotaCare. But this rule was accidentally hurting children."

Rep. Tunheim noted that about 70,000 Minnesotans are enrolled in MinnesaotaCare, which is not two years old. About two-thirds of the enrollees come from rural Minnesota.

Medical services that children can receive under MinnesotaCare include doctor and clinic visits, unlimited inpatient hospital services, dentistry (except orthodontics), immunizations, eye exams and glasses, most prescription drugs, emergency ambulance service and emergency room treatment and laboratory tests and x-rays.

Certain other rehabilitative, mental health and dependency services are also covered. There are no co-payments required for services to children, but adults do have to make co-payments for many services and different coverage limits apply.

To be eligible for MinnesotaCare, adults and children must be permanent Minnesota residents, not eligible for Medical Assistance or employer-provided health insurance and have been without health insurance for at least four months. In addition, individuals and families must meet income guidelines. The maximum income for a family of four is about $36,000 a year and $27,000 for a family of four.

Premiums are geared to the family or individual income, from $31 a month for a two-person household with a $12,000 income up to $352 a month for a family of six or more at the maximum income of about $48,000 a year.

For information or to apply for MinnesotaCare, call toll-free 1-800-657-3672. Applications and informative pamphlets are also available at many schools, public health facilities and social services offices and health facilities.

Safe In-Line Skating

The recent deaths of two young in-line skaters in Stearns county has focused attention on safety issues related to this increasingly popular sport. The two teenagers were struck by an automobile as they skated just outside of St. Joseph.

The tragedy underscores growing concerns about the potential for injury when in-line skating (commonly known as "rollerblading").

According to the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission (CPSC), an estimated 83,000 injuries related to the sport will be treated in emergency rooms this year, double the number seen in 1993.

Children under the age of 15 will sustain nearly 60 per cent of these injuries, including 23,000 fractures and 7,000 head injuries. "Parents need to realize that children are extremely vulnerable when they in-line skate," says Sue James of the Minnesota Safety Council's SAFE KIDS coalition. "Protective equipment and education are a must. When you buy in-line skates, buy protective gear as part of the package."

A review of in-line skating injuries published recently in the Journal of Trauma found that the wrist, elbow and lower arm were the most commonly injured body parts.

The authors noted that most of the injured skaters in their study had not mastered controlled skating and stopping techniques, and were not wearing protective equipment. The study concluded that wrist and arm injuries from in-line skating can be severe, and recommended protective gear for all skaters.

The Minnesota Safety Council recommends that skaters remember these safety precautions:

— Choose durable skates that fit your needs as a pro or a pleasure seeker. The boot of the skate should not be flexible — if you can squeeze it, there is not enough ankle support.

— Always wear protective equipment: wrist guards, elbow and knee pads, gloves and a helmet. Don't wear anything that restricts your hearing or vision.

— Wear fluorescent clothing during the day (Skating at night is not recommended, but if you choose to

Senior wellness clinic will offer nutrition screening

Study shows one of every four seniors is malnourished

Results from a recent survey by the National Screening Initiative based in Washington D.C. show that one in four older persons in the United States suffers from malnutrition.

In order to promote better health and nutrition care, Lutheran Social Services of Minnesota (LSS) will be offering free nutrition screening beginning in August and continuing through September for adults ages 60 and older at locations such as senior citizen centers, churches and elderly housing sites in Norman and Pennington counties.

The three-month project, funded by the Northwest Area Agency on Aging, is expected to serve over 900 individuals and will involve extensive interagency collaboration.

The Senior Wellness clinic will be held in Thief River Falls on Thursday, August 18, from 9 a.m. to 12 noon, at the Heritage Center. There will be a free blood sugar screening, blood pressure, nutrition screening and fitness assessment.

The Senior Wellness clinic will be held in Plummer on Wednesday, August 17, from 9 a.m. to 12 noon, at the Plummer Community Center. There will be free blood sugar screening, blood pressure and nutrition screening done at the clinic.

No appointment is needed at either of the clinics and the procedure should take less than half an hour. If transportation is needed, call the clinic site.

"This is such a needed service," said Elaine White, area director for Senior Programs for LSS. "We anticipate that projects like these around the nation will help to keep older persons living healthier lives and reduce medical care costs in the long run."

White said the nutrition screening project is a perfect fit for LSS, which helps over 19,000 older adults each year lead healthier lives by providing nutritious meals and activities through the Senior Nutrition programs in a 16-county area. White believes that preventive care services such as nutrition screening and meals reduce the risk of disease and promote health. "As an agency, LSS is committed to maintaining and improving the quality of life for each person we serve," she said.

Through the screening project, older adults will complete a checklist (nutrition screening tool). Project staff and coalition members will then visit with adults and suggest ways to improve their nutrition health if the screening indicates improvement is needed. Individuals who test in the danger zone will work with professionals to create a plan of action. Referral to other agencies is part of the process.

Education will be a major emphasis in the program. White said she hopes to dispel some of the myths about malnutrition, including the myth that people who suffer from malnutrition look emaciated and underfed. "Not true," White explained. "Many individuals who appear to look healthy may have a severe case of malnutrition. Poor diet is often the culprit. When the foods we eat lack the vitamins and nutrients needed daily to sustain health, the body ultimately weakens, leading to potential health problems."

"Encouraging older adults to take a more active role in staying healthy will also be an important part of the process," added White. The idea of older adults taking ownership in their own health care is also supported by Dr. Vernonica Smith, director of the Center on Aging.

"A change to a prevention mentality requires more than shifting the focus of health care professionals from acute care — it requires that individuals take a more active role in getting preventive services and accept responsibility for both their care and advocacy."

The nutrition screening project is a cooperative effort of area health and social service providers. A coalition has been formed to guide project staff with project development and implementation.

Ross Laboratories, a major supporter of the nutrition screening initiative at a national level, will assist LSS by providing materials. The nutrition screening project director is a registered dietitian with a master's degree in public health.

For more information or for rides to the screening, call your local screening site.

Historical Board meets

The main topic of discussion at a recent meeting of the Marshall County Historical Society board was repairs needed to the building at Settler's Square.

Alma Lutheran church is the second oldest organized church in Marshall county. Organized in October 12, 1880, and built in 1893, it was located in the southeast quarter of section 23 Alma township. It was used until 1962. This church played an important role in the lives of many people who lived in the area.

Alma Lutheran church was moved to Settler's Square near the Marshall County fairgrounds in 1963.

The weather has taken its toll on the structure and the Historical Society is seeking donations from the public to make the necessary repairs. Anyone interested in making a donation is urged to contact the Marshall County Historical Society, Box 103, Warren, MN 56762, or call (218) 745-4803.

The Marshall County Historical Society has also compiled a list of items needed by the society including: pictures of Eisenhower, Alma Lutheran church, railroads, school houses in the county, a computer, paper cutter, mannequins, and child or adult sized baseball uniforms.

SPEAKING OF

Sherry LaCoursiere

. . . Computers are Wonderful

Computers are wonderful things, especially for people who write like I do. I never get things right the first time, even when I write a letter to someone I have to add or take out or change the words.

I can't write on a typewriter. I just can't think right when the words are being put onto white paper right in front of my eyes and the only way I can change them is to go back and press the "correction" key.

Before I got a computer at home, I wrote my columns by hand on lined paper with a certain type of pencil. I would write everything down and then I would begin to change it, adding something here, changing a word or two, sometimes adding or deleting or moving whole paragraphs, erasing and crossing out. By the time the story was finished, only I could read what I had written, what with all of the arrows, the "Add A, B, C, etc." and the writing in the margins and top and bottom of the pages.

Nonetheless, after I had everything written so it sounded just the way I wanted it to, I would type it all out on the typewriter so it was readable. That was because when I took it to The Times, the typesetters would re-type what I had typed to get it into the paper. What a bunch of re-writing and re-typing!

As I said, computers are wonderful for people who write like I do. Now I can just run my little cursor around the screen and change whatever I want to before I print it out. I can block off whole paragraphs and put them in other places or delete them. I can pop my little cursor in wherever I like and add sentences or paragraphs.

And now I can save my whole story on a disk and take it in to the paper and all the typesetters have to do is get it into the right format instead of re-typing the whole thing. That little disk has everything just the way I wrote it.

Computers talk back too. They make strange noises when something is wrong. Mine isn't one of those fancy ones, but it says "beep" to remind me when I tell it to do something wrong or try to exit without saving my story.

I love my computer spell check but I love my thesaurus most of all. It is the best thing there is when I am stuck for a word and can't remember it – something that happens to me quite often – more often as I get older, in fact.

And there is something really odd that goes on when I use a computer. Perhaps it is only that I know I can change things if I want to before I print my story out, or that it doesn't seem so permanent on the little screen, but I don't find it necessary to make so many changes.

The words just seem to pour right out of my fingertips and flow onto the screen. I can just type and type and it seems that things work out fine. I rarely have to go back and add or change things now that I am using a computer.

Of course sometimes what I write is a little verbose and trite, but I have always written columns that were that way, some more so than others. In fact, I think this is getting to be one of those trite columns right now. Better to quit at this point and be trite than to continue and be verbose too.

But I really love my little computer!

— Skate on paved surfaces and be alert for surface changes such as potholes and oil spots. The CPSC recommends avoiding pavements with water, oil, debris, sand, gravel and dirt.

— Follow the rules of the road. In Minnesota, in-line skaters are legally considered to be pedestrians. According to the Minnesota Highway Patrol, this means skaters on public roadways are required to proceed on the left side of the road, facing oncoming traffic.

Strandquist

The Strandquist Senior Citizens met on Thursday for a day of fun and games with 15 members and three guests. Clara Nelson, Marian Pederson and Linda Cormier. Rummicube is one of their favorite games and some would like to learn Aggravation as they have heard that is the big game in other groups. The hostess who served the lunch was Helen Jacobson and the doorprize was won by Adeline Stonnes. They are going to have more rugs made and ready for sale for Christmas and that makes me happy to think I will be able to get some for gifts.

The weather this morning at 6:00 a.m. was below the 40 degree mark so we can soon kiss summer goodbye and our tomatoes are just beginning to get some color in them that isn't green. We are going to take a short trip so I showed Hazel the quilts to cover them with if it gets any lower.

Elsie and Ivan Kimbrough took Gladys Wilkes to Minneapolis on Tuesday after spending two weeks visiting them. She will spend a week visiting her friend, Marjorie Becker in Minneapolis before returning to her home in Dixon, MO.

Sunday dinner guests at Paul and Shirley Anderson's were Eva Bernard of Karlstad and Dale Bernard of Bemidji. Afternoon lunch guests were Morris Anderson, Bill Nelson, Allison Britten and Chana Challoo of Grand Forks. They were honoring Kristopher Anderson's 18th birthday, which was July 28th.

Dear Readers,
Friends should be sensitive to the changing moods and feelings of the bereaved. While it is important to be there when they want to talk, they should never be forced to share their inner feelings. You might say, "If you feel like talking, I'd like to listen."
Conversation is not necessary; it is important to accept your friend's silence.

As officers approached they drove around the building. It then stopped. The police report states that the driver got out and started walking away. He was placed under arrest but started walking away again when a passenger came around the back of the vehicle and started yelling obscenities. The passenger allegedly continued to interfere as the first subject began walking toward the squad car as instructed. The driver then started running away. In the confusion, the passenger got in the van and it took off. The officer thought the first driver was in the van so they stopped it again but they discovered that he was not in the van. ## IMPRESSIONS

Beth Johnson

At our household the relatives have come to visit. Now, relatives coming to visit can evoke feelings of "oh, no, not again", or "why me?", or "do they have to come???" But, in our household a visit from these particular relatives, my husband's brother and his family, evokes many pleasant memories of past visits and genuine hope, on my part at least, that we will once again have a good time together.

We have done many things together. We celebrated Christmas for many years together. We've watched our children grow into fine young adults who still like each other. We've worried about and laughed with one another throughout the years. We are relatives, and we are friends.

One activity always occurs when we get together. Sometime during our visits together, which because of distance are several days in duration, someone brings out a puzzle to do. We have done many puzzles together.

I claim to not be a person who likes to do puzzles. And, if asked to choose an activity I would probably not choose to do a puzzle. But, I have married into a puzzle-liking family. We actually have the old bread board that had 2 raised sides for holding a puzzle onto the board as the puzzle was done on the laps of older relatives. We have inherited quite an assortment of puzzles, and we have done all of them to my knowledge. Some of these are old heavy puzzles that seem to be able to stay together as one whole after they are completed. The boxes of puzzles we inherited have a distinct Johnson trait to them. When a Johnson would complete a puzzle, as the pieces were being taken apart again and placed back in the box, they divided the puzzle pieces and placed them in plastic bags so that only one half of the puzzle would be in each bag. That way the next person doing the puzzle would be able to conveniently do one half at a time and so be able to use the puzzle board on their lap. We do not use the puzzle board to do our puzzles, but we do tend to separate the finished puzzle into its halves before putting it away for the next person to do.

When the Johnson brothers' families get together we tend to not take out one of the older puzzles to redo. We tend to do the latest puzzle that one or the other of us have received as a Christmas present. Each Christmas it seems that someone in each family receives a puzzle as a gift. Sometimes the puzzle is done during the Christmas season, but it many times seems to be simply put aside until the relatives visit. We seem to like to find puzzles that have interesting pictures and are of a difficult level, if difficulty can be asserted by the number of pieces in the puzzle.

When we do a puzzle together, the trick is to find a spot that can remain a puzzle spot until the puzzle is completed. Currently my kitchen table, which has the best lighting of my tables, is the designated puzzle spot. Last year, a coffee table at a summer cottage was the place for our combined puzzle efforts. Some years it has been the dining room table with the Christmas decorations and tablecloth pushed to one side.

Doing puzzles together is a unique way of communicating. Those who claim to not like doing puzzles are drawn into the camaraderie of the puzzle doers. I find myself, after being drawn to the conversation, being sorely tempted to maybe even like putting together a puzzle. It is mighty puzzling how someone so disliking of puzzles can be hooked into doing one until it is completed.

I think that some of the best times we have spent together have been times spent around the puzzle table. We talk, we laugh, we simply work the puzzle in silence. We are satisfied when the puzzle is completed. Puzzle doing is not reserved for one generation. All of us spend time working the puzzle. We don't always need to be at the table, but we can come and browse for a while among the puzzle pieces, and as we browse among those pieces, we share bits and pieces of our lives. In that sharing, life becomes less puzzling.

Anne Padilla and Laura Williams recently attended the 57th National Association of Student Councils Conference in Chesterfield, MO. Both students serve as class representatives at Lincoln high school.

Students go to student association conference

Anne Padilla and Laura Williams recently returned from the 57th National Association of Student Councils Conference in Chesterfield, MO.

Padilla and Williams joined nearly 2,000 student delegates and 406 advisors from 50 states, Canada, Bermuda and Puerto Rico at the conference. The theme for this year's conference, which was held June 24-28, was "Gateway to the Best". The event host was Parkway Central high school in Chesterfield, MO.

Speakers at the conference included: Bonnie Blair, olympic speed skating champion; Dr. Jamison, first African-American female astronaut; Stone Phillips, co-anchor from NBC's Dateline; Richard Gephardt, majority leader of the House of Representatives; and Joe Holland, a Harlem businessman and advocate for the homeless.

Padilla and Williams are currently serving their third year on the Lincoln high school student senate as class representatives. Laura is serving as a representative on this year's Northwest Regional board.

Both are active in student senate because they want to be active in school activities and feel that the student senate has a major role in determining school activities.

They were interested in going to Missouri and talked to their advisor, Elaine Grovum, about it. She sent in their applications to the state advisor, Ardis Kyker, and they were accepted as two of the 50 delegates from Minnesota to attend the conference.

They now plan to take what they have learned at the convention, and passing on the new ideas and projects for the Lincoln high school student senate to use.

While in Missouri, they visited: Washington University where they attended workshops about alcohol abuse, leadership, global economics, careers, multi-culturalism, and AIDS; Six Flags Amusement Park; and the St. Louis Gateway Arch.

Anne is the daughter of Ernesto and Marcia Padilla.

Laura is the daughter of Cheryl and Brian Peterson, and Paul Williams.

Linda Plensner who is working for Campus Crusades out of Colorado visited Elsie Lefrooth on Wednesday. She also visited others around who have helped sponsor her work.

Jenny Anderson is spending this week working at Sand Hill Lake Bible Camp in Fosston.

Elaine Grovum from Thief River Falls was up to visit her mother, Elsie Lefrooth and perhaps give a hand at tuning up the basement for her. That is an urge that only comes around but once in 20 years, Elsie says. No more stashing fruit jars over there if we get too many at the auction.

Next Friday and Saturday and Sunday too, the Lorensons of Strathcona will have a big celebration marking off another 5 years. It falls on the same day that Royle Vagle is getting his doctorate in Colorado and since we can't be at two places at one time, we will have to wait another 5 years for a rerun.

Richard Thompson of Red Lake Falls visited Isaac Thompson's on Sunday afternoon. We are glad to say he seems to be getting along better and we wish him a complete recovery.

Gary and Barb Lewis and boys from Prior Lake and Marian Pederson visited Frank and Judy Kleinvachter on Friday evening. On Saturday, June Kasprowicz, Ellen Stromberg and Donald Larson stopped by to say hello.

TIMES FOR TODDLERS

ACTIVITIES

Mud Puddle Cake

This is a great cake to make and of course your children can "help":

1 1/2 cups flour
1 cup sugar
3 tablespoons cocoa
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon baking soda
6 tablespoons oil
1 tablespoon vinegar
1 tablespoon vanilla
1 cup water

Place dry ingredients directly into a 9" cake pan. Mix well. Make three indentations into this mixture with the back of a tablespoon. Place oil into one indentation, vinegar into one and vanilla into the third. Drizzle water over all. Mix well with a fork. Bake at 350 degrees for 25 minutes, cool and remove from pan. The cake will be moist and delicious!

PARENTING TIPS

When Your Toddler Hits!

As the title, "When Your Child Hits" implies, all children hit other children and will be hit. The question then, is, how should a parent handle hitting? According to a recent article in Parents Magazine, aggressive urges are really a sign of positive development. In other words, your toddler is trying to stand up for himself and to protect himself and is actively pursuing what he wants. However, this does not mean that you should allow this behavior to continue. Your child's behavior must be shaped to the rules and expectations of society.

There is a big difference, however, between teaching a child to suppress his aggressive urges and teaching him to channel them. You want your child to know that his behavior is unacceptable to you. You also want him to know that while you are unhappy about his hitting, you do not dissapprove of his standing up for himself. Therefore you will need to offer your child alternatives to hitting.

Parents Magazine offers these alternatives:

- Set limits
- Expect appropriate behavior from your child
- Don't use hitting to discipline
- Be a good role model
- Don't shame your child
- When a child is hit, step in and offer protection
- Keep your message brief
- Redirect behavior.

SOMETHING TO TALK ABOUT

Help your child to use words instead of blows. Even a toddler can say, "Don't!" and "Mine!" Also teach your child to ask for things rather than grab for them.

TRF Legion team ousted in District 9 tournament

Thief River Falls' American Legion baseball team lost its first game, came back to win its second but then was eliminated on Friday, August 5, at the Ninth District tournament played at Fergus Falls.

Moorhead won the tournament to advance in tournament play, but was extended to a play-off game on Sunday when beaten by runner-up Detroit Lakes 13-10 Saturday. The perennially tough Moorhead team gained an 8-3 victory over Detroit Lakes for the title Sunday.

Coach Howard Dalager's team, which finished the season with an overall record of 17 wins and 27 losses, got off to a good start in the opening round game against Roseau on Wednesday, taking a 3-1 lead in the third inning. Roseau scored three runs in the fifth inning to take a 4-3 lead, but Thief River Falls scored again for a 4-4 tie.

Roseau went ahead for good in the sixth inning when winning pitcher Aaron Larson helped his own cause by tripling in the fifth and deciding Roseau run.

Brian Minks went the first four and a third innings on the mound for Thief River Falls and gave way to Tim Barry in the fifth. Barry was tagged with the loss, surrendering the fifth Roseau run after Thief River Falls had tied the score.

Eric Bjorgaard had two doubles for Thief River Falls as the local club out-hit Roseau nine to eight. Each team committed two errors.

In other opening round games Wednesday, Crookston defeated Detroit Lakes 7-4, Fergus Falls shaded East Grand Forks 5-3 and Moorhead had a bye in the seven-team tournament.

Making a comeback effort in the losers' bracket Thursday, Thief River Falls played a 10 a.m. game against East Grand Forks and came away with a 5-3 victory. Chris Vanyo survived an eight-hit and eight walk performance to go all the way for the win as East Grand Forks stranded 13 base runners in the seven-inning game.

Thief River Falls scored its five runs on 10 hits, including a pair of singles by Steve Burslie—one of which drove in a run—and a clutch double by Jason Jenson which drove in the fifth run in the sixth inning. East Grand Forks committed three errors and Thief River Falls had two. Losing pitcher for East Grand Forks was Rudy Rivera.

In other games Thursday, Detroit Lakes defeated Roseau 10-6, Moorhead defeated Crookston 5-1 and Fergus Falls eliminated Roseau 12-2.

On Friday Crookston scored a 9-6 win to eliminate Thief River Falls from the double-elimination tournament.

Joby Looker was the starting pitcher for Thief River Falls and his teammates staked him to a 4-1 lead early in the game, also playing errorless ball in the field. Thief River Falls had nine hits, including a pair of singles by Eric Bjorgaard.

Crookston pounded out 10 hits off Looker and reliever Tim Barry, including a solo home run by Larouche and a two-run homer by Garrett Rock. Despite making five errors in the field, Crookston extended a 7-4 lead to 9-4 in the bottom of the sixth inning. Thief River Falls scored two in the top of the seventh to close the gap to 9-6 but could get no closer. Bobby Shimpa was the winning pitcher in relief for Crookston.

Also on Friday Detroit Lakes eliminated Crookston in a 10-0 shut-out and Moorhead blanked Fergus Falls 12-0.

Detroit Lakes continued its winning ways on Saturday, edging Fergus Falls 10-9 in eight innings and upsetting Moorhead 13-10 to set up the Sunday play-off won by Moorhead.

Coach Dalager, who is retiring from coaching the Legion team after this season, said his team had hoped for a better showing in the tournament but probably played within its capabilities. He credited Chris Vanyo for a gritty performance in gaining the win over East Grand Forks and noted that Eric Bjorgaard had a good tournament, getting two hits in two of the three games played and throwing out two runners at the plate from left field.

Kurt Marben named leading attorney in MN

Kurt Marben, Thief River Falls, has been named as one of Minnesota's leading attorneys.

The "Minnesota Consumer Guidebook Law and Leading Attorneys" named Marben among the 832 leading attorneys in the state. To create the list, 1,800 attorneys licensed to practice law in Minnesota were mailed questionnaires during the summer of 1992 that asked, "If a close friend or relative needed legal help in a certain area of law, to whom would you refer them?" After self-nominations were removed, an attempt was made to contact each nominee. The editors of the book then contacted 600 of these attorneys from whom they sought names of individuals in their practice area (where the attorney had been regarded as excellent) whom they held in highest regard. Additional calls were then made to those recommended during this phase. In a third phase, those attorneys regarded as outstanding by their peers as indicated by multiple independent referrals during the second phase were contacted. Altogether, over 2,000 Minnesota attorneys were interviewed.

Marben, of Charlson, Marben & Jorgenson in Thief River Falls, was cited as one of the top attorneys in the state in personal injury and civil litigation.

The editors of the book noted that, "This is not a ranking. This is not a "best of". And certainly there are numerous highly qualified and reputable attorneys not listed. We can say, however, that all the attorneys listed in this book are among the most highly qualified and reputable in Minnesota as determined by their peers in an extensive statewide survey."

The list also appeared in "Minnesota's Journal of Law & Polities", August 1994.

Wheat growers believe situation should improve

U.S. wheat grower's marketing situation should improve under a just-concluded trade agreement between the United States and Canada, according to the National Association of Wheat Growers.

The agreement was announced August 1, but details were made public August 2.

"The tariff schedule agreed to by the two sides is meant to compensate for the Canadian marketing monopoly and its rail subsidies which we consider to be unfair trade practices," said NAWG President Judy Olson.

Olson said her organization would focus on a provision in the agreement which establishes a commission of non-government specialists who are to report before next summer on steps that should be taken to ensure fair trading practices between the two countries.

"We look forward to farmer participation on this commission," said Olson. "We see it as a vehicle to reform trading practices not only between our two nations, bot also within all of North America."

Under terms of the agreement, Canadian wheat imports that could enter the United States without additional tariff would be limited to 1.5 million tons (55 million bushels), of which, not more than 450,000 tons (16.5 million bushels) could be durum wheat. Durom wheat imports between 300,000 and 450,000 tons would carry a tariff of $23 per ton, while imports over 450,000 tons would carry a tariff of $50 per ton. All wheat imports in excess of the 1.5 million ton cap would carry a tariff of $50 per ton.

The voucher may be used to repay student loans or pay college tuition.

For more information contact Michael Price at 612-290-3677 or Owen Wild at 612-290-3678. Applications for AmeriCorps positions in Minnesota are due by August 19. Send applications to SCS, AmeriCorps Project Director, 600 Farm Credit Service Building, 375 Jackson Street, St. Paul, MN 55101.

Construction workers at the Huck Olson Memorial Civic Center in Thief River Falls were busy removing part of the floor. # Research looks for solutions to head scab on wheat, barley

Wheat and barley producers in Minnesota suffered an estimated $300 million loss in 1993 because of head scab, and early estimates are that the disease will cause significant losses this year. A University of Minnesota research and outreach initiative is looking for both short and long range solutions to the problem by conducting field experiments at a number of locations in Minnesota.

Head scab is a disease caused by fungi that infect the kernels of wheat and barley. Warm, wet weather at flowering or early in kernel development makes the plants vulnerable to head scab. In addition to reducing yields, the disease causes wheat kernels to be small, shriveled, light-weight and bleached. The fungus responsible for head scab also produces a toxin called vomitoxin that accumulates in the grain.

The research and outreach initiative was funded by a special appropriation of $477,000 from the Minnesota legislature. The initiative's priorities were established through discussions with producers and researchers.

"In the short term, we're trying to learn more about the biology of the fungus that causes head scab," said Philip Larsen, who is coordinating the initiative. "We're also investigating how management practices such as tillage, crop rotation and fungicide applications affect the disease." Long range work will focus on breeding new, high-yielding wheat and barley varieties that are genetically resistant to head scab. The research is being coordinated with similar projects underway in South Dakota, North Dakota and Canada.

Five research projects have been made possible by the initiative funds. They are: the development of disease resistant wheat and barley varieties; investigating the biology, epidemiology and management of head scab; mycotoxin research and analysis; determine the effects of scab-infested grain on processing quality; and studying the storability of scab-invested grain. Initiative funds are also being used to hire a small grains specialist at the Northwest Agricultural Experiment Station in Crookston. The specialist will coordinate head scab research in the area.

Think before you read into report

Mary Jo O'Brieo, commissioner of the Minnesota department of health, issued this statement.

On July 27, the National Resources Defense Council released a report titled "Think Before You Drink." The report looked a violations of the federal Safe Drinking Water Act by public water supply systems across the nation, as reported to the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency during 1992-1993. The report concluded that as many as 50 million Americans face serious health risks because of unsafe drinking water.

Here in Minnesota, the report was cited by the Clean Water Action Alliance as proof that we, too, have potentially very serious problems with our drinking water. The Alliance concluded that as many as several hundred thousand Minnesotans may be at risk of illness because they drink water from systems that had reported violations during the two year period covered in the report.

These conclusions would be extremely alarming if they represented an accurate picture of the way things are. But in fact, they are based on a very serious misunderstanding and misinterpretation of the violations data reported to EPA. The overall impression left by the report is alarmist, misleading, and a disservice to the people of Minnesota.

Almost all of the 565 violations reported in Minnesota during 1992-1993 were "paper" violations, relating to monitoring, reporting or record-keeping requirements. Such violations typically involve an isolated failure to complete or report a test — rather than a systematic breakdown of the monitoring and and they don't represent the kind if imminent public health threat that was suggested by NRDC and CWAA.

Only 46 of the reported violations in Minnesota during the two year period involved substandard water quality. Bacterial contamination was the most common problem. In all cases, the problems were quickly corrected, and the people using the water were promptly notified of any necessary protective actions. Our state's public water supply systems are required to notify their customers when problems of this kind arise — either through the mass media or other means. If they aren't able to do it, the Min-

Fluorescent lamps must be recycled

As of August 1, 1994, used fluorescent lamps and high intensity discharge (HID) lamps cannot be placed in the household trash and must be recycled because they contain mercury, the Minnesota Pollution Control Agency (MPCA) announced. Lamp recycling programs, sponsored by utilities, county government and recyclers, are being established throughout Minnesota.

This new law requires that all state utilities must promote the use of fluorescent and HID lamps and inform their customers where to take spent lamps. The state's largest utility, Northern States Power (NSP) is required to establish a collection system for its customers. NSP is working with county programs to pay for the collection, transportation and recycling of the lamps. Residents should contact their county solid waste programs or local utility about details on the lamp collection program.

Businesses have been required to recycle lamps since last August 1. Potentially, 200 pounds of mercury can be kept out of the environment if the approximately 2 million lamps produce electricity will emit less sulfur dioxide, nitrogen oxide and mercury, along with the greenhouse gas, carbon dioxide. For example, over the lifetime of a 28-watt compact fluorescent lamp, 1,020 pounds less carbon dioxide are emitted from power plants, according to the MPCA.

However, the lamps contain mercury and their disposal needs to be managed properly to prevent mercury from being released to the environment from waste incinerators or from landfills. When mercury is deposited in lakes and waterways, it may eventually end up in the tissues of fish and other aquatic life. Even the smallest amounts of mercury are a threat to the environment because mercury increases in concentration as it is passed along the aquatic food chain.

Mercury that has accumulated in fish tissue can be passed on to wildlife and to humans who eat these fish. Mercury affects the central nervous system in humans and wildlife. Ninety-four per cent of the lakes surveyed in Minnesota have mercury contamination, which has prompted warnings against unlimited fish consumption, according to the MPCA.

Earlier this month, the MPCA

Buffalo in the Fertile Sand Hills?

On October 1, 1993, the Agassiz Environmental Learning Center received a grant from the World Wildlife Fund to study the possibility of reintroducing buffalo into a portion of the Fertile Sand Hills. Funds were also provided to plan for weed control, prescribed burning and site restoration.

Since that time, a proposal has been drafted and is ready for public review. The public is invited to attend an information session at 6:30 p.m. on Wednesday, August 10, 1994. This will be held at the Nature Center in the Fertile Sand Hills. Brian Martin, site manager of the Cross Ranch near Bismarck, ND, will be present to answer questions about managing natural areas with buffalo. Other resource people will also be available.

For more information call Dan Hasbrouck at (218) 945-3204.

Minnesota Deer Hunters Association in Thief River Falls donated $100 to Northland Community Hospice recently. The money will be used to help offset the cost of Medicare Certification for Hospice. ## Whole Wheat BIBLE STUDY

Information on righteousness

After you read through this Bible study, go back and look up the Scriptures and highlight them in your Bible.

Is it possible to be righteous and still not be pleasing to God? The word of God says yes. The Pharisees were very righteous but they were righteous for self instead of for the right reason (Matt. 23:13, 25-26). They wanted recognition, fame and fortune. They loved receiving publicity for their righteousness (Matt. 5:20; 6:1).

Many people today have a zeal for God but not with the right knowledge of what God really wants them to do (Rom. 10:2-3). They are not doing their righteousness for God and glorifying Him with their good works (Matt. 5:16). They are not doing all the good works that they do or the good words that they say in the name of Jesus Christ, as true disciples are commanded to do daily (Col. 3:17). Many are not doing their righteousness in secret, as God has commanded (Matt. 6:3-6). Many are not doing their righteousness in order to overcome the evil pulls of their nature (Rom. 12:21; Psalm 34:14; 37:27).

Because many are doing righteousness for the wrong reasons, they are establishing their own righteousness. Therefore, many do not even believe they are evil or in need of repentance when they are still being held captive by Satan to do his will (2 Tim. 2:26).

The more righteousness you do for God for repentance, the more you become aware of how unrighteous you really are (Rom. 7:18). The more righteousness you do for self, the more unaware you become of how evil you really are (Luke 11:13).

It's lethal to do good for any other reason than to glorify God daily. Your righteousness must be done in secret and not to be admired by others. Your righteousness must be done to show God respect (fear) and love. This is how to keep God's Ways of righteousness in your life.

Go to God and ask Him to show you His Ways. Do not continue to do it your way, because God's Ways are not our ways (Is. 55:8-9). Our ways are Satan's ways (Eph. 2:3).

Let's follow the righteous directions for conversion found in God's word (Acts 26:20). Repent! Turn to God by performing good works for reasons of repentance and to build godly character (1 Tim. 4:7-8). By doing good for God, let's seek Him and become righteous in all our ways (Rom. 3:10-12; 1 John 3:7). Let's prove to be disciples of Jesus Christ by bearing good fruit (good works) on our spiritual trees (Col. 1:10; Matt. 7:19; 3:10).

nesota Department of Health will do it for them.

The violations reported to EPA represent only a tiny fraction of the required monitoring, reporting and testing actions that are undertaken every year in Minnesota, as part of our ongoing effort to protect the quality of the state's drinking water. What's more, the fact that we are finding those problems that need to be corrected. Minnesota is one of the few states in the nation where the state health department monitors the quality of the water in small and medium-sized water supply systems, rather than relying on the water utilities to do it themselves. The overall quality of our drinking water is excellent, and our overall level of compliance with the Safe Drinking Water Act is among the highest in the country. Minnesotan's public water supply systems do not pose the kind of health risk implied in the NRDC report, and to imply that they do is both unwarranted and irresponsible.

55 Alive Program Gets Vote Of Approval

From time to time the Thief River Falls community has offered the 55 Alive mature driving course, an awareness and training program that can contribute to making better and safer drivers of people over 55 years of age. One of these classes is being arranged at the present time through the Heritage Community Center and will be held within the next month or so.

The 55 Alive program received a vote of approval recently from the National Association of Independent Insurers (NAII), a trade organization which represents more than 570 property and casualty insurance companies nationwide. It points out that the course points out how aging affects driving, offers compensating techniques, provides a thorough review of the rules of the road and emphasizes defensive driving techniques.

Why is such a course of value to people who have been driving automobiles for several decades and consider themselves to be careful, courteous and considerate drivers? The NAII offers a few numbers in explanation.

By the year 2020, the number of licensed drivers over age 75 will more than double to 17.5 million. Those who believe half of the current number are usually ahead of them on two-lane roads may exaggerate the conditions, but it is true that any driving behavior which interrupts a normal traffic flow can contribute to accidents. That includes excessively slow traffic as well as excessive speed.

Men over the age of 80 have the highest auto accident death rate of all drivers, and women between the ages of 80 and 84 have motor vehicle death rates equal to teenaged girls aged 16 through 19—even though fewer elderly people have licenses compared with younger groups, and they drive fewer miles, according to the NAII. The rate of fatal auto accidents for both males and females begins to increase at age 65.

Lowell Beck of the NAII calls attention to the reasons for concern.

"As we get older," Beck says, "we process information, make decisions and react more slowly, while our hearing and vision decline. Night vision also is affected and it gets harder to see in poor light. Reflexes aren't as quick and many elderly people take prescription and non-prescription drugs that impair vision, equilibrium, judgment and reaction time."

When older drivers do get into accidents, they may be more vulnerable to injury. Federal car safety regulations are geared to protect five foot-10-inch, 170-pound men involved in 30 miles-an-hour head-on crashes. The elderly typically aren't that big and they often get hit on the side. Their short stature may force them to sit close to the steering wheel, which increases the chance of injury from air bag deployment.

Almost half of the accidents involving the elderly occur at intersections and elderly drivers are more likely than younger ones to be ticketed for failure to yield, improper turns and running stop signs.

Beck offers some suggestions for safer driving by senior citizens, such as:

- Keep a safe distance from the car ahead;
- Avoid driving during rush hours;
- Avoid driving if on medication that may affect driving skills;
- Limit driving in congested areas or on limited access roads with high speed traffic and complex interchanges;
- Plan shorter trips with frequent breaks;
- Limit night driving and driving during inclement weather;
- Use extra caution when approaching intersections.

As an incentive to made drivers safer as they continue to drive longer, many insurance companies offer premium discounts to people over 50 who have good driving records and/or take the mature driving course. Those interested in learning more about how to be safer drivers to protect themselves and others and to hold down the cost of auto insurance may investigate the 55 Alive program or talk to their insurance agent.

Just A Few Thoughts To Ponder Over Breakfast

Need a few ideas to give some thought to when shaving, drying your hair, putting on make-up or having that first cup of morning coffee? Here are three that came to our attention as we shuffled through mail accumulated during a week of vacation:

(1) As the federal government increasingly attempts to expand control over the citizenry, consider that the "Bill of Rights"—the first 10 Amendments to the U.S. Constitution—deal with prevention of just such intrusion. The first nine prohibit the government from infringing on specific freedoms such as speech, assembly, the right to keep and bear arms, and others. The 10th says, in effect, "If we forgot anything, the federal government can't do that either." Specifically, the 10th Amendment says: "The powers not delegated to the United States by the Constitution, nor prohibited by it to the States, are reserved to the States respectively, or to the people." Should Congress be obligated to recite that Amendment every morning?

(2) Chemical-free agriculture is being promoted by environmentalists as necessary to saving wildlife and protecting the environment. Dennis Avery, director of global food issues for the Hudson Institute disagrees. He says that "biotechnology will save millions of lives in the years ahead, but its biggest contributions will be in the agriculture and forestry which cover three-fourths of the earth's surface. Without high-yield agriculture, the world could expect to lose virtually all of its wildlife habitat over the next 50 years. With high yield agriculture, the world needs to lose virtually none of it." It makes sense. If more land has to be used to produce low-yield crops to feed people, less land can be left for use by non-human species. Agree or disagree?

(3) By the year 2000 a projected 86 per cent of the jobs in the United States will require some training beyond high school, according to the U.S. Department of Labor. But 70 per cent of the jobs will not require a four-year degree. Workers with technical skills will have many opportunities since 37 per cent of the new jobs will be in technical careers. How far should high schools stray from established college prep programs to tech prep programs?

Happy pondering!

THIEF RIVER FALLS TIMES

Thief River Falls, Pennington County, Minnesota August 10, 1944

From The Times Files of Fifty Years Ago

Emergency Farm Workers Help In Harvest

"Up to the first of this week, 2,430 acres of grain have been shocked by emergency workers according to County Agent Ernest A. Paltoer. This acreage was shocked by 120 men, 3 boys and 2 women, who worked approximately 2,200 hours. Charles Richards, Emergency Farm Help assistant working through the county agent's office, has lined up 24 crew captains in 15 business places in Thief River Falls. Each captain has a crew of men under him and contacts these men when an order comes in."

Chartered Bus To Go To State Legion Meeting

"Oscar E. Lewis of Bagley, Ninth district commander of the American Legion, has arranged for a chartered bus to transport Legionnaires and auxiliary members from this district to the state convention of the Legion in Mankato August 18 to 20, it was announced this week. Any local members wishing to go to the convention are asked to make their wishes known to George Werstlein."

From The Editorial Page

"By a score of 58 to 1 the voters of this district authorized the school board to proceed with their plans for building a garage to house their transportation equipment. In the neighborhood of three thousand voters were not sufficiently interested in the question to journey to the polls. We can't be bothered with such nickel and dime deals as the expenditure of a mere seven or eight thousand dollars."

And Another One

"Wind and rain did a lot of damage Tuesday, but not all of the damage was confined to crops and farm buildings. Many basements in town were flooded, causing some loss and much inconvenience. Some day the good people of our city are going to rise in righteous indignation and build themselves a swell system of storm sewers. Right now our storm sewer system is thought of only in extremely wet weather. It really isn't necessary to continue a condition that forces all our people to pound plugs into floor drains every time a cloud appears."

And the Sports

"The game of ball played last Sunday between the Thief River Falls club and a nine from Red Lake Falls and St. Hilaire for a purse of $10 was one of the most interesting games of the season. The clubs were very evenly matched and except in the first innings when Thief River Falls made nine tallies, the game was close and well played. It was agreed at the start to play only seven innings and at the close the score stood 16 to 15 in favor of Thief River Falls. There was a good sized crowd to see the game and the players were well cheered whenever a good play was made."

IT'S BACK-TO-SCHOOL TIME

School District 564's new Challenger elementary school will open September 19

Bev Arnston becomes School District curriculum coordinator

After completing a challenging two-year assignment to change social misconceptions about college and employment in northwestern Minnesota, Bev Arnston has taken on new responsibilities as curriculum coordinator for School District 564. The position was previously held by Marie Hvidsten.

Arnston was hired in 1992 as part of a $200,000 federal grant to help prepare high school students for a changing, technical work force. Her title was Tech Prep Coordinator and she served the Northwestern Minnesota Tech Prep Consortium through her office at the school district service center in Thief River Falls.

Arnston said she is pleased to be able to be in a position where results of her past two years' efforts can be monitored and she perhaps can provide continuing assistance.

"We're experiencing a paradigm shift, a social phenomenon," she said about her past two year's work. "For two generations we've believed that a four-year college education was a guarantee of success and life-time employment. Today, all of our statistics show us otherwise and we need to get the message to parents and children."

The message was also carried and emphasized to educators.

Arnston's job was to integrate academic and vocational education. In the past, the focus of vocational education in the public schools was to prepare students for employment directly out of high school. Arnston says complex, rapidly changing work place technology has made post secondary education a necessity.

"According to the Department of Labor, 37 per cent of the fastest growing careers are in technical fields, requiring a two-year diploma or associate degree," she said. "At the same time, statistics also show only 23 per cent of all Minnesotans who start baccalaureate program finish with a degree.

"For years, students have been embarrassed to admit they're not going from high school to a four-year college, but students and parents need to learn to value technical education. That's often where the money is, and that's the future for employment."

Arnston also says academics to prepare for a technical program should be just as challenging as preparation for a four-year baccalaureate degree.

"Applications in advanced math and science, including physics and algebra, English, communications and computer proficiency can well be provided in the high school setting," she said. "It's critical that high school students graduate with the applied academics they need to study successfully for a huge variety of technical careers."

Arnston admits it's not easy to change social misconceptions concerning education and career training. After two years of working with secondary and post-secondary staff from her office in Thief River Falls, she believes all the work is "only a start."

In 1995 the Northwestern Minnesota Tech Prep Consortium will merge with the North Borders group headquartered in East Grand Forks, where continuing grants will fund an on-going public education program focused on changing public and education perceptions and attitudes.

"Public awareness is really the key," Arnston said. "Parents need to know that investing in a four-year college education is not the only route to future success, and students need to understand that successful technical careers start with a solid program of applied academics in high school."

Bev Arnston has been named curriculum coordinator for School District 564 after two years as coordinator of the Tech Prep program. Tech Prep is intended to create opportunities for students interested in technical careers to participate in applied academic courses that strengthen their preparation for further post high school training.

Shakespeare gives way to 'applied communications'

After 17 years as a teacher of English, Regina Olson says she has taken her last student "kicking and screaming through Macbeth" as a requirement for graduation.

It's not that the Thief River Falls language arts instructor doesn't appreciate or enjoy teaching Shakespeare. Olson says many students read the play with wonderful appreciation. However, she adds, most find the language difficult and some never do understand why it's taught. The time has come, she admits, to address the question, "Why am I trying to learn this?"

In a world of technological innovation and sweeping social change, Olson says students also need classes which directly connect their lives to their futures.

In response to this need, applied communications was introduced last year at Lincoln high school as an alternative to British Literature, which has been a requirement for graduation. The curriculum for the class, written by Olson, has been enthusiastically received by Tech Prep program managers with the Minnesota Department of Education.

Olson is one of only 20 Minnesota teachers, selected by the state education department, to promote a high school curriculum emphasizing Tech Prep.

As with traditional English classes, applied communications teaches reading, writing, speaking and listening skills, but the focus is on using these skills in the highly competitive, technological workplace. The class is designed with business needs in mind.

Just as jobs in the future will require more mathematics and science, future employment will also require strong communication skills. Olson says research shows most people don't lose jobs because they can't do the work; most people lose jobs because they can't work with people.

So in addition to teaching writing and reading skills, applied communications is intended to foster desirable workplace behavior—such as responsibility and integrity—and to develop students' abilities in problem solving and working cooperatively. Literature studied in the class is used to discuss workplace situations rather than the traditional study of character, plot, setting and theme.

Many of Olson's students are already applying skills they've learned in the classroom at part-time jobs on weekends, after school or during the summer months when school is not in session. Minnesota teens have the highest teen employment rate in the nation at 69 per cent.

Tech Prep is part of the school reform movement that hopes to deliver the highly skilled, highly trained work force of the future. The Tech Prep [illegible] to improve competen[illegible] needed in the workplace and essential for post secondary studies. The high school Tech Prep process prepares students for two-year associate degree and technical colleges and, ultimately, careers that maintain and improve their quality of life.

So what about Shakespeare......"To be, or not to be?"

Macbeth or Hamlet will always be part of Olson's British Literature class. "Macbeth is art," she says. "Some people see that, appreciate it, and even create it. Some people don't. That doesn't mean they're not smart. It simply means they have other talents; they're smart in other areas. It's time we value other ways of being smart. Tech Prep offers students an alternative that reflect the reality of the workplace."

Regina Olson, language arts instructor at Lincoln high school, is one of a number of School District 564 teachers who have incorporated applied academics into their instructional curriculum as part of the district's Tech Prep emphasis.

Public library offers hints for students

by Heidi Hoks
Librarian
Thief River Falls Public Library

Welcome back to school! The Thief River Falls Public Library offers you a head start on assignments as you start the new school year. Here are a few helpful hints:

(1) Before you visit the public library, make sure you've checked your school library for the information you need. School library collections are based on the curriculum, so the school library purchases materials to help you when you're researching classroom assignments. The public library fills the general needs of people in the area from birth to death and is no substitute for the school library. It is, however, great resource for additional information once you've exhausted the resources of the school library.

(2) Bring all necessary materials to the library including pencil, pen, paper, assignment sheet, your library card and change for using the photocopy machine.

(3) Make sure you know exactly what your assignment is. Also be sure you know the date it is due and how much information you need. (For example, if you only need to do a one-page paper, you won't need to look up as much information as if you were doing a 10-page report.)

(4) Start early. The more time you have to gather information the better chance you'll have to get all the information you need. If you come in the day before your report is due, you may find all the books you need have already been checked out and that there is no time to get information from another library.

(5) If you need it, ask the public library assistants to help you. They have expertise in locating information and they'll be happy to aid you. They won't write your paper for you, but they will do all they can to help you find what you need to know so you can write it.

(6) World Book Encyclopedia is not the only place you can find information. Use all the resources with information that are available in the library. That includes books, magazines, video cassettes, audio cassettes, computer software and pamphlets. In addition, if you need information which is not available in the local library, the public library can obtain books from other libraries through inter-library loan and call for specific information from other libraries.

(7) Once you've found your information, be sure to make a note of where you found it, as well as the author, title, publisher, date, volume and/or number and the pages used.

(8) If you need a short answer—like the definition of a word or whether the library has a particular book available—just call. Our number is 681-4325. If you need something that requires a little research, however, please come to the library and we will do all we can to help you find it for yourself.

For your convenience, the Thief River Falls Public Library is open during the following hours:

Monday-Thursday—9 a.m. to 8:30 p.m.;
Friday—9 a.m. to 5 p.m.;
Saturday—10 a.m. to 5 p.m.;
Sunday (October-April)—1 p.m. to 5 p.m.

Remember, the Thief River Falls Public Library is here to help you with your needs. Visit us often.

Franklin middle school construction includes a great deal of interior remodeling, including the conversion of Mark Twain elementary school (at upper left in the aerial photo above) into space for middle school classes. The multi-purpose area at the right in the photo was delayed when a wind storm in late July toppled the north wall of that addition, requiring reconstruction.

Krause selected for more GEMS classes

Al Krause, science instructor at Franklin middle school in Thief River Falls, recently completed a four-day program of instruction in the GEMS program at the University of California at Berkeley.

GEMS stands for Great Explorations in Math and Science. Krause has been involved in the program for a number of years, attending summer sessions on various science programs which he uses in his FMS classes and teaches to other science teachers at seminars and workshops.

Krause applied for the GEMS Associate's Workshop at Berkeley and was one of 32 selected from throughout the United States to participate in the program.

By completing the course at Berkeley, Krause has been certified as a GEMS Associate. His attendance at the course in California was co-sponsored by the Headwaters Science Center at Bemidji and the Franklin Middle School staff development program.

The workshop is designed to provide participants with firsthand experience with GEMS units, in-depth knowledge of the GEMS philosophy and approach, familiarity with the ways GEMS addresses national, state and local frameworks, benchmarks and standards, knowledge of how GEMS can be used to construct a larger curriculum and effective strategies for introducing teachers to, and supporting their use of, GEMS.

During the session, Krause received instruction in programs called "Frog Math," "Bubble Festival," "Moons of Jupiter," "Mystery Festival" and "Terrarium Habitats." He has previously studied (and used) "Paper Towel Testing," "Bubble-ology," "Color Analyzers," "Crime Lab Chemistry," "Fingerprinting" and "Oobleck: What Do Scientists Do?"

Krause has previously presented workshops for teachers at Northland Community College and Drayton, ND, in addition to Thief River Falls and was a presenter at the International Middle School Conference in Grand Forks, ND.

He is scheduled to present an area workshop in October at the Headwaters Science Center in Bemidji—the first certified GEMS Center in Minnesota—and another workshop there in the spring of 1995. He is also available to present workshops at the request of other educational groups or institutions.

Chairman of the Lawrence Hall of Science at the University of California Berkeley, where the GEMS workshop was held, is Glenn T. Seaborg. Seaborg received the Nobel Prize for chemistry in 1951, was chancellor of the Berkeley campus from 1958 to 1961 and chairman of the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission from 1961 to 1971.

"The GEMS program has been very helpful to me over the years in being able to relate scientific experiences to my students," Krause said.

"I especially appreciate the opportunity to attend the sessions at Berkeley and as a GEMS Associate look forward to sharing what I learned with other science teachers in the area as well as students at Franklin middle school."

Minnick acting NCC president

Susan Minnick will serve as acting president at Northland community College during the 1994-95 academic year while Dr. James Haviland is on sabbatical leave.

Minnick has served as dean of students for the past three years at Northland. Prior to coming to NCC she was director of community outreach at Willmar Community College.

Minnick said she is looking forward to continuing the groundwork Haviland has started as the movement toward merger continues.

"Having worked with Jim these past three years, I share the same concerns and vision," she said. "My moving into this position will allow us to proceed along the same pathway while he is on sabbatical leave over the next nine months."

Major issues that will confront Northland this year include the two building projects the college is currently involved in: The multi-event cultural center and internal remodeling of the campus to facilitate merger of Northland with the Thief River Falls campus of Northwest Technical College.

Academically, the college focus will be on transfer curriculum issues. Beginning in the fall of 1995, general education requirements will be the same at community colleges, state universities and the University of Minnesota.

"This will ease the process of transferring for the students," Minnick said. "Walter Cullen will bring system-wide expertise to our faculty when they begin to reassess our curriculum."

Minnick also looks forward to working with Dr. Orley Gunderson of the technical college on both external and internal merger issues.

Acting president Minnick is affiliated with the following professional organizations: Business and Professional Women, National Association of Student Personnel Administrators, National Council on Community Service and Continuing Education, National Women Studies Association, America Association of Women in Community and Junior Colleges, Discovery Place board of directors and the Regional Child Care Resource and Referral Committee board for directors.

Academic Affairs dean named

Having held both teaching and administrative positions within the Minnesota Community College System in the last 26 years, Walter Cullen brings a wealth of knowledge and expertise to his new position of Acting Dean of Academic Affairs at Northland Community College for the 1994-95 school year.

For the past seven years, Cullen has held the position of Director of Faculty Development for the Minnesota Community College System. As director he helped arrange professional development opportunities for faculty including implementing such programs as Critical Thinking, Writing Across the Curriculum, sabbatical leaves and International Global Training.

While at Northland, Cullen's primary responsibilities will include working with transfer curriculum issues, faculty evaluations, class schedules, interactive television coordination, program reviews and North Central focus reports.

Even though he admits to being a "city dweller," he says he is excited about living in a small rural community.

"I've neither lived in a city nor worked in a college this size," he said. "This will be quite an experience for me and I hope to learn a great deal from it." An avid outdoorsman, he also looks forward to experiencing outdoor recreational activities in northern Minnesota.

Cullen's educational background includes doctoral work in educational administration and American studies at the University of Minnesota, a graduate certificate in chemical dependency from the University of Minnesota, a master of arts degree in English from Notre Dame University, a master of arts degree in theology from the University of Louvain in Belgium, and a bachelor of arts degree in philosophy from St. Paul Seminary.

Walter and his wife Gemma, a commercial graphic artist, have two children. Their son Rico is a recent graduate of the University of Wisconsin and their daughter Tonja is a student at the University of Minnesota, majoring in international relations.

NCC student senate ready for a new year

Northland Community College Student Senate has already begun preparing and organizing for the upcoming year, according to Jeff Tangen, student senate president.

Senate members will attend the August Council of Presidents meeting in Willmar where student leaders representing over 50,000 college students across the state will meet to discuss goals and objectives for the upcoming year. Topics this year will include elections, higher education funding and the merger of Minnesota's state, community and technical colleges.

Tony Bouza, candidate for governor of Minnesota, will address the group. Other guests will include Andrea Roesch, state chair of the Minnesota State University Student Association; Tracy Newman from Lead or Leave, a nationwide voter registration organization; and Karen Correll, the student member of the State Board for Community Colleges.

On a local level the student senate is busy planning "Welcome Week" activities for the first two weeks of the quarter. Clubs on campus are getting together to provide excitement and entertainment for students.

Activities planned include movie night, game night, a faculty/student breakfast, welcome dance, dunk booth, hospitality booth, intramural sports and other events.

"We want students to enjoy themselves and get to know each other," Tangen said.

Students will also be given information and coupons. Any business wishing to distribute coupons to new students can contact Tangen at 681-2181.

TRF schools finish tech prep grant term

by Bev Arnston
Tech Prep Coordinator

Thief River Falls Public Schools have completed the third year of a three-year grant to implement a Tech Prep curriculum and instruction. Tech Prep refers to educational preparation for further training in technical and technological fields.

Tech Prep is an important national initiative for a number of reasons.

First, employment opportunities in technical careers are growing.

Second, the need for a two-year technical or community college education to acquire technical skills for employment is increasing.

Third, rapidly changing technology demands that students have a thorough academic background in communication, math and science.

Fourth, educators know that many people who have technical talents learn academics best through an applied curriculum.

Lincoln high school staff has worked hard to develop Applied Communication, Applied Science and Applied Math courses. Students interested in attending college for two-year or four-year technical programs are encouraged to study academics through this applied manner.

Students can earn college credit through Northwest Technical College for Principles of Accounting I and II offered at Lincoln high school. College credit in metalworking through Duluth Technical College is available in the metals classes at Lincoln. Other college credit arrangements for Lincoln students in health and general studies are being established with Northwest Technical College campuses at Thief River Falls and East Grand Forks.

Students are being encouraged by the counseling department to think about the post high school education they will be choosing and to enroll in courses that prepare them for that type of education. The student registration booklet assists students and parents in relating high school classes to technical college, associate degree or four-year college programs and to employment. Students are asked on their registration forms to express an interest in a career cluster and a college program.

Local business and industry is taking an important role in implementing Tech Prep concepts. Community, business and school partnerships are being formed to assist students in learning about practical applications of their high school courses.

Tech college expands programs for 1994-95

Students attending Northwest Technical College in Thief River Falls when the fall quarter opens Tuesday, September 6, will have an expanded choice of major areas of study.

Students may apply for any major up to the September 6 starting date. Orientation/registration dates are scheduled for August 25 and 29 beginning at 4 p.m. each day. Students who wish to attend either session are asked to contact the college. For further information, call 681-5424 or 1-800-222-2884.

The Administrative Support Area has the largest number of expanded choices, increasing from four to 12 options.

Medical Support majors now include Medical Administrative Secretary AAS degree, plus diplomas in Medical Secretary-Technology, Medical Transcription, Medical Insurance and Medical Coding.

Diplomas are also offered in Word Processing Technology with areas of emphasis in Bookkeeping and Information/Computer. Other diploma majors include Secretary/Receptionist Technology with an option in Bookkeeping and Legal Secretary Technology. A 32-credit certificate program in clerical assisting is also available.

The Sales and Marketing major offers both diploma and AAS degrees in Sales, Marketing and Management and Sales with a fashion emphasis. Diplomas are available in those two majors plus Retail Merchandising and Electronic Sales.

The Cosmetology major offers the 82-credit Cosmetology program plus certificates in Esthetist and Manicurist.

To meet the needs of industry, the Electronics major now offers diploma and AAS degrees in the areas of Industrial Electronics and Microcomputer Repair.

A new offering, to be available during the 1994-95 academic year, is Computer Animation. These courses will be of great value to students studying Architectural Drafting, Broadcasting and many other areas, according to Northwest Technical College administrators.

St. Bernard's raises playground funds

A total of $10,000 in dollar for dollar matching funds has been made available to St. Bernard's school to improve and update technology and the playground at the school in Thief River Falls.

Children home alone happens after school

Many children of two-income or single parent families spend time home alone after the school day ends. The National Safety Council reminds parents of several guidelines to help make all family members be and feel more secure.

Instruct youngsters not to open the door for strangers or tell an unidentified caller that they are alone. Post important telephone numbers by each phone, including the numbers of the places where the parent or parents work.

Be sure children knows how to dial 911 for the operator in case of emergency. Youngsters should be able to give their name, address and telephone number.

Have family fire drills to ensure that everyone knows the proper escape route. Remember that your child's safety starts with you.

New personnel on St. Bernard's staff

Jennifer Hoehne

Two new members will be joining the staff at St. Bernard's Catholic school in Thief River Falls when classes begin on Tuesday, September 6. They are Judy Dupree, who will be an office assistant, and Jennifer Hoehne, a teacher in the Littlest Angels Pre-kindergarten Program.

Dupree has completed her training as an office assistant through course work taken in Fargo, ND, and will begin her duties at St. Bernard's on August 29.

A graduate of Lincoln high school in Thief River Falls, Judy attended the Alexandria Vocational Technical School. She graduated as a certified laboratory assistant and was employed by the Falls Clinic in Thief River Falls for 14 years as a laboratory technician. She then did volunteer work as an office assistant and prekindergarten aide at St. Bernard's school and as substitute parent helper in the Thief River Falls Nursery School.

Judy's husband David is a brakeman for the Soo Line Railroad in Thief River Falls and they have two children. Their son Kurt works at Northwest Medical Center and their daughter Kristy is presently serving as a nanny in North Potomac, MD.

Mrs. Jennifer Hoehne grew up in McGregor and is a 1993 graduate of Bemidji State University. Her most recent employment was with the Child Development Center in Evergreen, CO. Her husband Kyle is employed by Arctco, Inc.

"Mrs. Hoehne was employed to teach prekindergarten because of the success and growth of the program," states Dr. Dixie Klein, principal at St. Bernard's school.

"Last year, one section of prekindergarten was held for the three-year-old group and one section for the four-year-old group. This year, both morning and afternoon sessions are being planned for the four-year-old group and one session is being planned for the three-year-old group. The decision to add another session for three-year-old children will be determined by the interest expressed and the number of applications received by August 15."

Anyone interested in the St. Bernard's Littlest Angels prekindergarten program should call Dr. Klein at 681-7215, the school office at 681-1539 (leave a message on the answering machine), or Mrs. Jennifer Hoehne at 681-3847.

Principal says OSL Academy teaches for life

Our Saviour's Christian Academy, which will begin its 1994-95 school year coincidental with the public schools on September 6, offers education for life, according to Delores Kading, principal. Its theme is "Quality Christian Education for Christian Families."

"Students from three years old through grade 12 will find a stimulating and rewarding education with lasting benefits," Kading said.

"Our Saviour's Christian Academy Preschool offers a Christian environment for three and four-year-olds. The preschool is state licensed. It meets in the forenoon. Four-year-olds attend on Monday, Wednesday and Friday; three-year-olds on Tuesday and Thursday. Kindergarten is held in the afternoons."

The academy offers a full range of academic activities, Kading adds. The school is centered around the Accelerated Christian Education curriculum which not only teaches the academic material but trains the student to be self-motivated and instills Christian values.

"The primary grades stress independent reading through a strong phonetic program," the principal notes. "The high school curriculum offers a wide range of electives. The academy also offers speech, foreign languages, computer, music and physical education, as well as a sports program with other Christian schools."

Students at the academy come from many different religious denominations in the area. Various school-sponsored activities encourage students to participate in good, wholesome fun and they develop life-long friendships.

"The students' and staff's spiritual lives are nourished through a Christian curriculum, Bible study and memorization, devotions, prayer time and Christian music," Kading explained. "Our Saviour's Christian Academy is able to stress Biblical Christianity. The Word of God is incorporated into every subject. Prayer is promoted and encouraged, and Christ is spoken about freely by teachers, staff and students."

Financial aid is available for those who need help with the tuition. Free bus transportation is provided by the local school district.

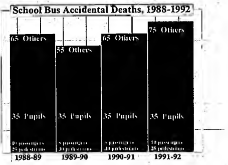
School bus safety gets the attention it deserves

by Sen. Roger Moe



When it comes to school bus safety in Minnesota, it's time to change our emphasis. For many years, rules and regulations concentrated on making sure school buses and equipment were safe. Bus engineering quality has improved steadily over the years.

Now, very few accidents involving school buses are related to problems with equipment. It is apparent, though, that we can take additional steps to improve our school bus safety record.

With that goal in mind, a School Bus Safety Task Force met in 1993 and prepared recommendations that were released earlier this year. Before exploring these proposals, I'd like to share with you information about Minnesota's bus safety record.

There are a couple of ways to look at the statistics. By any measure, Minnesota students are safer on the school bus than the average student in the United States. The national rate of crashes per 1,000 students transported was 1.32 in 1991. The comparable rate in Minnesota was 1.03. Similar bus safety statistics measuring crashes per miles traveled and crashes per 1,000 vehicles also indicate that Minnesota students riding a school bus are roughly 25 per cent less likely to experience an accident than riders in other states.

The statistics for school bus-related student injuries reveals even better news for Minnesota pupils. School bus injuries are roughly 40 per cent less frequent in Minnesota compared with the national rate, based on the 1991 data.

While these statistics tell a rosy side of the story, it is important to remember that improved school bus safety is needed everywhere in the United States. Every school needs to do a better job of making sure that kids are transported safely.

During the past decade, eight Minnesota students were killed getting on or off school buses and another 56 were run over and injured. School buses are more likely than passenger cars to be involved in crashes, injuries and deaths.

I am sure law changes this year will make school bus safety a top priority. There is more agreement than disagreement about what needs to be done to accomplish this goal.

First, we can do a better job of making sure drivers are fully qualified. Before they are hired, drivers' histories should be scrutinized. Checks on criminal and driving histories should be made.

Second, everyone agrees that all accidents and injuries related to school bus operations should be reported.

In addition, appropriate rules and laws assuring the safe operation of the school buses are needed. A theoretical debate is taking place in St. Paul about whether to adopt national standards or allow school districts some flexibility. These national standards include technical rules about school bus equipment. Without saying one side is right or wrong, it is important to remember our goal is safe school bus operation. When safety is at stake, we shouldn't allow ourselves to get side-tracked by theories about how rules are written.

Perhaps the most difficult decision regarding school bus safety comes when the discussion turns to how to handle discipline and conduct on the bus. Misconduct is a worsening problem. It's evident that unruly behavior distracts drivers and is a major cause of accidents.

The School Bus Safety Task force recommends that all school buses transporting young students—those in grades K-4—be required to include monitors who can deal immediately with incidents of misconduct.

A response to misbehavior on buses is sorely needed. But requiring bus monitors is a fairly expensive proposition. The cost of required monitors is estimated at between $16 million and $35 million. Some school administrators and parents have indicated that they would rather spend new money on additional teachers to reduce class size. Not every school has a severe behavior problem on its buses.

A less expensive option, also urged by the task force, is increased use of video surveillance cameras. These cameras would be already widely used, except that video recordings must undergo expensive alterations before a school official can view them. A narrow change in data privacy laws would address the problem.

I'm sure the Legislature will take important steps in 1994 to make school buses safer places for our children. As a member of the Education Committee, I am working toward that goal.

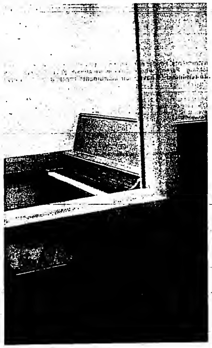
Band equipment moved into new facilities

Instrument storage racks in the new music addition at Lincoln high school will allow for proper storage of a number of different instruments used in the band and orchestra programs.



Student practice rooms in the new music addition at Lincoln high school will allow for individual and small group instruction and rehearsal.

In a move almost literally equated with being "from the basement to the board room," instruments, music and materials for the Lincoln high school band were moved recently into new facilities at the school.

The move from a lower level area used by both band and orchestra was accomplished by Lincoln music students and their parents under the direction of Bruce Felt, band instructor at Lincoln, in mid-July.

"We left a lot of problems behind us with the move to new quarters," Felt said. "Our previous instruction area was inadequate, proper storage of instruments, cases, uniforms and music was impossible, there was consistent water accumulation in some areas and the lower level was inaccessible to wheelchairs."

The redesigned music department is all new construction, part of a $2.8 million facility update at Lincoln as part of an overall $18 million construction program in School District 564.

Included in the music area are two large rehearsal halls, office space, practice and small group instruction rooms, music library and proper instrument and uniform storage. All are built to be accessible for the handicapped.

"This has been long hoped for," stated Terry Soine, Lincoln high school principal, in regard to the new construction and interior remodeling at Lincoln. "It's a huge step forward, not only for Lincoln high school music students, but also for our Northern Expressions School of the Arts where individual and small group instruction are key elements."

Contractors are putting finishing touches on the music area and other areas of the school in preparation for opening day for students on September 6.

Soine said students at Lincoln this fall will also find improved classrooms for fine arts and visual arts, redesigned space for fitness and training and a new kitchen and cafeteria. He said remodeling also brings the 50-year-old existing Lincoln building into full compliance with state fire codes and federal accessibility standards.

The work at Lincoln is part of an $18 million project approved by the voters of School District 564 in 1992. Included in the district-wide project in addition to Lincoln are the new Challenger elementary school and pre-school which will serve the entire district, additions and remodeling at Franklin middle school and Mark Twain elementary school to provide an improved middle school, and future remodeling of Washington elementary school into a school district service center.

Instruction area for instrumental and vocal music is included in the $2.8 million expansion and remodeling program at Lincoln high school. Band instruments and equipment were moved from their lower level area into the new facilities in mid-July.

Pay attention to school bus safety rules

National Safety Council notes that some 22 million students nationwide will be riding school buses this fall and attention to safety rules is important when dealing with bus travel.

The council reminds students to be sure the bus has stopped completely before attempting to board and to take a seat immediately upon boarding. They should also refrain from putting head, arms or hands out of the bus windows.

When crossing a roadway after leaving the bus, students should wait for the driver to give his or her approval. And before crossing the roadway, look to the left, the right and back to the left to be sure it is safe to cross.

Slow down in school zones

Most children think of school as a place where they can feel safe and they may be inattentive as they cross the street to enter or exit a school bus.

The National Safety Council reminds motorists to use extra caution when driving in school zones. Watch for children, slow down and pay attention to school bus traffic.

Budget Electronics becomes new member of Chamber of Commerce

When Marty Collins took the leap and moved his store to a prime downtown location at Third and Main in Thief River Falls, he admits he was scared and a bit worried. He said he looked at the empty store and asked himself what he had gotten into now.

Between 1975 and 1980 Collins worked for John Larson selling music, instruments, televisions and radios. He decided in 1980 that he wanted to work for himself and opened The Record Barn at 312 East Third Street. In 14 years, The Record Barn has gone through many changes, including a name change. But none of the changes were as dramatic in its impact as his move to a larger location at 101 East Third Street.

Collins explained that he was in the process of remodeling his house about two years ago when he went looking for appliances. The experience caused him to look critically at selling appliances from the perspective of a businessman. When it came together, it came together very quickly. In a 10 day period Collins said the building became available, he got the Maytag franchise, and Sears closed. Still, he had his doubts and wondered if he had overextended himself. After all, he had never had the luxury of working his way into appliances, and he was jumping into it in a big way.

Collins said realtors are always saying "location, location, location." The traffic in his store was greater that he could have imagined. It's amazing, he said, that you can move a block and a half away and it can make that kind of difference.

His trade area includes a 90-mile radius from Thief River Falls. He's now selling products to people from Warroad, Warren, Crookston and many other surrounding communities. He proudly recalls recently selling an appliance to a resident of Grand Forks, ND. When asked whether he would deliver the appliance to Grand Forks, he said "You bet!"

Peterson signs on to unfunded mandates bill

Congressman Collin Peterson has signed a petition prohibiting unfunded federal mandates on state and local governments. The petition will allow the bill to be brought to the House floor for a vote.

"Very few issues affect the American people more than unfunded federal mandates. They force state and local governments to raise taxes and cut necessary services. H.R. 140 seriously addresses this problem and is a fundamental reform of the way Washington operates," said Peterson.

"The federal government is suffocating state and local jurisdictions with its never-ending stream of federal mandates," said Peterson. "Congress constantly creates new programs without thinking about the costs to state and local governments. In fact, it is estimated that the mandates passed between 1988 and 1990 will cost state governments $15 billion over five years. This pattern must end."

H.R. 140 currently has 225 cosponsors, yet hasn't been scheduled for consideration by the Government Operations Committee, which has jurisdiction. Currently, the Government Operations Committee is offering a watered-down version of H.R. 140 which does not include the safeguards necessary to prevent future mandates.

"A majority of my colleagues feel that H.R. 140 is the answer to the problem of unfunded federal mandates. While I would have liked to see this issue addressed within the existing committee structure, the refusal of the Government Operation Committee to even hold hearings forces us to seek the alternative route of a discharge petition," Peterson said.

H.R. 140 makes state and local government compliance with federal mandates voluntary unless funds to carry out the mandates are made available by the federal government.

XATA reports net sales for third quarter

XATA Corporation has reported net sales for the third quarter ended June 30, 1994, of $353,321, versus net sales of $986,644 in the third quarter ended June 30, 1993. The net loss for the quarter was $372,597, or 4 cents per share, versus net income in last year's third quarter of $27,336, or 0 cents per share.

Dennis R. Johnson, president and chief executive officer, said "It was not until late in the third quarter that we began shipment of XATA systems to our customers, following our release of a new version of software for our onboard systems that are in use in the trucking industry. Prior to the new software release we had withheld shipments, pending successful final testing. This action significantly curtailed sales in the third quarter and was the primary factor in our third quarter net loss.

"Our order backlog at the beginning of the third quarter was approximately $600,000, and it grew to approximately $900,000 by the end of the quarter. We are now shipping XATA systems against this backlog and expect an increase in fourth quarter net sales."

For the nine months ended June 30, net sales were $1,392,630, versus net sales of $1,634,004 in the same period last year. The net loss for the nine-month period was $991,800, or 10 cents per share, compared with a net loss for the first nine months of last year of $632,690, or 7 cents per share.

XATA Corporation, based in Burnsville, is a designer, manufacturer and marketer of programmable onboard information systems to the truck fleet industry.

Audit shows liquor store sales increase

Sales at the municipal liquor store in Thief River Falls were up by $25,377 last year, according to a city audit.

The audit also showed that the municipal liquor store's gross profit was higher than the statewide average, and operating expenses lower than the statewide average. The statewide average is developed from the 98 off-sale liquor stores in Minnesota. The report shows that Thief River Falls experienced a gross profit margin of 24.3 per cent compared to a statewide average of 23.1 per cent. The city's gross profit margin was also .9 per cent higher than the previous year. Total sales for 1993 were $1,837,542.

Operating expenses were also lower than the statewide average. Operating expenses at the city store were at 12.9 per cent compared to a statewide average of 16.1. Operating expenses, 12.9, were slightly higher in 1993 when compared to the previous year, 11.2.

The largest selling item at the store was beer. In 1993, the store recorded sales of $1,072,092 compared to $1,061,819 in 1992. Liquor sales also increased from $552,123 in 1992 to $562,991 in 1993. Wine sales increased from $135,895 in 1992 to $140,248 in 1993. Sales of ice and mixes decreased from $64,328 in 1992 to $62,211.

The beer gross margin increased by 1 percentage point to 5.4 per cent. Wine decreased by 1.6 percentage point to 2.2 per cent, while liquor increased by 0.9 percentage points.

Inventories at December 31, 1993, totaled $257,545 compared with $149,106 in December of 1992, and $121,718 in December of 1991. Inventory stock was turned over 5.4 times in 1993 compared to about 9.7 times annually over the past five years.

Whole Wheat Bible Study

How can we be rich toward God?

After you read through this Bible study, go back and look up the Scriptures and highlight them in your Bible.

The example given by Jesus Christ in Luke 12:16-21 is in the form of a parable, which is a mystery, a riddle or a dark saying (Matt. 13:34; John 16:25; Ezek. 17:2; Num. 12:8). The meaning of a parable is hidden from the wise and the intelligent, and understanding of its meaning must be granted by Jesus Christ (Matt. 11:25; 13:11, 13, 16-17). When you are given the ability by Jesus Christ to understand a parable, then the meaning is almost child-like. You can begin to understand why Christ said it is revealed to babes.

The man in the parable in Luke should have been rich in good works toward God. Paul told Timothy to warn those who were rich in this world to be rich in good works (1 Tim. 6:17-19). Even the poor and the not-so-wealthy were expected to be zealous in doing good deeds to glorify God (Titus 2:14; Matt. 5:16). It is a most crucial part of the conversion process. You do the practicing so you learn how to be righteous (John 3:21).

Often, people write out checks to worthy organizations, but this does not excuse them from physically getting involved with acts of righteousness (James 1:22). Job knew how the Lord wanted to be worshiped and although he was rich, he personally got involved in serving the needy (Job 29:12-17).

We are to use our bodies as living and holy sacrifices for God on a daily basis, and this is how God wants to be worshiped (Rom. 12:1-2; 6:13, 18-22). God wants us to learn to be servants of others, as Jesus Christ was (John 21:25; 1 John 2:6). Christ even said some of us would do greater good works than He did, for He had to return to the Father (John 14:12).

This man described in Luke was only thinking of himself. He was inward, grasping and greedy. Jesus Christ was giving this example to expose every form of greed (Luke 12:15). A man's life should not and does not consist of his possessions. A man's relationship to God is what matters. God is the one we serve, the one we live to please and the one to whom we must answer in the day of judgment (Mal. 3:16-18). We must serve Him alone, on a daily basis (Matt. 4:10; Rom. 6:17-18). We must do the Will of God. What is God's Will? It is the good works we do from the heart as happy, contented slaves of Jesus Christ (Eph. 6:6; Matt. 5:16, 20; 6:1).

Practicing righteousness daily is easy and pleasant (Matt. 11:30; 25:33-40). It makes us beautiful people and allows Christ to be formed in us (Acts 9:36; Gal. 3:27; 4:19). So, if we are rich toward God in good works, we will not be harmed (1 Peter 3:13). We will be protected by God daily because now we are the apple of His eye.

Soon, Long-distance Calls Within Your Minnesota Area Code Will Become 1+ Area Code + Number Calls
NEW DIALING PLAN IN MINNESOTA - EFFECTIVE SEPTEMBER 17, 1994
Begineing September 17, 1994 telephone customers in Minnesota will have to change the way they make long distance calls within the state. At that time it will be necessary for customers to include the 218 area code on every long distance call they make even if dialing from and to the same area code.
Customers currently dial 1 + the telephone number to make these calls within their home area code. With the new plan, customers will dial 1 + area code + the telephone number to make any long distance calls.
The new plan will not increase telephone rates and will be easy to use since the calls will be dialed the same way as out-of-state long distance calls. All other dialing remains the same.
"Minnesota customers steadily demand more telephone numbers each year. By implementing the new plan, more numbers will be available for customers," said Delores M. Wikstrom.
In addition to growth, the expansion of the cellular telephone industry, an increase in requests for additional lines by residential and business customers, customized systems for large business customers and an increase in the use of pagers have placed a higher demand on telephone numbers.
Other states with major cities, such as Washington, D. C., Maryland, Virginia and Georgia, have adopted similar plans.
"Wikstrom Telephone Company will have an optional dialing period beginning May 14, 1994 so that customers may place calls dialing the old or new way. The optional dialing period will give customers time to get used to the new way of dialing," said Delores M. Wikstrom.
Wikstrom Telephone Company recommends that large businesses and government customers with complex dialing systems reprogram their systems in anticipation of the change. Systems which are currently reprogrammed to dial 1 + the telephone number will need to be reprogrammed to incorporate the area code into the automatic dialing system for in-state toll calls.
Additionally, small businesses and residence customers with custom calling features, such as speed calling and call forwarding, will need to reprogram these features to include the 218 area code for any long distance call made within the state. Small businesses will also need to reprogram fax machines, alarm dialers, and personal computers that contain preprogrammed telephone numbers.
Alternatives to the new dialing plan were considered. Also, customer research showed that Minnesota customers wanted to know when a toll call was being made.
Other alternatives, such as being able to dial a telephone number without a 1 or an area code, would not indicate to customers that a charge applied to the call.
Customers dialing the old way after September 17, 1994 on calls that require the 218 area code will receive a recorded reminder.

One View Of Outcome Based Education

Following thoughts on outcome based education were written by Tom Prichard, executive director of the Minnesota Family Council, an organization which presents itself to be "the state's largest, non-partisan pro-family group." Comments on Prichard's views or on outcome based education in general are encouraged for use in The Times public opinion columns.

by Tom Prichard, Executive Director
Minnesota Family Council

With failing test scores, rising costs and growing violence in our public schools, the voices calling for reform and change are increasing daily.

The antidote to public education's problems promoted by the State Board of Education, the Department of Education and some in the Legislature, is the latest educational fad called outcome based education (OBE). Certainly, good educational outcomes are what all people want, but OBE has been generally discredited as doing anything but improving academic outcomes. Its accent on ideologically loaded social curricula, costly implementation, increased work load for teachers and lower academic performance has led to parent and taxpayer revolts across the nation.

To remedy the bad reputation which now follows OBE, the Department of Education and the State Board of Education have simply decided to change the name. "Outcome Based Graduation Standards" has now become the "Results Oriented Graduation Rule." Even with this name change, the sheep's clothing is still hiding a wolf.

What are the problems with the "new" graduation rule? First, the "mush" factor is still present. The proposed rule is still full of non-academic outcomes which focus on students' values, attitudes and beliefs. The mission of Minnesota Public Education has become the creation of "purposeful thinkers," "effective communicators," "self-directed learners," "productive group participants" and "responsible citizens."

The state interprets "purposeful thinker" to mean a student who, among other things, demonstrates "flexibility, persistence and a sense of ethical considerations," and one who "tolerates ambiguity." An "effective communicator" can, among a host of things, "read and interpret the use of body language" and "define own attitudes and beliefs about experiences." And under "self directed learners," the goals include "accepting self" and "positive self concept."

In addition to traditional academic pursuits, Minnesota high school graduates must demonstrate they can "apply informed decision making processes to promote well being of the individual and society, lifework choices, and stewardship of the environment," and "understand how principles of interaction and interdependence affect physical and social situations."

One must ask what these goals have to do with reading, writing, math, science and other academic pursuits. The state legislative auditor has said that 55% of the average public school day was spent on non-academic core curricula. That emphasis will only worsen under the governor's "Son of OBE" graduation rule.

Second, and closely linked to the "mush" factor, is the "dumbing down" factor. In essence, the governor's proposed graduation rule is a minimum standard which will lead to greater mediocrity. But don't we need minimum standards for graduation? The problem is that when you aim low, you normally hit low. To set up a system where a large percentage of students will graduate, you have to set standards low so that most students will meet it. Horror stories of lower academic performance are already documented. A major Minnesota school [illegible] saw test scores drop 10%. The school's response is that it often takes time to effectively implement a program. Parents must ask themselves, do they want their children's education sacrificed for an experiment? From past history, the brighter students are the ones who suffer. Expect the same results from the proposed graduation rule.

Third, the proposed graduation rule will be a carte blanche transfer of control from local citizens, parents and teachers and school boards to the state. While the proposed rule says local school districts will develop their own assessments, it also says that the Department of Education will approve those assessments. Once again, we have state bureaucrats and politicians saying, "The top-down approach is best. We know better than you do at the local level." That's a hard argument to accept when you look at government's track record in such areas as taxes, spending and social programs like welfare.

And finally, the graduation rule will be costly. It will direct valuable resources away from teaching and classroom activities to developing a multitude of vague, oblique assessments, retraining teachers, creating portfolios for every student for every class, and filling out a host of other reports and forms necessary to satisfy the educational bureaucracy in St. Paul.

If we really want to improve the public schools in Minnesota, let's empower parents to choose whatever school—public or private—they decide is best for their child and require local school districts to publicly report the standardized test results in core academic areas in local newspapers. Also we must allow students and parents to opt out of non-academic courses mandated by the state so students can spend more time on academics.

Empowering individuals and increasing accountability with local taxpayers and parents will truly make Minnesota schools world-class. Let's not feed the educational bureaucracy in St. Paul, but empower parents, teachers, students and taxpayers. That would truly be change.

Airport Threshing Bee Postponed By Weather

"The threshing bee scheduled for last Sunday on the 200-acre field of oats on the airport site was postponed because of the soft condition of the ground following last week's heavy rains, and instead will be held next Sunday, provided weather conditions remain favorable in the meantime, it was announced today by the committee in charge of arrangements. A large turnout of volunteer workers is anticipated."

Emergency Farm Help Shock 2,100 Acres Last Week

Three Speakers On Aeronautics In Program

"Kermit Seaverson, flight instructor at the Crookston flying school, addressed the Thief River Falls chapter of the National Aeronautics association at a meeting last Thursday evening in the Civic and Commerce room. Also on the speaking program was Don Heng of Minneapolis, manager of the aviation division of the Pure Oil company, as well as Lowell Nesse, Pm. M2/c with experiences in North Africa, Sicily, Italy and Normandy. Completing the evening's program was the showing of two reels of motion pictures dealing with the invasion of France, one supplied by H. A. Baumann and the other by the British consulate in St. Paul."

From The Editorial Page

"Pennington County's debt has been reduced $63,000 this year, bringing the total down to $400,000. That is a record every citizen should feel good about. At this rate of reduction Pennington could join the ranks of debt-free counties in a very few years and that would be a healthy condition to be in when the war prosperity comes to an end. Now is the time to pay debts, for units of government as well as individuals. It is the most sensible kind of post-war planning."

And Another One

"Less than three weeks remain of summer vacation, which has been a most profitable vacation for some of the young people who will return to school the first Tuesday in September. Many high school students have earned good wages throughout the summer months and getting back into the routine of the class rooms may not be nearly so difficult an adjustment to make as getting along without a pay-check."

Housing shortage in area discussed

A community housing meeting was held in Thief River Falls Tuesday noon at the Best Western. The purpose of the meeting was to meet with representatives of Midwest Minnesota Community Development Corporation of Detroit Lakes, and to discuss the current housing shortage in the community.

There were about 30 to 35 people in attendance at the meeting including members of the Jobs Inc. board of directors, the Community Development Advisory Board, and the Housing and Redevelopment Authority board. In addition, representatives of local banks, realtors, and other interested private developers, were in attendance.

Don Stewart, community development director, opened the meeting by saying that the housing shortage in all types of housing is becoming critical, and "we are becoming very concerned about the potential impact that is going to have on our expanding industries and the colleges". He cited a recent example reported in the news media in which Polaris opened a plant in Iowa because they couldn't get any more workers or enough housing for workers in the Roseau area.

He then did a recap for them of housing need figures and told them what has been accomplished since the housing study was done in 1991. The 1991 Community Housing Needs Survey prepared by Lee Maxfield Research, included a list of specific housing needs in Thief River Falls. Maxfield Research said the city was in need of about 20 to 25 senior subsidized housing apartments, about 50 non-subsidized senior congregate apartments, between 60 and 80 single family homes, between 60 and 80 market rate rental apartments such as townhouses and manor homes, and between 180 and 250 student housing apartments.

Stewart noted that low-income subsidized program needs are being met because of available funding, but nothing has been accomplished in non-subsidized housing needs.

Manufactured home needs were not included in the study. At the time of the study about one-third of the mobile home lots in the community were vacant. Today, he said, there isn't a mobile home pad available in the community, and that hasn't been because of the pipeline crews in the community, he added.

Some progress has been made in the single family home category since 1991. Since 1991, 20 to 25 homes have been built in the city and North and Rocksbury townships. The city still needs 40 o 45 homes. The biggest dent has taken place in the senior subsidized homes. Twenty-four have been completed and another 32 are waiting for construction. In the non-subsidized senior congregate apartment category, no units have been built and nothing is in the mill. It is Stewart's view that one of the reasons nothing has happened is that developers are going to wait until the Northrop and Knox properties are put up for sale.

Dr. Bob Duncan, school district superintendent, was asked when the properties will be put up for sale. He responded that the requests for proposals will be out in September.

There is another need that Maxfield lumped into one category — non-subsidized town home condominiums for seniors or apartments for median income seniors. That need has not been addressed. There is some interest in that area, and Stewart believes some progress will begin on that within the next month or so. He later added that if this problem can be addressed it might increase the availability of homes in the community.

The other big category is the market rate apartments. Initially, 15 units constructed recently were thought to, have been built in response to this need, but the partners decided to go with low income housing. That did little in terms of meeting the need in the category.

There is some hope for the future. The director of the USDA's rural development administration, was in Thief River Falls in March because of an enterprise program application, and said the housing situation is the first or second major need in rural Minnesota.

What's happening is that, for whatever reason, private developers are not able to meet the need for non-subsidized housing. "We have had one house built on speculation last year. It was first time in 14 years," Stewart said.

"We do have a local developer who is planning on opening a new area and putting up at least one house on speculation and three basements that would be ready for houses in the winter or spring," he added.

Arlan Kangas, president of MMCDC (Midwest Minnesota Community Development Corporation) and he introduced the people he had with him, Wayn [illegible], Lynn Fundingsland, and Bob Krepp. Kangas explained that the purpose of MMCDC has been to provide business financing, which includes taking equity positions for projects that are going to create jobs. Recently, he said, they helped finance a small housing project in a small central Minnesota community, and they are becoming increasingly aware of the housing problem.

Stewart noted that Bob Flynn and J.J. Womack are members of the MMCDC board of directors.

Kangas said they were in Thief River Falls on a fact gathering mission, and their board of directors were meeting next week and would be discussing how they could step in and help cities like Thief River Falls.

Stewart mentioned during the course of the meeting that he had had a meeting with the Northwest Minnesota Initiative Fund and they are also just beginning to study housing needs to see if they can step in and help rural communities in northwest Minnesota.

Also discussed during the meeting, a number of calls and inquiries received at the city, asking why Thief River Falls did not participate in this program of the Northwest Minnesota Housing Redevelopment Authority. Stewart explained that the Northwest Minnesota Housing Redevelopment Authority got a bunch of communities together and developed a program in which 356 apartments in 13 communities were

Personnel assignments occupy school board

School District 564 board of education spent most of its regular meeting recently dealing with various assignments of personnel, including 44 educational assistants whose assignments range from 5.5 to 7 hours per day, with most positions from 6 to 6-7 hours per day.

Extra-curricular assignments were also made and several employment contracts were approved.

Recognition was given to Kendra Dimich and Kassie Westerman, Lincoln high school students, for their selection to the Minnesota Music Educators Association All-State Band.

Activities director Lee Alger distributed and reviewed the 1993-94 Lincoln high school activity summary booklet which showed that 77 per cent of the student body at Lincoln participates in extra-curricular activities.

Darla Twomey reported that the joint powers board of the Multi-Events Cultural Center has made some site visits and selected an architect for the project to be located near the Thief River Falls campus of the Northwest Technical College. Board chairman Dennis Kiesow volunteered to represent the school board as an alternate at joint powers board sessions if Mrs. Twomey is unable to attend.

Business manager Harry Nelson noted that the district is having difficulty hiring bus drivers for the coming year due to the increase in the number of routes.

Supt. Bob Duncan reviewed personnel recommendations presented to the board for approval as well as the job description for the curriculum/assessment/ staff development coordinator position. He also summarized the accomplishments of the Tech Prep consortium during the term of its supporting grant.

Contracts were approved for Harry Nelson as school district business manager for 1994-1996 and Ryan Lokken as pool director for 1994-1995. Approval was given to assignments of Valerie Austad and Helene McCauley as school counselors/school psychologists for the 1994-95 school year.

Scab reduces expectations for Minnesota wheat yield

Spring wheat crop in Minnesota is now forecast at 94.4 million bushels, down 18 per cent from the July forecast. Yield is now officially estimated at 37 bushels per acre, down eight bushels from July.

Heavy rains in July and continued wet conditions were ideal for the spread of scab and other diseases, according to the Minnesota Agricultural Statistics Service which released the report.

Durum wheat production of 1,170,000 bushels is down 663,000 bushels from the July forecast and yield at 30 bushels per acre is down 17 bushels from July.

Barley production is projected to be 34.4 million bushels, down 6.2 million bushels from the July forecast and nine per cent below 1993 production. Yield is forecast at 55 bushels per acre, down 10 bushels from the July estimate and three bushels below last year.

Oat production of 29 million bushels was lowered 1.9 million bushels from the July estimate but is 22 per cent above last year. Yield at 61 bushels per acre was reduced four bushels from the July forecast.

Traditional row crop areas have benefitted from better weather. Corn yield is forecast at 134 bushels per acre, which would break the record 127 bushel yield set in 1987. Production forecast of 844.2 million bushels compares with record production of 762.6 million bushels set in 1990 and last year's small crop of 322 million bushels.

Soybean yield is forecast at 39 bushels per acre and production at 218.4 million bushels, compared with 110 million bushels in 1993 and 23 million bushels above the record set in 1991.

Sugarbeet crop is estimated at 7.452 million tons with yield of 18 tons per acre up 3.9 tons per acre from last year.

Housing shortage is discussed

financed in northwestern Minnesota. Many of those units are non-subsidized retirement units. People have asked why Thief River Falls wasn't a part of that, Stewart said.

He explained that the organization is using a funding tool called Essential Function Bonds, and the concept, as originally presented, required local units of government participating in the program to be the guarantors. By combining the bonding capacity of the communities involved, the projects were completed.

"At that time we were the largest city involved. Because of the current bonded indebtedness of the three local units of government in the community, particularly the city and school district, it was decided that it was too big of a risk to take because the city would be guaranteeing the cash flow of units in other cities," Stewart said.

The city, however, has been informed that a meeting would be held in Thief River Falls on August 24 with a thought to starting a second round of these projects. The city has also been told that the concept as originally presented, has changed. City officials will take a second look at this program to see if it is feasible to join the group.

A general discussion of the issues was held, and a number of questions were fielded. A number of large employers present concurred with the concerns expressed by the city. Private developers in attendance, who have done some work on how they could develop these projects, explained that it's difficult to keep the price under $80,000 for some of the projects. They did note the city's willingness to spread the special assessments out over a 10 to 12 year period was helping them.

Even with the decreased enrollment at the aviation school, the student housing shortage has not gone away, and has been exacerbated by the pipeline workers in the community. The city has been hearing from school officials that they lose students every fall because they can't find housing. Jim Haviland said at a prior meeting, that he actually had to send checks back to families because the students couldn't find a place to stay in the community.

Stewart warned that when word of that problem gets out it damages the school and community image. It is also damaging to the viability of the community and school. The economic impact from the schools in our community has been estimated at $18 million per year.

Stewart said they told the group present at the meeting that with the help of legislators the city was able to get special legislation that if a developer were to build apartments on college property, and at least 51 per cent was leased to students, that the legislation would forgive the property tax on that facility for 20 years. In addition, the two colleges have been given dispensation to assist the developer of the property in the marketing, promotion, operation and maintenance.

Stewart said the city has had four different developers look at that situation and even with those incentives they haven't gone ahead with a project. The problem the city keeps running into is that they perceive an element of risk that they are not willing to take. That risk is what happens if they make that investment and the state decided to close one or both of those institutions, for whatever reason. Each developer hasn't been willing to take that step and keeps asking for a guarantor - the city, HRA, and or Northland Community College Foundation. "It's not in the cards that any of those groups take it on because we cannot control what happens to any of those institutions," Stewart said.

The meeting concluded with an individual asking "where do we go from here?" Lynn Fundingsland, said he would put together a menu of housing programs. One of the other problems is that the city doesn't have anyone on staff devoted full-time to the problem or anyone who who has the experience in housing programs to help solve the problem. MMCDC representatives hope to get back to city after meeting with its board of directors. The city will also take a look at the Essential Function bond and programs offered by Northwest Regional Housing Redevelopment Authority.

Another solution that will be discussed is the federal enterprise program. Recently a collaborative application involving Thief River Falls, Bemidji and townships in the Staples and Wadena area was submitted for a federal enterprise community. In the strategic plan that was submitted, the key part of that application was housing. The hopeful news is that the groups involved in the program would get $3 million, and matching credits from the state. Stewart said the city has been informed that there were 131 applications submitted nationwide, and 33 communities will be designated. "We think those are pretty good odds because this is a collaborative effort, and that is always looked on favorably. At least, they'll give the application a good hard look."

District Governor tells Toastmasters wisdom of ages

Dr. John Eggers of Bemidji, District Governor of Toastmasters International, was a recent guest speaker at a meeting of the Northwest Toastmasters Club in Thief River Falls.

Northwest Toastmasters meets the second Tuesday of each month at 12 noon on the Thief River Falls Public Library and the fourth Tuesday of each month at 7 a.m. at Northwest Medical Center. Visitors to any of the meetings are always welcome.

Eggers' message to the local club is contained in the following article he wrote for the Bemidji Pioneer:

What do you think is the wisdom of the ages? Try this on for size.

It seems this wise, old woman was about to pass from this Earth. After leading her people for many years, it was her wish to leave a legacy. So, she sent for her scholarly advisers and directed them to search the land and the libraries far and near to bring to her the wisdom of the ages. This would be her legacy.

Well, her advisers were out searching for more than a year and they returned with an encyclopedia-size report filled with what they considered to be the wisdom of the ages. The wise woman said, "It's much-too-long. People won't read it. Go back and try again."

Her advisers took the report back and returned in six months with a report about half the size. "It's still too long," she said. "Return to your research and try again."

The editing and revising continued for many months until her advisers condensed it to one sentence. "I am pleased," she said. "This truly is the wisdom of the ages that will guide my people after I am gone."

And she went on to read the wisdom of the ages: "There' ain't no free lunch."

I wish there was a "free lunch" that would enable us to become an effective speaker—a skill that we use daily. But, "there ain't." There is no magic pill, no speed-speaking course, no easy way.

But I will let you in on a secret. One of the best kept secrets in Beltrami county is Bemidji Area Toastmasters.

Toastmasters is for teachers and trainers and parents and preachers and anyone else who is interested in improving self-confidence, people skills and their ability to close the sale or how to motivate others to action. And, it's for people who merely want to have some fun, share points of view and enjoy listening to others.

Oh, yes, I forgot. It's also for people who want to improve their public speaking skills. Here's a sampling of what you will learn.

You will learn how to hook your audience at the beginning so they won't leave you—physically or mentally. This not only includes public speaking occasions but during meetings and in classrooms.

You will learn the importance of listening with your eyes when speaking and adapt your speaking to what your audience needs.

You will learn how to speak without using notes and without memorizing your speech by using visualization and other techniques.

You will learn the importance of putting "you" into your speaking to help you establish trust.

You will learn to use such vocal variety tricks like whispering and pausing to hold your listeners' attention.

You will learn how to develop confidence, to relax and to speak as if you were talking to your friends.

You will learn the importance of making eye contact with your entire audience and occasionally pausing to focus on one individual.

You will learn to avoid annoying spoken idiosyncrasies like too many "ahs," and "OKs." Toastmasters also checks for grammar.

You will learn the importance of humor and how to involve your audience.

You will learn how to end a speech without having to say "thank you."

There ain't no free lunch when it comes to effective public speaking. On the other hand, when you join Toastmasters you will improve your public speaking ability—guaranteed.

Tips for Eating Five a Day

Wondering how you can fit more fruits and vegetables into your meals? You may have heard the advice to eat five servings of fruits and vegetables a day from health authorities like the American Institute for Cancer Research and the National Cancer Institute. Now, with summer's bounty of delicious fruits and vegetables available at every fruit stand and grocery store, it's easy to eat five a day. Here are some handy tips:

- Top breakfast cereal with fresh fruit, and drink a glass of juice.
- Keep some fresh fruit at work or in your briefcase for a snack.
- Dried fruits, like raisins, are easy to keep on hand for lunch or munchies.
- If time is a problem, buy chopped fruits and vegetables at market salad bars.
- Put leftover vegetables or salad in the blender with some tomato or vegetable juice to make cold gazpacho soup.
- Thicken sauces with cooked, pureed vegetables.
- Moisturize lean ground meats by adding raw, grated carrot, potato or apple to lean ground beef or turkey burgers, meat loaf or meat balls.
- Add chopped raw or pureed vegetables to soups.
- Try a new fruit or vegetable every couple of weeks, experimenting with some of the more exotic varieties that supermarkets now carry.
- Make your usual salad a little different by adding fresh fruit to your favorite ingredients.
- Drink fruit or vegetable juice instead of soda.
- Mix a variety of chopped vegetables with grain dishes, like pasta or rice, during the last few minutes of cooking.
- If you're worried about not using up fresh produce before it spoils, buy frozen, chopped vegetables and fruit so you can use the quantity you want for each meal.
- Snack on raw vegetables with dip made from low-fat yogurt or low-fat salad dressings.
- Keep a bowl of fresh fruit on the table at home for anytime snacking.

Library offers videocassettes as new way to "read"

In this fast-paced life, it is sometimes difficult to find time to read. So what do people do? Many "read books" on audiocassette.

Books recorded on audiocassette tapes — "books-on-cassette" or "talking books," as they are often called — are becoming a staple item at bookstores and libraries across the country. Many college and university classes now accept this format as a bibliographic resource for research papers. Even classrooms are using books-on-cassette for students.

Jess Comstock, a first grade teacher at Challenger elementary school, applied for and received a Thief River Falls Education Foundation grant last year to puchase a listening center to further motivate her first graders to read. "The listening library enables a small group of children to appreciate children's literature spontaneously with a variety of narrators," said Comstock.

Students with reading problems also benefit from books-on-cassette. Gloria Bjorkman, director of compensatory education for the TRF school system, said, "Whenever possible, we have textbooks and elementary reading books-on-cassette available. If we can't find taped books, we have volunteers who read books into cassettes — with permission — for use by students with learning disabilities. These are used in the classroom or taken home for use there. We find students increase their reading skills by reading along with the tape and the learning frustration level is dramatically decreased. It's a valuable tool!"

Bjorkman also noted that while it has become a valuable educational tool, it was difficult to first get students acclimated to using the tapes. They were afraid of "standing out" or being "different" because of the different learning style.

She said, "At first we had to work at establishing a comfort level with learning on audiocassette with our students. Now all the kids listen to music from small cassettes with earphones. If you don't have something hooked into your head, you're unusual. That's taken away the stigma. After all, no one has to know you're listening to lessons. You could be listening to rock music like your peers for all your friends would know."

TRF public librarian Heidi Hoks noted that the books-on-cassette collection is used by a wide variety of people, some of whom are those with learning disabilities, people whose eyesight is failing, people taking vacations, people who commute to work or school, truckers, farmers, children who are beginning to read, and walkers and joggers.

"We also have a lot of people who just enjoy their books this way," she said. "They'll go home, pop in a cassette and relax a bit while they listen to a novel or an informational cassette. In fact, when we surveyed business people last fall about what format they preferred for business materials, audiocassettes tied with books. That's why we ordered so many audiocassettes with the Northwest Minnesota Initiative Fund's grant for the non-profit and business collection."

It seems the public agrees. Begun in the mid 1980's at the request of Hartz truckers, the TRF public library's audiocassette collection has increased both in size and number of users.

Disney on Parade was the theme of the annual Retired and Senior Volunteer Program (RSVP) banquets held recently. RSVP volunteers from Norman, Pennington, Marshall, Polk and Red Lake counties were honored at two separate banquets at the Northland Inn in Crookston. The annual appreciation banquets celebrate the 100,000 hours of volunteer service RSVP members have given to their communities over the past year. Shown above are (left to right) Dab Zak, RSVP Advisory Board member, Pennington County Extension office; Ken Murphy, Pennington County Commissioner; LeRoy Stumpf, State Senator; Daanna Palanaude, RSVP Director; and Henry Gredvig, RSVP Advisory Board member. Gredvig was "Mouster of Ceremonies" for the banquets.

Banquets in Crookston honor senior volunteers

Area volunteers are honored at "Disney on Parade" banquets

Two banquets hosted by the Retired and Senior Volunteer Program (RSVP) entitled "Disney on Parade" honored senior volunteers in a five county area recently. RSVP advisory board members and county coordinators, many in Disney character costumes, assisted and entertained at the banquets.

Over 500 people attended the two banquets, which were held at the Northland Inn in Crookston. Volunteers from Marshall, Norman and Pennington counties were honored at the first banquet, and those from Polk and Red Lake counties were honored at the second.

Julie Aanenson, member of the RSVP advisory board, stated, "The annual appreciation banquets celebrate the 100,000 hours of volunteer service RSVP people have given to their communities over the past year. They are wonderful, talented people with a lifetime of experiences to share."

RSVP Director Deanna Patenaude said there are about 1,000 volunteers in the program in the five county area.

RSVP provides opportunities for adults ages 55 and older to volunteer on a regular basis in a variety of community settings. Areas of service include hospitals, nursing homes, schools, museums, libraries, group homes, nutrition sites, senior centers and more.

"We like to consider these RSVP volunteers as wonderful resources," Patnaude said. "They have a vast amount of wisdom, knowledge and experience to offer."

RSVP volunteers not only meet the needs for human services in their communities, but volunteering is a two-way street, Patenaude said. "Our seniors meet needs in their communities, but RSVP also provides them with opportunities to stay active and healthy by helping others."

RSVP receives operating authority from the federal government. It receives support from the state of Minnesota and many county and local governments, as well as participating non-profit organizations including United Way and other contributions.

"It's strictly a volunteer program — the people are not paid in any way," Patenaude emphasized. "These banquets are one way to say 'thank you' for the thousands of hours they contribute. There is no criteria as far as hours to become an RSVP volunteer. They choose how much time to spend volunteering."

If anyone aged 55 and over is interested in learning more about RSVP, they can contact Patenaude at 281-8288. The RSVP office is located at the University of Minnesota, Crookston, Center.

"If they are interested in volunteering at a specific place, we'll do our best to get them into that place," Patenaude said. "If they're interested in a certain area, whether it is working with children, working with other seniors, or working on environmental projects — there's a vast

Tips on how to eat 5 fruits and veggies a day

- Grab a piece of fruit to eat when you're headed out the door.
- When you choose pizza, load up on vegetable toppings instead of sausage or pepperoni.
- Eat two vegetables at dinner and a smaller portion of meat.
- Try eating a meatless meal once a week, choosing filling vegetables like potatoes with broccoli or black beans with spinach, along with a generous helping of grains.
- Eat fruit for dessert and choose desserts that are made with fruit, or top desserts like low-fat frozen yogurt with fruit.

As the summer heats up, fruits and vegetables can be your main source of cool and nutritious meals and snacks. Enjoy!

Audiocassettes — a new way to read — are at NW Regional Library

Mark Johnson uses talking-books on his commute to UND. He sees them as an avenue to expand his knowledge and also as recreation. "They've given me a chance to do some reading I would have otherwise not been able to do," he reported.

Books-on-cassette can also be used in family time. "We listen to books-on-cassette as a family before going to bed," said Kay Teeters-Asp. "It's not a format I would have considered checking out from the library before, but my eight-year-old son Eric loves Star Trek and is always looking for Star Trek books. "One day he asked for help at the desk and Carol gave him not only Star Trek books, but also a Star Trek audio. Carol went with him to the book shelves and audio shelves and talked to him about all the other books and audios the library had that he would like. I was impressed! Because of that extra effort, we've been hooked on audiocassette-books as an additional form of reading enjoyment."

The vistas of audiocassettes are rapidly expanding. Some books-on-cassette are actually released before the hardcover books are released. Some books-on-cassette are never even printed and only appear in audiocassette format.

"It's an exciting format," said Hoks. "If you haven't tried it, you'll find many novels and informational audiocassettes are available both in stores and at the public library, so give them a listen and discover a new way to read."

American Cancer Society appeals for assistance

American Cancer Society's Pennington County unit, is making its fiscal year-end effort to raise funds to support cancer research and distribution of educational materials.

Due to unusual circumstances, the agency was unable to conduct its door to door residential fund drive this year and is asking that anyone interested in making a donation to support the American Cancer Society, to send donations to American Cancer Society, 319 North Crocker, Thief River Falls, MN 56701.

At a board meeting Monday night, the agency also elected Frank Womack as its president. Officers for the agency also include the following: Audrey Bruggeman, secretary, Barbara Lendobeja, treasurer, Lillian Ranum, memorial chair, Julie Desrocher and Diane Freeman, service and rehabilitation, Julie Rohl, public education chair, Sharon Russell, professional education chair, Dave Hill, public information chair, and Gordy Peterson, nominating chair.

Cancer survival rates are increasing dramatically. In the early part of the century, there was little hope of long term survival. Today, nearly 50 per cent of those diagnosed with cancer survive five years or more.

Regular screening and self-exams can detect cancers of the breast, tongue, mouth, colon, rectum, cervix, prostate, testis, and melanoma at an early stage, when treatment is more likely to be successful.

The American Cancer Society is every community's resource for lifesaving information on cancer prevention, early detection, and treatment. Lately though, the public has become confused by the number of organizations with similar names, but dissimilar missions.

The American Cancer Society is the nationwide, community-based, voluntary health organization dedicated to eliminating cancer as a major health problem by preventing cancer, saving lives from cancer, and diminishing suffering from cancer through research, education, and service.

When you think of the American Cancer Society, remember the "Sword of Hope."

Sears seeks entrepreneur for retail store in TRF

Sears Merchandise Group announced it is seeking entrepreneurs to open a retail dealer store in Thief River Falls. The dealer store will offer customers appliances, electronics and lawn and garden equipment. There are about 275 of these dealer stores in operation nationwide.

"This new retail format offers customers the merchandise they want, such as our popular Kenmore and Craftsman products and other national brands, while providing a profitable business opportunity for an independent owner and Sears," said Steve Titus, divisional vice president of Sears dealer store program.

On average, the retail dealer stores have 5,000 square feet of selling space, and are owned by independent dealers who operate on a commission for merchandise sold.

Under the agreement between Sears and the authorized retail dealer, Sears stocks the store and provides the signage and cash register. The dealer provides the facility and hires the employees. There is no up-front payment required by Sears to enter into the agreement.

The dealer stores receive support from the Sears retail network, which includes systems and distribution support and Sears national marketing and advertising campaigns.

The stores accept SearsCharge, Discover Card, VISA, MarsterCard and American Express, as well as personal checks and cash for payment.

Like the Brand Central departments at larger Sears stores, the stores offer major home appliances from nationally recognized brands such as Kenmore, Whirlpool, Tappan, General Electric and Kitchen Aid. Washers and dryers, refrigerators, chest freezers, ranges, dishwashers, microwave ovens, and range hoods are all available. The stores also offer vacuum cleaners from Kenmore, Eureka and Hoover.

In consumer electronics, customers can shop for TVs, VCRs, camcorders, and stereo systems from leading manufacturers such as Sony, RCA, Magnavox and Zenith.

Craftsman brand lawn and garden equipment, along with Craftsman bench power tools and portable electric tools, are available. Kenmore water heaters, water softeners and gas grills are also sold.

interested parties are encouraged to call Sears at 708-286-9656.

River Valley . . . .

Julie, Jessica, Beth, and Joshua Oulke left on Thursday for Colorado Springs, CO after spending a month visiting with Julie's parents, Marv and Judy Egosother of Plummer and with Rick's parents in Trail.

IMPRESSIONS

Beth Johnson

I never imagined that this day would arrive. I was gently reminded of this day that would never arrive by the arrival in my mail of this coming year's school calendar. This is the first year that I do not need to live by the instructions and information in that calendar. Both of my children have graduated from high school. They are embarking on their own lives.

I do need to live by a couple of other instructional books having to do with my children. One of the books is the calendar of events and parental information for the college my children are attending. I need this publication so that in spite of my children's lack of knowledge of important days such as vacation days I will be informed.

The other book I am currently beginning to once again use is one that tells, in detail, all of the various things a child might need as he or she is going to live in a campus community. I have found the book to be invaluable in helping me get my first child to college adequately supplied with the necessities of life, and I expect it to be of value once again as I send my second son off to college. For those of you who may want to know, the book is Pack-up Your Pupil, by Judith Kunkel.

When the calendar for our school district arrived at our house, I was impressed by the African proverb it quotes: "It takes a whole village to educate a child". The calendar goes on to explain all the various ways we in the community help to educate the children of this community. Before a child can be packed up to go off to college, or for that matter, anywhere, a child must be trained. There is another proverb, from the book of Proverbs 22:6 which says "Train up a child in the way he should go, and when he is old he will not depart from it." Families train, educate, their children in many ways as they are growing. Communities also train and educate the children of the families of the community.

It is an awesome responsibility to train a child. We who educate, who train the children around us often stumble. In hindsight we can see many things we could have done differently in the training of the children with which we are blessed. Somehow, in spite of our fumbles, our children become educated. We do train them.

We have lived in many communities in various parts of our nation. Many communities have trained my children. My children have had the experiences of knowing a multitude of persons. Each of these people, in small ways and in great ways have influenced how my children now look at the world. All of the communities have had those who have had negative influences on my children. All of the communities have had those who have had positive influences on them as well. The stories I could relate would take volumes to tell. Some of the ways in which my children have been educated by the communities in which we have lived have hurt my children. One of the communities in which we lived did not value formal education. There my children learned other skills.

Communities teach children whether they try to or not. Our community seems to be aware of the greater role the community has in the raising of the children of this community. Our children can only benefit from a community that cares enough to share with its youngest members.

Communities are not the sole educational influence on a child. The family is where the child is nurtured. The family needs a supportive community in the important job of training its children so that when it is time to pack up a child that child can go confidently into the world.

Train up a child in the way he should go — it takes the whole village.

... Time for ... School Clothes

School is nearly upon us and it is time to...go shopping for school clothes. What fun!

No matter whether the children are elementary schoolage or teenagers, school shopping can be hazardous to your health – it can raise your blood pressure, make you depressed, empty your checking account and drive you crazy.

When you have younger children you think school shopping would be a simple matter.

The children are smaller, so the clothes don't cost so much, right? Wrong. Try pricing small children's shoes some time, and look at the prices on those tiny, little shirts and jeans. You will pay just as much for your little children's clothes as you do for your own, and get a lot less for your money because the clothing makers have never heard of reinforcing elbows or knees or making those tennis shoes washable.

If you think younger children will be satisfied with the cheaper clothes that aren't up-to-date in the fashion department you have another thing coming. They want the fancy brand names that the teens are wearing and they will holler and yell and pout in front of everyone else in the store until they get them or until you run out of patience and take them home – without the new school clothes.

Younger children don't need as many new clothes for school as older children. Wrong. Younger children need more clothes because they will be:

1) wearing them for play and getting them dirty so they will need more than one change each day,

2) wearing holes in them even before school starts,

3) leaving them at school and at friends' houses,

4) throwing them into corners and cracks around the house so they don't get in the wash and they have nothing to wear, and

5) needing a whole new set of clothes after they get to school for the first day and find out all of their friends are wearing "such and such" brand of jeans and/or "such and so" brand of tennies.

Teenagers are not as hard to buy clothes for because you'd better not. There is no way a parent should try to buy clothing for a teen. It is a no-win situation. No matter what you choose for them, it will be wrong.

If you go out and buy their clothing without them, they will hate everything and it will all have to be taken back to the store. If the two of you go shopping together you will surely have a scene in the stores because the two of you will never agree on anything.

It is just as well that they go shopping alone and it might be a good idea if you just pay the bills and not even look at what they have brought into the house. That way there will be peace.

Anyway, if you don't look at it you will never know when they are wearing something new because their new clothes will look just like the old ones from last year that you were going to throw out and you won't be able to tell the difference and get upset that they spent so much money on such grubby-looking clothes.

The best thing to do when school clothes shopping time rolls around is take out a second mortgage on the house and call the doctor for a prescription for something to calm your nerves and keep your blood pressure on an even keel. Just remember, you are not alone. Every other parent of school age children is going through the same thing you are right now.

Campaign signs not allowed on highway

Intensifying political activity guarantees at least one thing — an increase in the number of candidates' election signs. The Minnesota Department of Transportation advises candidates and campaign managers that it is illegal to place their advertising signs on highway rights of way.

Minnesota law prohibits placing, printing, or affixing advertisements on any object within highway rights of way. Additionally, the state's Outdoor Advertising Control Act stipulates that advertising devices cannot be erected on trees, shrubs, drawn on rocks or other natural features or placed on utility poles. The act also requires obtaining permission from landowners when signs are placed on private property.

"These laws promote safety for motorists and care for the visual environment," notes Commissioner James N. Denn.

If improperly placed, signs are removed by Minnesota Department of Transportation employees. the department will store the signs temporarily and, when possible, notify candidates so the signs can be retrieved.

District offices may be contacted for help where specific right of way limits cannot clearly be determined. For the number of the district permits office that can help answer questions about sign placement, call the Minnesota Department of Transportation Information Center (612) 296-3000 or 1-800-657-3994. For people with hearing impairments, call TDD (612) 296-9930 or 1-800-657-3994.

Illegal dumping of solid waste can result in fine

People who believe an out-of-sight illegal dump is cheaper than paying for garbage collection may find that getting a ticket for illegal solid waste dumping can be much more costly than regular garbage collection, according to the Minnesota Pollution Control Agency (MPCA) and the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources.

In fact, the MPCA estimates that solid waste tickets, on average, are at least 20 times more expensive than fees at disposal facilities, such as landfills. Getting one of these tickets is a distinct possibility under a new law that went into effect August 1, giving DNR conservation officers and MPCA enforcement staff permanent authority to issue fines to people they catch illegally dumping solid waste.

For the past two years, under a temporary pilot project, state enforcement staff from the DNR and MPCA have been giving tickets to people caught illegally dumping solid waste without permits or permission from land owners. Previously, the two agencies were forced to pursue illegal dumpers through the criminal or civil legal process, often with mixed results.

The tickets range from $25 to more than $2,000, depending upon the types and amounts of waste dumped. The program has been so successful that this year the Minnesota Legislature gave the MPCA and DNR the permanent ability to issue these tickets as a way to discourage illegal dumping.

MPCA Commissioner Charles W. Williams said there is widespread agreement that solid waste tickets are effective. "The majority of local officials we surveyed felt ticketing was an excellent way to prevent illegal disposal," Williams said. "And it's a quick way for us to catch illegal dumps before they have a chance to grow."

Fines for illegal dumping include $25 per lead-acid battery, $25 per waste tire, $100 per major appliance and $1 per pound of miscellaneous garbage. Maximum fine for each category of solid waste is $2,000.

As of June 30, 1994, the DNR and MPCA had issued 203 solid waste tickets statewide, totaling $41,325. Money collected from these tickets is deposited in the state's Environmental Enforcement fund.

According to DNR Commissioner Rod W. Sando, the law allows DNR conservation officers to issue tickets immediately if they catch people dumping on state park lands. "We've had great success with this enforcement tool," Sando said. "And the law requires those dumping to clean up their garbage. So it helps us save taxpayer money when the DNR or local governments don't have to pay for clean-up."

Red Lake River drawdown is postponed to after September 1

Drawdown of the Red Lake reservoir in Thief River Falls has been postponed. It has been pushed back until after the first of September, but only if the dam at Red Lake reduces its flow.

Ron Lindberg, engineering services director, said, currently the dam at Red Lake is releasing 900 cubic feet per second, and that's too much to accomplish anything with a drawdown in Thief River Falls.

The reservoir is also getting flow from the Thief River which also compounds the problem.

The drawdown had been scheduled for sometime between August 15 and September 1, and would have been for only three or four days.

Lindberg said, the public will be informed when and if there will be a drawdown.

ACTIVITIES

Squirt Bottle Tag

The day is warm, the kids want to have a little fun, but nothing seems to be what they want to do? Try a game of tag.

You will need empty plastic bottles that dish detergent or shampoo came in. Fill them with water. Dress in kids in swim suits.

The rules are simple. Someone is "it." That person gets the squirt bottle and tries to catch the other children by squirting water at them. The child who gets squirted with water is the next "it."

Sounds like enough fun for adults, too.

Jackson, Ellen. Cinder Edna. Cinder Edna and Cinerella are two girls who live next door to each other and delightfully discover what can be done without the help of a fairy godmother.

Dorflinger, Carolyn. Tomorrow is Mom's Birthday. Tyler's dilemma of what to buy his mother for her birthday with only $5,95 is solved after carefully searching his mind for the perfect gift.

VIDEO VARIETY

Peter and the Wolf. This is a charming Russian musical classic about a mischievous boy and his animal friends who set out to capture an enemy wolf and learn some valuable lessons along the way.

PARENTING TIPS

What To Do In The Grocery Store To Help Children Behave (Without Spanking, Hitting or Yelling)

Shopping in a grocery store can be a frustrating experience when you have to shop with small children. On the other hand, it can also be a fun and educational experience. Part of what will make the difference is whether we are prepared for the experience. Think ahead and try to prevent problems before they occur. The following suggestions may help you. Remember that no one thing works for every child or every time. Be creative as you try to discover what will work with your child.

- Give your child a responsibility (to help look for items, match coupons to the labels, etc.)
- Praise your child for appropriate behavior
- Bring a favorite blanket, toy or book for your child
- Don't let your child out of your sight. If your child is out of the cart, hold hands, let your child hold onto the cart or help steer the grocery cart
- For a small child, tie a favorite soft toy to the handles of the shopping cart
- Play a game with your child. ("Let's count all the tennis shoes we see on people's feet," or "Let's see how many 'B's' you can find on the signs")

Good luck as you try some of these ideas.

Nelson leads Thieves' hitters

Three players hit over .400 and nine of them hit .300 or better during the recently-completed 1994 Thief River Falls Thieves amateur baseball season.

The .400 hitters included Chris Nelson at .437 (21/48). Marc Haugen .430 (28/65) and Corey Poole .413 (24/58). All three are Lincoln High School graduates with successful athletic backgrounds. Nelson played baseball and basketball at Mayville State. Haugen and Poole were members of the 1994 Northland Community College baseball team. Poole played two years of hockey at the University of Minnesota-Crookston and Haugen began the 1993-94 season in the United States Hockey League before winding up at Northland.

Senior amateur baseball returned to Thief River Falls this summer in the Thieves, with Poole, Nelson and Barry Dowers leading the fund-raising and organizational efforts.

With a good supply of available baseball talent, putting the team together wasn't all that difficult, according to Poole. "It was easier than I thought it would be," he said.

But financing what turned out to be a $3,0000 program proved to be a challenge. "The money situation was the hardest part," acknowledged Poole, who said a shortage of sponsor backing forced the players to cough up $100 apiece to cover the expenses for the year.

Thief River Falls went 14-7-1 this summer, a promising campaign that ended abruptly with a pair of losses to Warroad in the 2-out-of-3 game Northwest Border League championship playoff series. The Muskies, who lost to the Thieves in all four regular season meetings, advanced to the Region 12C state tournament-qualifying playoffs.

"We didn't do the little things we needed to do to win – like bunting," pointed out Poole. "We tried to go for the big inning."

Season No. 2 may feature new leadership for the Thieves since Poole is reportedly in line to succeed Howard Dalager as head coach of the Thief River Falls American Legion baseball team. Poole worked as an assistant this summer under Dalager, who resigned at the completion of the Ninth District tournament.

The district results started with wins over Highway 10 of Moorhead 12-8, Pasbt of International Falls 9-5, Becida of Bemidji 9-2 and Sportland of Moorhead 14-10 before a strong Bud Ice team of Moorhead stopped the Thief River Falls unbeaten status 10-6. Members of the team include Dennis Bendickson, Bob Huot, Jeff Johnson, Mike Gast, Greg Harder, John Rahn, Jeff Mumm, Mike Anderson, Al Erickson, Darin Leier, Scott Brekke, Tim Johnson, Brian Schug, Jeff Hitland, and Dave Jobe.

Other weekend tournaments included a third Thief River Falls invitational and two trips to Crookston.

The Class C state tournament features a 48-team field.

Thief River Falls' Pepsi and Busch joined Cellular 2000/Pizza Hut in the District 7 Class C field, where Pepsi went 4-2 to finish seventh – just missing a top-four state tournament-qualifying spot – and Busch had a 2-2 showing.

September goose hunt applications are due August 20

Hunters interested in hunting Canada geese during the three September special hunts are reminded by the Department of Natural Resources to submit their application by Aug. 20.

A $3 permit is required of all hunters for the September Twin Cities Metro, Southwest or Fergus Falls/Benson special seasons. A separate permit is required for each hunt.

The 10-day seasons run Sept. 3-12. Application forms are available from most license vendors, county auditors and DNR wildlife offices.

Applications should be submitted by Aug. 20 to ensure that hunters received the permits in time for the opening day hunt.

Zone descriptions and other season information are contained in the 1994 Hunting Regulations booklet.

Deadline is Sept. 8 for antlerless deer permit application

Sept. 8 is the last day for hunters to apply for a 1994 Minnesota antlerless deer permit. Mail-in applications must be postmarked no later than midnight, Sept. 8.

Officials caution that inaccurate completion of applications can result in exclusion from the lottery.

"The most common application errors are incorrectly-written drivers license numbers, and dates of birth that are incorrectly recorded," noted Karen Beckman, License Bureau assistant administrator. "And the signature," she added. "Remember to sign that application."

Dennis and Betty Kezar of Thief River Falls were inducted into the Pennington County 4-H Hall of Fame and presented with a plaque recognizing that honor during the Pennington County Fair. The presentation had been scheduled to take place during the 4-H fashion revue Sunday, July 24, but Dennis and Betty—who were unaware they had been selected—were not in the same place at the same time. Family members finally corraled the couple for a presentation at the bandshell early that evening. The film on which this photo was taken remained in the county extension office camera until this week. The Kezers are a long-time 4-H family and Betty has worked many years at the county extension office.

New balloting system to be used during elections

Voters in Pennington county will be confronted with a new system of voting this fall. Beginning with the fall primary, voters will be asked to mark paper ballots.

Penningtoe county and Thief River Falls have bought into a new optical scanner, which reads paper ballots marked with pencil.

The instructions are fairly simple: Fill in the oval with a pencil provided at the polling place and slip the ballot into a special ballot cover and return it to the election judges.

Pennington county and Thief River Falls were among the last in Minnesota to use punch ballots and the state has been encouraging them to change to the optical scanning system because it was getting increasingly difficult to obtain punch card ballots.

Once the ballots are collected and turned over to the county auditor, the ballots are placed in an optical scanner. The scanner is capable of reading 150 ballots per minute and provides breakdowns by precinct and separates incomplete or improperly marked ballots.

Tests are being conducted on the system and election judges will receive training on the new system prior to the primary election on September 13.

The following information about voting is provided by the State of Minnesota:

Who can vote? You can vote if you are: 18 or older, a U.S. citizen, a Minnesota resident for at least 20 days before the election, you are not a convicted felon without civil rights, you are not under guardianship of another person, you are not legally incompetent.

Voter registration. On election day, go to your polling place. You will be asked for your name, address and birthdate. If you're on the list of voters, you will be asked to sign and then you'll get a voter's receipt. You can then trade the voter's receipt for a ballot.

You do need to be on the official list of voters before you can vote. If you are not already registered, you can add your name to the list by filling out a voter registration card.

When you fill out the card, you must give the address where you are living at the time of the election. If you are a student living at school, you can register either at home or at school (but not at both) depending on your residence.

You can obtain a voter registration card: at state, county, or city offices or libraries; when you apply for, renew or change your Minnesota driver's license or ID card; in state income tax booklets; from the registrar's office at most colleges, universities and technical schools in Minnesota; at many businesses, stores, and community organizations.

Mail in or drop off the completed card at your city clerk, county auditor or the secretary of state's office.

If you miss registering before the election, you can still vote by registering on election day at your polling place. All you need is one of the documents listed below that shows your current address in the precinct where you live: a Minnesota driver's license, learner permit or identification card; a notice of ineffective registration card mailed to you by your county auditor; the oath of someone who is registered in the same precinct who knows you live in the precinct and who can go to the polling place with you.

If you are a college student, you can use: a student fee statement showing your address in the precinct and photo ID card; a stu-

Pennington county and Thief River Falls have purchased an optical scanning machine to count ballots in elections. This will replace the punch ballot system voters have used for many years. Instead of punching holes in ballots, voters will be asked to use a pencil to blacken the oval opposite the name of each candidate they wish to vote for.

Pennington added to disaster county list

U.S. Congressman Collin Peterson announced Friday, August 19, that Polk, Pennington, and Red Lake counties have been declared primary disaster areas by Secretary of Agriculture, Mike Espy. The declaration clears the way for special loan programs to area farmers who have suffered extensive crop losses.

Secretary Espy noted that crop damage from recent severe weather warrants aid under the Emergency Agricultural Credit Act of 1984. Beltrami, Clearwater, Mahnomen, Marshall, Norman counties were named as contiguous disaster counties.

The disaster declaration enables farmers in both primary and contiguous counties to apply for low-interest emergency loans administered by FmHA. Contact local FmHA offices for assistance with applications and further information.

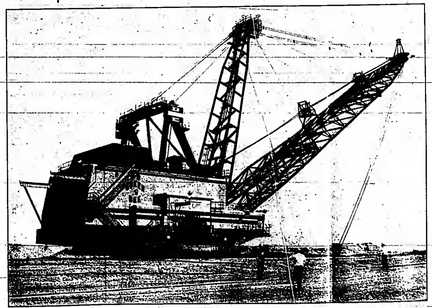
Electric power for Thief River Falls and area cities is created on the coal fields of North Dakota



As the "Queen Bee" removes overburden in 78-cubic-yard scoops, mine manager Alan Abbey of the Knife River Coal Mining Company's Beulah Mine pauses to have his photo taken by a visiting journalist. Abbey conducted the tour of the mine in central North Dakota last Thursday. The huge dragline weighs 7,500,000 pounds and swivels on its own base, moving about 230 cubic yards of earth every two minutes. When it is time to move, the dragline is raised on its pontoon-type pads and walked backward by a concentric wheel drive, similar to a person seated on the floor and scooting backward by lifting weight with the arms and pushing with the feet. Abbey accommodated the tour group by having the huge bucket placed on the ground near the tour bus for pictures. "We don't want to take too long," he explained. "The cost of this rig is $500 an hour just in depreciation." The dragline is operated 24 hours a day, 365 days a year, except when a blizzard may restrict visibility. It is powered by electricity through the cable shown in the foreground at a cost less than half of what diesel operation would be.

by Marvio Lundio
Times Editor

Electricity isn't something most people think about very much. It's expected to be available when the switch is flipped or slid or turned and the lights go on or the motors run or the stove gets hot. Like winter snow or summer grass, it's just supposed to be there.

That it takes a powerful lot of planning and performance to create electricity and bring it to the switches and outlets in Thief River Falls homes and business places was brought home to about four dozen area residents last week during a tour to the Coyote Electric Generating Station and Beulah Mine of the Knife River Coal Mining Company in west-central North Dakota.

While most of the group rode a charter bus and had a three-day trip, half a dozen newspaper representatives were allowed a one-day tour through the courtesy of Minnkota Power Cooperative of Grand Forks, ND. Larry Gebhardt piloted the cooperative's twin-engine Piper Cheyenne for the trip which left Thief River Falls regional airport at 8:30 a.m. and returned at 5:05 p.m.

From the Mercer County Regional Airport at Hazen, ND, where the plane landed at 9:45 a.m., transportation was provided by Montana-Dakota Utilities Co. (MDU) to the Coyote Electric Generating Station where our group of editors and reporters arrived about 10:20 a.m. We received a briefing from John Wilkens, manager of the Coyote station, then joined the bus tour group for conducted tours of the station.

It should be pointed out here that 30 per cent of the Coyote station is owned by the Northern Municipal Power Agency which has headquarters in Thief River Falls. The agency is comprised of 12 cities which receive their electric energy from the Coyote station. They are Thief River Falls, Bagley, Baudette, Fosston, Halstad, Hawley, Roseau, Stephen, Warren and Warroad in Minnesota and Grafton and Park River in North Dakota.

Other owners of the Coyote station are Otter Tail Power Company of Fergus Falls (35%), Northwestern Public Service Company of Huron, SD (10%) and Montana-Dakota Utilities Company of Bismarck, ND—which operates the plant (25%).

Purpose of involvement in the plant by the Northern Municipal Power Agency was to assure a long-term supply of electric power. The cities involved formed the agency in 1976 when it became known that hydro power from Garrison Dam and other Missouri river dams would not be sufficient to meet the increasing loads of its customers.

The cities turned to Minnkota Power Cooperative for supplemental power needs, but because of its financing from the Rural Electrification Administration (REA), the cooperative could not contract with the cities for more than four years. This was considered to be too short term. By forming the joint powers agency, the cities had the ability to raise capital through the issuance of tax-free municipal bonds.

From the financing of the plant to its size and requirements and the scale of mining that fuels it, the scale of numbers defies comprehension.

Under this agreement, the agency takes its power requirements from the Coyote plant as "retained capability" and Minnkota purchases the remainder as "sellback."

Instead of punching holes through ballots this year, voters will be asked to blacken the oval opposite the name of each candidate they wish to vote for. Voters must be careful not to leave any other marks on the ballot or to use an eraser. The optical scanning machine that will count the ballots is sensitive enough to pick up any mark on the ballot. If a voter makes a mistake and wishes to correct the mistake they will be asked to obtain a new ballot. This system will be used for elections in Thief River Falls, Pennington county and School District 564.

'Tis the Season to Sneeze

With hay fever season upon us, it is time to explore what causes your watery eyes and itchy nose, and what can be done about it. Most seasonal allergies are caused by airborne pollen, or minuscule granules that fertilize plants and trees. They are spread by the wind throughout the spring, summer and fall growing seasons and have been found hundreds of miles out to sea and miles high in the air.

Susceptibility to pollen tends to be inherited, and may be triggered during periods of immunosuppression, such as after a viral illness. Once a granule lands on the mucous membranes of your nose, it sets off a chain reaction that causes your body to release histamines and other power chemicals. These dialate the small blood vessels in the nose and sinuses, causing fluids to escape and the membranes to swell.

Other common symptoms of pollen allergy are dark circles under the eyes, caused by restricted blood flow near the sinuses, and conjunctivitis (red-rimmed eyes).

If that describes yoo, pay attention to the daily pollen count, which is expressed as the number of pollen granules per square meter of air collected over 24 hours. It tends to be highest on warm, dry, breezy days, and in the morning.

If you can, stay indoors in filtered or air conditioned air when the pollen count is high. If you must go out, turn on the air conditioning in your car.

A second tactic is to control seasonal allergies through medication, typically through a combination of an antihistamine and a decongestant.

Ask your doctor about your options, including 12-hour, slow-release prescription drugs that do not cause drowsiness or impair your ability to function. Numerous allergy medications are also available over the counter.

A third solution, reserved for those who suffer the most, is to undergo immunotherapy (also called allergy shots). Once the offending pollens have been identi-

Persons over 60 needed to be foster grandparents in area

Foster grandparents are needed in the Thief River Falls area in the public school system and the Head Start program. If you are over the age of 60, meet income guidelines, are in good health, and have time ond love to give, the Foster Grandparent Program may be for you.

There are no educational requirements for foster grandparents. They work with children, providing emotional support and empathy; helping with development of basic learning skills, self care and motor skills; and assisting children to achieve independent living skills. # Allergy season fied, diluted extracts will be injected in weekly or twice-weekly doses. The cumulative effect over time will be for your immune system to build up tolerance.

People with seasonal allergies sometimes long to move some place where the offending plants and trees do not grow. Unfortunately, a person who is sensitive to one type of pollen often develops allergies to another. Do not leave the ragweed-ridden fall in northeastern states only to suffer from tumbleweed pollen in the southwest desert spring.

- At West Acres in Fargo on Tuesday and Wednesday, September 20 and 21, from 6 to 8:45 p.m. Call ASK-A-NURSE at 701-280-4500 for required appointment.
- At the clinic in Jamestown on Tuesday, September 20, from 6 to 8:30 p.m. Call the clinic at 701-252-0120 for required appointment.

Cancer of the prostate is one of the more common cancers among men. Because prostate cancer is usually slow growing, early detection leads to greatly improved success in treatment. As recommended by the American Cancer Society, the screening will include both a digital rectal examination and a simple PSA (prostate specific antigen) blood test.

The $15 charge will cover the cost of testing kits for both tests. Testing is free.

Preregistration is necessary.

SPEAKING OF

Sherry LaCourciere

...The Joys of Driving In TRF

It must be time to talk about TRF drivers again. Have you noticed how hazardous it is to drive around town lately? It seems as if all the bad drivers in Pennington and surrounding counties have converged on TRF the past couple of months.

No doubt the road construction around town is making things worse, but it seems as if some people on the streets of TRF just don't have a clue about how to drive. Now that traffic is being concentrated into fewer streets and all lanes are being used, the problems are being compounded and the lousy drivers are more evident.

One big problem I've noticed lately is that people don't signal the way they should. Does anyone even bother to signal in this town anymore? Aren't signals supposed to be utilized prior to moving into the turning lane, right about halfway through the block?

How many people are using their signals properly anymore? I can't tell you how many times I have come upon (from behind) or sat across from someone who put his or her signal on as they are sitting at the intersection waiting for the light to turn green.

And some people use their signals diligently – actually, some of them keep them on for blocks, have you noticed?

But that is beside the point. I was talking about those drivers who just don't know which lane they are supposed to be sitting in. Have you ever sat across from someone at a street light who is signally for a left turn – while they are sitting in the center lane? It is very disconcerting, to say the least.

It is even worse, however, to come upon someone like that from behind – and be signalling for a left turn yourself! Yikes – what to do? Your brain says you are signalling for a left turn so you darn well better turn left.

However, if you move into the left turning lane for your turn you may get smucked, because if that person in the middle lane can't tell which lane is the left turn lane, they aren't going to notice or care that you are sitting there beside them, either, and will turn left right into you. In a situation like that, I usually let the center lane driver go first – anywhere he or she wants to go – so that he or she will hopefully get out of my way.

What about those people heading east who take up the right turning lane on First Street by the clinic? I thought that lane was only for right turns into the clinic lot. Why are people who plan to continue on to Pennington Avenue in that lane anyway? Some day they will smack a doctor or nurse who is trying to get out of the driveway in the parking lot behind the hospital.

And speaking of the clinic, is that some kind of parking lot or what! There is simply not enough room in it for all of the people who come to the clinic or the hospital during the day. Cars are parked bumper-to-bumper, door-to-door and there are still cars driving around and around looking for a spot to park

Heaven help the poor people who are coming to see the doctor for feet or leg problems, because we all know that they will be the ones that have to park at the farthest end of the parking lot, or at the lot across First Street — on the (hottest) (wettest) (coldest) day of the year. I think whoever thought up that lot wasn't thinking in the first place.

What about the street lights? It appears that they are set on slow-slower-slowest lately. At prime times of the day, 8 a.m., 12 noon, and 5 p.m., traffic is backed up for blocks waiting for the light to turn green. Surely they must be set on the longest possible timers. This seems rather strange, especially when there are so many cars and big trucks on the downtown streets nowadays.

Speaking of trucks, wouldn't an alternate route be a good idea for those big things? Talk about holding up traffic – try sitting behind one of those monsters while it is turning at a downtown intersection. And so many of them carry loads of things that are downright dangerous – things that could drop off and do damage to the little car behind it.

And isn't it fun to be stuck in the left lane when one of those big trucks is turning toward you – with cars to your right and tight up behind you so you can't move anywhere? I just know that some day one of those big buggers is going to get me. Usually, I just close my eyes and pray – out loud.

Surely this cannot be the end of the problems of driving in TRF – can it? Surely this tale will continue next week, won't it?

'Favorite Grandparent' essay winners honored Wednesday

Prize winners in the annual essay contest on "My Favorite Grandparent" were honored Wednesday, August 17, at a meeting of the locally sponsoring Northland Retired Educators Association. Parents of the winners were also honored guests at the dinner.

First prize winner was Matt Lutovsky, son of Darryl and Rene Lutovsky. Second place was awarded to Abby Austad, daughter of Ron and Val Austad. Third prize recipient was Angie Johnson, daughter of Mark and Marilyn Johnson.

The contest is sponsored annually on a statewide basis by the Minnesota Council on Aging and is open to sixth grade students. Mrs. Marilyn Adams coordinated the project at Franklin Middle School in Thief River Falls where the local winners entered. Mrs. Edith Etter coordinated the event in Thief River Falls for Northland Retired Educators Association.

Sixth graders are given the option of writing about "My Grandparents," "My Grandmother," "My Grandfather" or "My Best Older Friend," any of which should be at least 60 years of age. More than 200 different senior groups submitted more than 400 winning local essays for statewide judging last year.

Winning entries were read by their young writers at the dinner last Wednesday. The essays follow:

FIRST PLACE WINNER
"What My Grandma Is To Me"
by Matt Lutovsky

My grandma, to me, is a loving, caring and thoughtful person. She makes a place for me when I go to visit.

My grandma, Gertrude Lutovsky, lives in Grafton, North Dakota, on a farm. Even though I live about 75 miles away, I still visit her much. In the summer, I usually visit for a week by myself. Once, I got locked in the outhouse and yelled, "Grandma! Help!" so loud I almost broke a window, but, like superwoman, she rescued me.

My grandma enjoys cooking, yard work, and watching daytime soaps. She also is a big Minnesota Twins fan.

My grandma makes very good meals. Her soup, chicken noodle, is the best. It seems that no matter when we visit, she always has stew, which I don't like as much.

One thing my grandma and I do is talk. We talk about my dad, my grandpa, who died in 1985, and what will happen next on "Days of Our Lives." My grandma is never short on funny anecdotes about my dad and his siblings. She tells about how crazy they drove her.

My grandma is still going strong at age 75. She still mows most of the farm, which isn't easy, trims bushes, and keeps up a garden which is very big. Sometimes I wonder how much energy she had when she was my age.

If grandmas were candy, mine would be an "Everlasting Gobstopper."

SECOND PLACE
"My Grandparents"
by Abby Austad

I love my grandparents LaVonne and Donald Austad very much. They are there for me whenever I need something. Both my grandma and grandpa are nice and caring. My grandpa likes to joke around a lot. He is a welder and somehow his finger got cut off. I always ask him how it happened, and he always tells me, "Grandma did it."

In his spare time my grandpa likes to read and watch western shows on the television. My grandma really gets into those soap operas on t.v. So when my family goes up to Lake Bronson where they live, she tells me what's happening on the soap operas. Sometimes she makes me laugh because she gets so upset at what the people on the soap operas are doing.

Whenever I go up to my grandma and grandpa's house, my grandma always has cookies in the cookie jar or something else she has baked. My grandpa likes it when she bakes. I guess I do too! Whenever supper comes my grandma always makes big meals and of course, they are always good. She always says, "eat more, eat more."

As I said, my grandpa is a welder and has his own little shop out in the garage. Sometimes I go out and visit him and maybe even try to help him. Even my grandma goes out there, but not for long because she is a little clumsy. She thinks she will get dirty. So just my grandpa and I sit out there and eat cookies and tell stories.

When my grandma and grandpa are watching a sport on television and my grandma is cheering for one team, just to be funny, my grandpa will cheer for the opposite team just to get my grandma wound up. My grandparents love me and they know I love them too. So when I need to laugh, I just call them up.

THIRD PLACE WINNER
"My Grandma"
by Angie Johnson

My grandma's name is Evelyn Johnson. She was born in the country, by a little town named Roslyn, South Dakota. My grandma now lives in Sisseton, South Dakota. Right now, she is 79 years young! She was born on Halloween, October 31, 1914.

My grandma has white hair and glasses. She seems a little bit short. Every time that I see her it looks as if she has shrunk!

Grandma Johnson loves to play "Rook," a card game, and "Aggravation," a board game with marbles and dice. Whenever she comes to our house, we stay up until about midnight playing Rook. Then, when we go to her house, we stay up and play Aggravation. We always have a lot of fun.

My grandma also likes to cook. When we go to see her, she usually has something baking in the oven, or just out of the oven. You can smell it the second you open her door. My favorite food is her caramel rolls. Grandma Johnson makes them so good! They are the world's best!

Grandma Johnson is really my great-grandmother, and she is great! She has four children, eleven grandchildren and seven great-grandchildren. Her great-grandchildren are Angie (that's me!), Nicole and Kayla—my sisters, and my cousins—Ashley, Amber, Courtney and Brody.

I don't get to see Grandma Johnson that often, usually on the holidays, though. But, we always have lots of fun when we see her!

The reason I like my grandma so much is, whenever something is wrong, she will talk to you about it. If you are just down about something, she will do all that she can to cheer you up.

I wish that everyone could have someone as special as my grandma is to me!

TIMES FOR TODDLERS

ACTIVITIES

Watermelon Slurps

You will need watermelon, plastic drink straws, plastic Ziplock bags, a knife for cutting (adults only), and serrated plastic knives. Cut open the chilled watermelon and cut it into one-inch chunks. Children can help cut up the chunks with the plastic knives. Be sure to remove all the seeds. Place the seedless chunks of watermelon in the plastic bags. Close all but one corner of each bag. Insert the plastic straw into the open corner and push it down into the bottom of the bag. Children can now squash the watermelon and sip the juice through the straw.

PARENTING TIPS

More Ideas on What To Do In The Grocery Store To Help Children Behave...Without Spanking, Hitting or Yelling

Last week we discussed some ideas for what to do with children to help them act appropriately in the grocery store. Here are some additional ideas to help you make shopping a pleasant experience.

- Reward good behavior. Promise to play a game or read a story when you get home, and then do it! In the meantime, praise, praise, praise! Whenever your child is doing something right, let him/her know.
- Describe a food in the cart and ask your child to guess the food.
- Bring a pad and pencil or magic markers for your child to use while you are shopping.
- Stop unacceptable behavior as it occurs. Don't ignore behavior that is dangerous, destructive or embarrassing. Don't let your child think that you will allow him/her to misbehave in public.
- Develop some "sign language" at home with your child, signals which mean: "Stop," "Come Here" or "Be Careful" to use in public. Children are very responsive and strangers are impressed.

Good luck as you try some of these ideas. Remember that no one thing works with every child or every time. Be creative as you try to discover what will work with your child.

Coyote plant and Beulah Mine shown on tour

ject and the 30 per cent interest in ownership of the Coyote station—was $268,000,000.

The bonds went on the market for an average rate of nearly 12 per cent. Since then, however, the bonds have been refunded three times—in 1985, 1989 and 1992—at successively lower rates of 9.3, 7.6 and 6.1 per cent, resulting in a total savings over the life of the bond issue of $112,000,000. The investment guarantees the cities electric power until at least the year 2021.

Coyote station was built for $385 million, or less than $1,000 per KW of the 414.6 megawatt station. Its policy is to be in complete compliance with all Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) requirements while producing electricity at the lowest possible cost. In 1992, a study by Utility Data Institute showed Coyote plant to be 13th lowest among 798 plants studied in cost of production.

Operating with a staff of 99 people, the Coyote station has the smallest staff of any similar plant in the country. It has an employees suggestion plan to financially reward employees for helpful ideas and a strong safety program.

Since construction, the plant has undergone a $20 million retrofit to convert from a soda ash to fly ash and lime system in its scrubbers. Not only does it help reduce emissions, it saves $3.5 million per year on the cost of lime over soda ash alone.

A $450,000 stack monitoring system has been installed for constant monitoring of the emissions going up the station's smokestack. Monthly, quarterly and annual reports are submitted to the EPA which also conducts unannounced inspections. A new Honeywell computer control system is now being installed and is expected to be completed by the year 2000 at a cost of $6 million.

Dennis Pozarnsky, one of the plant's superintendents, conducted the tour for our group of a dozen visitors. The tour included a view from the roof of the 16-story plant—a view that looked down on the tipple where the coal to fire the plant is received and the cooling tower where turbine exhaust steam is condensed....and up, way up, to the top of the stack which is 42 feet wide at the base, 26 feet wide at the top and 498 feet high.

Last year the Coyote station burned approximately two million tons of coal (an average of 48,000 tons a week or up to 350 tons per hour), generated 2,677,260 megawatts of electricity and created 200,000 tons of particulate which was buried in excavated mine pits specially prepared with four feet of clay liner to protect the environment.

Following a luncheon and information session at a Knife River Coal Mining Company building, the tour group's bus was used to transport all members of the group to the Beulah Mine adjacent to the Coyote station. Alan Abbey, mine manager, who presented information on the mining procedure and answered questions at the luncheon, narrated the tour and answered additional questions.

Tour highlights were a close-up view of the "Queen Bee"—a Bucyrus-Erie Model 1570-W dragline with 310-foot boom and 78-yard bucket—and a demonstration of blasting that introduced to the tourists a new version of rock and roll.

Enormity of the dragline can't be realized until a person stands next to it. It weighs 3,750 tons—that's 7,500,000 pounds—and its boom is longer than goal line to goal line on a football field. It operates on electricity with power supplied by a special transmission line, substation and 1,600 feet of four-inch cable.

By way of evaluating the scale of present-day mining at the Beulah Mine, Abbey pointed out that a part of the mine area had been operated for 17 years by a local resident who made a comfortable living from his trade. The amount of coal removed during those 17 years would be the equivalent of what is presently removed in four hours.

Knife River Coal Mining Company operates three mines, each of which is a three-seam operation, meaning three seams or layers of lignite coal underlie the surface. The strip mining operation requires removal of up to 100 feet of overburden to reach the first seam and up to an additional 60 feet of innerburden to allow removal of all three seams. The seams of lignite are generally a dozen feet thick or less.

All strip mined land must be reclaimed suitable for agricultural production. Topsoil and subsoil are stockpiled and after the mining of a strip is done the excavation is filled and the subsoil and topsoil reapplied. Because of reduced compaction, the reclaimed area is not reduced in elevation by the footage depth of coal removed. Production of grain and hay on reclaimed land is said to be about the same as an undisturbed land in the area.

While Knife River Coal Mining Company has leases on approximately 30,700 acres of coal land underlain by more than 500 million tons of lignite reserves—enough to meet present demands for the next 50 years—the estimated lignite supply in North Dakota, Montana and Canada is believed to be sufficient to last 1,000 years.

Compared to bituminous and the harder anthracite coals, lignite is considered to be a "young" coal. It is higher in water content (38 per cent moisture) and lowest in heat value at 6,900 BTU per pound. It contains eight per cent ash and one per cent sulfur, requiring boilers utilizing it to have an extensive dry scrubbing system.

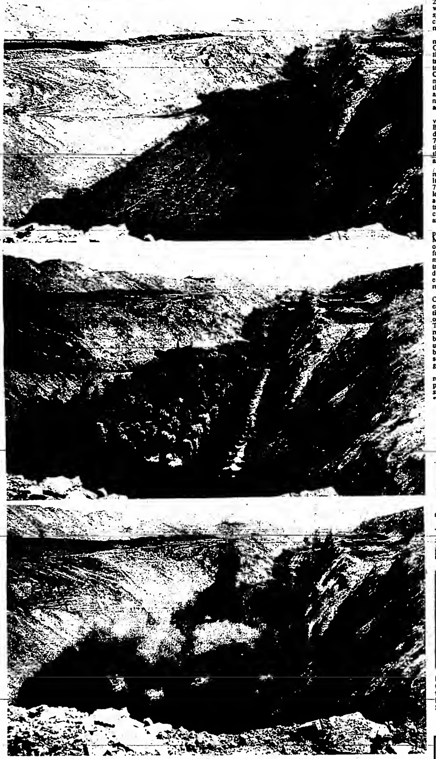
The Coyote station, major customer for the Beulah Mine production, uses about 25,000 tons of lime per year in its scrubbing system. A slurry of lime and fly ash is sprayed through atomizing wheels turning at more than 14,000 rpm. The resulting atomized reagent mist reacts with the hot flue gas containing sulfur dioxide to form calcium sulfite/sulfate particles. The particles of calcium sulfite/sulfate and fly ash travel to the baghouse which contains 7,752 fabric filter bags, each of which is 30 feet high and 11 1/2 inches in diameter. These bags are periodically emptied into hoppers through a system that deflates and shakes the bags.

This collected particulate is buried as mentioned earlier in this article. When the disposal sites are filled to capacity, they are capped and reclaimed to their natural state.

The principle for generating electricity by burning coal is simple—just heat water to create steam to turn a turbine whose shaft turns a magnet near coils of wire in a generator. The electricity generated by this process is the same electricity that is distributed to homes and businesses throughout the area.

While the principle is simple, the process is complex and the volumes are mind-boggling. Fortunately for residents of the communities which are part of the Northern Municipal Power Agency, people with foresight and courage undertook the effort necessary to provide the electrical supply necessary to meet our survival, business and comfort needs.

The next time your light comes on instantly at the flip of a switch, give a passing thought to a coal miner in North Dakota. Without him, it could be a long, dark night.



This part of a tour of the Knife River Coal Mining Company's Beulah Mine last Thursday was a real blast. That is to say it was a REAL blast! Mining company officials timed the blasting of a section of a seam of coal to coincide with a stop by a tour bus containing about four dozen visiting officials and media representatives. The area to be blasted was about 140 x360 feet in surface area and 12 feet deep. Holes were drilled 12 feet apart and ammonium nitrate (fertilizer and fuel oil) was used as the explosive. Foreground and center of the top photo shows the drill holes and connecting wire. Note the size of the truck in the center of the photo. The second photo shows the blast itself—actually a series of explosions just microseconds apart, moving from left to right. The row of explosives on the right is just detonating as this Times' photo is taken. Bottom photo shows a rising cloud of coal dust and loose debris cascading down the mine wall at right. The Coyote Electric Generating Station which supplies electric power to Thief River Falls and nine other northwestern Minnesota cities burns up to 300 tons per hour of coal from this mine. The coal is crushed twice after being hauled by truck to the nearby power plant.

Larry Gebherdt, pilot for Minnkota Power Cooperative, Inc., of Grand Forks, ND, flew the cooperative's twin engine plane to transport area newspaper editors and reporters to central North Dakota last Thursday for a tour of the Coyote Electric Generating Station and Knife River Coal Mining Company's Beulah Mine.

Cooling tower at the Coyote Electric Generating Station is made of concrete and features 500,000 ceramic tiles, 10 inches square and six inches thick. Water from the tower is used to condense the turbine exhaust steam. In turn, the cooling tower water is cooled by evaporation aided by ten 250 horsepower fans. The tower is 55 feet high, 500 feet long and 75 feet wide. The photo was taken from the roof of the 16-story generating plant.

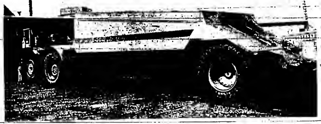
Main control room at the Coyote Electric Generating Station near Beulah, ND, is virtually unchanged since the plant went on line in 1981. An updated computer system is being installed at a cost $6 million with completion of the change-over projected for the year 2000.

John Wilkens, manager of the Coyote Electric Generating Station near Beulah, ND, reviewed the plant's background and operations for visiting officials and news media representatives last Thursday. Northern Municipal Power Agency, headquartered in Thief River Falls, owns 30 per cent of the plant which is operated by Montana-Dakota Utilities Co.



Beulah Mine of the Knife River Coal Mining Company operates nine trucks to haul coal from the mine to the tipple at the nearby Coyote Electric Generating Station. Six of the trucks are 120-ton Euclid models like the one above and three are 100-ton Mack trucks. This truck can dump its 120-ton load in approximately 15 seconds. Note size of driver at left.

Curtis Moos, one of the scrubber operators at the Coyote Electric Generating Station near Beulah, ND, shows a tour group how the scrubber units are monitored and controlled through use of computers. The scrubber control room is staffed 24 hours a day whenever the plant is in operation.

Business end of the 78-cubic-yard bucket used in removing overburden at the Knife River Coal Mining Company's Beulah Mine is shown from under the dragline's 310-foot boom. Cables are replaced every three to six months, depending on where they are used, at a cost of $15,000 to $25,000. The dragline has a two-member crew of operator and oiler for each shift.

Leland Nelson among winners for weed I.D.

Leland Nelson of Goodridge won a runner-up prize of a calibration kit valued at $79.25 in the Itty Bitty Weed contest conducted by Successful Farming magazine.

The magazine published photographs of 24 weed seedlings and challenged readers to identify them. Grand prize winner Tim Dozier of Louisberg, KS, identified 17 out of 20, plus all four tiebreakers. Of 723 entries, no one correctly identified all the weeds and only half of the entrants correctly identified more than six of the contest weeds.

In addition to the grand prize winner there were 25 first place winners and 27 runners-up—the category in which Nelson placed.

Weeds used in the contest were hedge bindweed, wild proso millet, prickly sida/teaweed, velvetleaf, giant foxtail, giant ragweed, shattercane, wild buckwheat, fall panicum, jimsonweed, Venice mallow, green foxtail, common purslane, ivyleaf morningglory, sicklepod, yellow foxtail, burcucumber, wild carrot, Johnsongrass, pigweed, tall morningglory, barnyard grass, large crabgrass and henbit.

Winner in the Championship Flight finals of the Thief River Golf Club tournament Sunday was Jeff Hendrickson, shown here following his tee shot on No. 6. Hendrickson beat Stan Sjoberg in a down-to-the-wire finish.

Jeff Hendrickson wins Golf Club title

Jeff Hendrickson held off a Stan Sjoberg comeback to win a final-hole showdown Sunday in the Championship Flight finals of the Thief River Golf Club match play tournament.

Both golfers were shooting for their first club title. It was Hendrickson's first appearance in the finals. Sjoberg lost to Jeff Reese in the 1987 finals played in gale-like winds.

Sunday the weather was near-perfect for the first club final played over the recently-expanded 18-hole course. The new back 9 opened a week earlier, giving the tournament a different twist instead of a double loop through the front 9.

Hendrickson gained the upper hand when he won holes No. 7, 8 and 9 to go ahead 3-up at the turn.

But Sjoberg made up that deficit on the new 9, winning at No. 10, 12 and 14 for a tie.

It remained deadlocked until No. 18, a challenging par-4 that crosses the river twice.

The two golfers put their drives within 10 feet of each other to maintain the suspense. Second shots put the two on opposite sides of the green. Hendrickson's third shot proved to be the winner when he pitched within 1 1/2-feet of the cup and finished with an easy putt.

"No. 18 is the hardest hole on the course," pointed out Hendrickson. "I was just fortunate to get one close on my third shot."

Hendrickson shot a 35 in taking the early lead.

"I played about as well as I could on the front 9," he said. "I was hitting the ball pretty well, and my putter really helped. On the back 9, you just hang on because you never know where your ball is going to end up. Stan played exceptionally well on the back 9; he hit the ball really well. It was a fun day, but it was a little nerve-wracking at the end."

Other Sunday champions were Roger Anderson, President's Flight; Dick Tyler, First Flight; Jeff Tunberg, Second Flight; Ernie Padilla, Third Flight; Bryce Bray, Fourth Flight; Russ Christianson, Fifth Flight; and Mike Waterworth, Sixth Flight.

Jeff Hendrickson lifted this chip shot on to the green during the Championship Flight finals of the 1994 Thief River Golf Club tournament Sunday. Hendrickson defeated Stan Sjoberg on the 18th and final hole of the match-play event to win his first club title.

Gators' experience is B/G-MR strength

■ '94 high school football preview

A year should make a big difference for Steve Willman and the Badger/Greenbush-Middle River high school football team.

Willman landed his first coaching job just three days before the start of the 1993 season. For many coaches, fine-tuning the offense and defense to suit returning personnel consumes much of an eight or nine-month off-season. They tried, but Willman and the Gators simply could not make up for lost time.

Shut out in three of their first four games, the Gators went 0-for-September. In a mini second half season turnaround, Badger/Greenbush-Middle River managed to go 2-2 before losing a 35-0 decision to Breckenridge in the Section 8B quarterfinals.

"It was tough last year," acknowledged Willman. "It should be a lot easier this time. I'm a lot more comfortable, and the kids know what to expect. We should be a lot better."

In addition to having a year's worth of coaching experience under his belt, Willman's optimism is fueled by a roster filled with veteran players. "We have a lot of kids returning; a lot of experience," he noted.

The talent pool is headed by Matt Kuznia, who will be used at defensive end and at a variety of spots on offense; quarterback Sheldon Ruud; offensive tackle/defensive end Simon Kern, a 6-3, 220-pounder; and offensive guard/linebacker Ross Waage, who checks in at 5-10, 230. All four are seniors.

What the Gators don't have, however, is speed. And while Willman returns for year No. 2, the coaching staff was not finalized when practice opened Aug. 15.

Badger/Greenbush-Middle River will start the 1994 season with a Thursday, Sept. 1, match-up against Ada-Borup in Ada.

1994 B/G/Middle River Football

Berger was born in Thief River Falls, still has a number of relatives in the area and visits regularly, was an Idaho high school all-state player at Idaho Falls and a honorable mention all-conference pick at the University of Utah

Red Lake County Central high school football...

RLCC record should improve

Gary Brantl is hoping the second time is a charm as the Red Lake County Central coach prepares the Mustangs for 1994 high school football season.

Competitive year in and year out at the nine-man level before increasing enrollment figures boosted them into the Class C ranks, the Mustangs struggled through a 2-7 season as a first-year Valley Plains Conference member in 1993.

"It was a learning experience," said Brantl, who is beginning his 25th year at head coach – first with Plummer, then with Red Lake County Central when former rivals Plummer and Oklee combined forces in athletics.

Actually, the Mustangs remained competitive at the 11-man level; they simply found it tough to win close games. Four of the seven losses were by a single touchdown margin or less.

"We were in a lot of games," noted Brantl. "We just couldn't seem to get over the hump. We definitely think we can do better."

The Mustangs will try to do it with a solid, if not spectacular team. "We're not big, and we don't have as much speed as we had last year," acknowledged Brantl. "But we have fair size and fair quickness."

The returning veterans are led by four senior captains – runningback Eric Reinbold, guard Matt Kolstoe, end Aaron Rosten, and runningback/linebacker Scott Lorenson.

Two other seniors who also played extensively last fall are guard/linebacker Shawn McMullen and tackle Jeff Aakhus.

The junior class is headed by 6-2, 240-pound Jamie Carriere, the team's top lineman, tackle Aaron Chaput, end Scott Waldal, and quarterback Bryce Huotari.

Runningback Brett Bishop, the only freshman to dress varsity in 1993, could be a factor, too.

Graduation losses cost the Mustangs' most of their offense. Shannon Willett, Darren Hofstad and Adam Lundeen were seniors last year when they combined for 1,003 of the team's 1,067 net rushing yards.

Lundeen also led the Red Lake County Central defensive charts.

Huotari was 9-for-24 passing for 136 yards as a sophomore when he shared the quarterback duties with Lorenson.

The Mustangs have 48 players out for football in grades 9-through-12 this fall.

"We'll be okay if we can stay away from the injuries," said Brantl. "We don't have a lot of depth."

RC Cola/Taco John's wins Class E district

A championship effort by RC Cola/Taco John's led a group of ten Thief River Falls teams participating in District 7 Class D and Class E men's slow pitch softball tournaments over the weekend.

The RC Cola/Taco John's team went 4-2 to win Class E honors in Red Lake Falls, where Rick's Appliance finished 3-2, Knights of Columbus/Keystone Light 0-2, and Danny's Pizza 0-2. The title will not extend the RC Cola/Taco John's playoff season since Class E softball does not feature a state tournament.

Six other Thief River Falls league members played in the Class D tournament at Clearbrook, where Highlanding/Miz Ellie's went 3-2, St. Hilaire Bears/Swede's Place 2-2, Northwest Eye Center 1-2, Miller Lite 1-2, St. Hilaire Elevator 1-2, and Budget Electronics 0-2.

National Hunting & Fishing Day is planned for Sept. 24

"I don't know exactly why it's happening – I'm just glad it is," commented Gary Kolesar, National Hunting & Fishing Day coordinator, reporting on a major resurgence of interest in the annual event, scheduled to be held Saturday, Sept. 24.

"National Hunting & Fishing Day is now in its 23rd year, and there's no doubt the event has experienced its peaks and valleys," said Kolesar. "Recently, however, we're clearly been approaching one of the peaks, as evidenced by a significant increase in requests for information from sportsman's clubs, individuals, sporting goods dealers, state agencies, and manufactures."

Rising National Hunting & Fishing Day interest was also demonstrated by the unanimous show of support which last year's observance received from the nation's leaders: proclamation marking the event were issued by each of the 50 state governors as well as over 300 mayors. President Clinton also released an official statement asking the nation to join him on that day in thanking the nation's sportsmen for their conservation achievements.

This increased support, from so large a group of elected officials – Republicans and Democrats alike – shows both the broad acceptance enjoyed by the outdoor sports in America, and the strong potential for success of the thousands of events to be held by sportsmen's clubs this year, according to NHF Day officials.

National Hunting & Fishing Day was created by an act of Congress in 1972 to recognize the conservation achievements and contributions made by the nation's sportsmen. President Richard M. Nixon signed an official proclamation creating the first National Hunting & Fishing Day. Since then, each succeeding president has designated the fourth Saturday of September as NHF Day.

Many thousands of National Hunting & Fishing Day activities have been held since that time. The actual event might be as simple as an individual sportsman taking a youngster out for his or her first hunting or fishing experience, or as large as an outdoor sports fair or shopping mall exhibit enjoyed by many. These activities give their organizers a chance to educate both sportsmen and non-sportsmen on the role hunters and anglers play in our nation's conservation movement.

National Hunting & Fishing Day organizers have responded to the renewed interest with a new 14-page informative manual designed to help organizations plan first class, well-attended events and activities. Ideas for how individuals can get involved are also included.

The manual contains detailed, expert advice on all aspects of event planning – from setting up the first organizational meeting, to obtaining publicity, to the closing ceremonies. It's available free of charge from National Hunting & Fishing Day Headquarters.

Events in most towns will be organized by sportsmen's Clubs – like a Sighting-In Day to prepare firearms for the fall hunting seasons, or open house activities.

Most events will feature some form of conservation education for both youngsters and adults, including seminars, video presentations and a variety of hands-on learning experiences. Attendance by members of local scout troops, 4-H clubs, biology classes, and other groups will be encouraged.

Groups and individuals interested in receiving the free copy of the National Hunting & Fishing Day manual should write to the NHF Day Headquarters, 11 Milo Hill Road, Newton, CT 06470-2359.

Eleven-year-old caddy John Sjoberg looked over his dad's shoulder as Sten Sjoberg lined up a putt during Sunday's Championship Flight finale of the Thief River Golf Club tournament against Jeff Hendrickson. The Sjoberg tandem had to settle for a runner-up finish in an 18th hole loss to Hendrickson.

DWI Laws

Effective August 1, changes to Minnesota's recreational vehicle intoxication laws mean increased penalties for people who have prior motor vehicle alcohol convictions.

Penalties will increase for persons who are convicted of operating a motorboat, snowmobile or all-terrain vehicle while intoxicated and have previously:

- Been convicted of alcohol or controlled substance violations while operating a motorboat, snowmobile, all-terrain vehicle or motor vehicle.
- Refused chemical testing while operating a motorboat, snowmobile or ATV.
- Been convicted of alcohol or controlled substance violations under the criminal vehicular negligence statues.

Those violators will be subject to a gross misdemeanor penalty (up to one year in jail and a fine of up to $3,000). The prior offense may be either a violation of a Minnesota statue or conforming ordinance, or one from another state.

Also new is a provision that allows boating, snowmobiling and ATV alcohol convictions and test refusals to be placed on a person's driving record, according to Kim Elverum, Department of Natural Resources boat and water safety coordinator.

"The primary reason for placing these on the Department of Public Safety computer system is to make them more accessible to enforcement officers, prosecuting attorneys and the courts," Elverum said. "That way, a check can be easily made into prior intoxicated operation convictions."

Since 1989, a prior conviction for operating a boat, snowmobile or ATV while intoxicated could aggravate a subsequent motor vehicle DWI to a gross misdemeanor, but this is the first time that the reverse is true, according to Elverum. However, a boating while intoxicated conviction where there was no prior DWI conviction on a person's record would have no effect on the violator's drivers license.

A final provision also requires alcohol and drug testing of victims in fatal boating, drowning, snowmobile and ATV accidents.

According to DNR records, about 50 percent of those arrested for boating or snowmobiling while intoxicated have at least one prior DWI conviction and 25 percent have two or more DWI convictions.

Milfoil On The Move

A Department of Natural Resources road check in Chisago City July 30 found that one in every 12 boats inspected were transporting Eurasian or northern watermilfoil.

According to DNR Conservation Officer Paul Hoppe, who supervised the road check, this fact only reinforces the message that the threat of spread of the exotic continues.

"Despite the fact that most boaters say they are aware and concerned about the spread of milfoil, they continue to be major means of spreading it to uninfested lakes," said Hoppe.

During the road check, 239 boats were inspected. Nine were found to be carrying Eurasian watermilfoil and nine had northern watermilfoil. While transporting milfoil in Minnesota is a misdemeanor, only warning citations were issued – this time.

The Chisago City area road check was just one of number of checks conducted by the DNR this summer intended to help deter the spread of Eurasian watermilfoil.

"The primary objective of these road checks is educational," said Hoppe. "We want people to understand that this is a serious problem and that boaters must take appropriate action."

According to Tom Hagel, DNR watercraft inspection coordinator, boaters should be on the lookout for milfoil everywhere on their boat.

"During the road check we found milfoil on landing nets, boat floors, anchor ropes and spare tires," said Hagel. "Boaters need to carefully check their boats inside and out for this exotic. Removing all aquatic vegetation from boats and equipment is an easy way to prevent further spread of milfoil."

Firearms Safety Certificates

The 1994 deer hunting licenses are now available, and Minnesota's youth who are required to possess a firearms safety certificate to hunt small game and to purchase a deer hunting license should request a duplicate now, advises the Department of Natural Resources.

To obtain a duplicate certificate, call the DNR Firearms Safety Program at 1-800-766-6000.

For information on where firearms safety training classes are being conducted, call local DNR conservation officers.

DNR Tree Sales

Even though the leaves on the trees are still green, it's time to think about next spring's tree planting, according to the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources.

"A lot of people like to get going early on their planting efforts," said Mike Carroll, nursery program leader. "So we moved up the order date to give everyone a little more time."

A wide variety of trees and shrubs will again be available for reforestation, windbreaks and shelterbelts, erosion control, and wildlife habitat planting. New species added this year are Black Hills spruce transplants, paper birch, red maple, and black ash. Minimum order is 500. However, legislation passed earlier this year allows non-profit organizations and local units of government to buy trees in lots of 10 or more.

For tree planting assistance or to order trees, call 218-372-3183. To have a tree seedling catalog and price list sent to you, call the DNR Information Center at 1-800-766-6000.

TRF Police to enforce tinted windshield law

Police in Thief River Falls will soon begin enforcing the state's tinted windshield law with the use of tint meter.

Sgt. Al Melbye, one of the officers entrusted with training in other officers in the use of the new equipment, said the city police officers will begin enforcing the law any day.

Sgt. Melbye and Police Chief Ken Froschheiser explained that the law was originally created with officer safety in mind. Some of the new windows treated with a special coating or cover are so dark that officers cannot see what's going on inside the vehicle. They cannot tell whether the occupant has a weapon, for example, or is attempting to hide something that might become evidence in a criminal trial.

Officers in Thief River Falls will begin enforcing the law because it seems that tinting windows has become somewhat of a fad in Thief River Falls. So many vehicle windows are being tinted that officers are beginning to feel uncomfortable.

Warnings will be given to individuals stopped and found in violation of the law. If, after seven days they haven't corrected the problem and are found in violation of the ordinance again, they will be cited for being in violation of the ordinance. Violation of the ordinance is a petty misdemeanor punishable by a fine of up to $200 plus costs.

A person is in violation of the law when the material on any side window or rear window is composed of or treated with any material so as to obstruct or substantially reduce the driver's clear view through the window or has a light transmittance of less than 50 per cent plus or minus three per cent in the visible light range.

Sgt. Melbye explained the procedure. Officers will stop the vehicle and explain the reason for the stop to the driver. The officer will display the tint meter and calibrate it. The window slides between a slot in the tint meter, and the tint meter displays the amount of light being blocked out by tinting. If too much light is being blocked out by the tinting, the driver will receive a warning. One copy is given to the driver and one copy is recorded at the law enforcement center. Each stop to test widows for tinting is also recorded. The log lists the date and time of the stop, who the officer was, calibration reading of the tint meter before actually reading the tint, the actual window reading, the calibration of the meter after the reading, the vehicle make and license number. If a warning is issued, the operator or owner will have seven days to remove the tint.

Sgt. Melbye said warning tickets were debated, but it was decided that many individuals are unaware of the law and the warning ticket gives the operator and owner plenty of time to comply with the law.

Tinting can be applied to windshields and windows of automobiles with a tape that can be purchased from many merchants. Many people are not aware that the law also requires that the accompanying tag on the tape that lists the percent of reflectance afforded by the material must be readable when installed on the vehicle.

As with many laws, there are exceptions. The law regarding reflective material on windshields and windows does not apply to glazing materials which have not been modified since the originally installation or original replacement windows and windshields. Other exceptions include: reflective material on windows and windshields to satisfy prescription needs if the driver is in possession of the prescription; if applied to the rear windows of a pickup truck; to the rear windows or the side windows on either side behind the driver's seat of a van; to the side and rear windows of a vehicle used to transport human remains by a funeral establishment holding a permit; and to the side and rear windows of a limousine.

Police in Thief River Falls will be using a tint meter to determine whether there is too much tinting on a window. It is against the law to operate any motor vehicle when any side window or rear window is composed of or treated with any material so as to obstruct or substantially reduce the driver's clear view through the window or has a light transmittance of less than 50 per cent plus or minus three per cent in the visible light range. The first time an officer stops a vehicle and determines there is too much tinting on the window they will receive a warning which will allow them seven days to correct the problem.

School staff to tour places in community

Tours of 24 business, industry or public service sites in the Thief River Falls community will be taken by Thief River Falls public school staff during in-service days prior to the Labor Day weekend.

The tours will be part of a "community partnership focused on quality learning" developed through a strategic planning process that included dozens of community residents. Goal of the mission is to provide opportunities for staff members to learn about the work of district parents, the economic base of the community and future employment prospects for students.

On August 31 the public education staff will choose from the tours offered, with each staff member allowed to select two tours which will take him or her to four community sites.

Sites in the visit schedule include Arctco, Digi-Key, Challenger Elementary School, NTC Aviation Center at the airport, Franklin Middle School, Northern Pride, Northwest Medical Center, Thief River Linen, Pennington County offices, Chamber of Commerce, Independent Machine Service, Pioneer Village, National Guard Armory, Hartz Foods, Minnesota State Patrol, Hydra-Mac, Forsberg's, Lincoln High School and City of Thief River Falls offices.

The public school staff hopes to provide more tours of other community businesses and agencies in the future, according to Bev Arntson, curriculum coordinator for School District 564. Instructors often include student tours of local business, industry and public agencies in the curriculum and would welcome tour invitations or curriculum ideas from the community that will encourage community and education partnerships for student learning.

Jim Rude
Keyliner

Jim Rude

Jim Rude began his work in the newspaper and printing business sweeping the floor for 75 cents an hour. In his 39 years with The Times, he has worked his way through various interesting jobs, one of which was the old-fashioned way of making up the pages of the newspaper, pouring lead into molds that became the newsprint on the pages.

At his present job as keyliner, which he has held for several years, he does page layout and pasting, making sure that the ads and the stories are all in the right places and look good. It is all too obvious when a line is crooked, and it takes an experienced eye to make the stories and ads come out straight and true in every paper.

Jim and his wife, Gail, live in Thief River Falls. They have one daughter, Debra, who is married to Jerry Skaaren. The Skaarens live in Little Falls with Jim and Gail's grandchildren, Cory and Kellie. Debbie is a social service worker and Jerry works at the Little Falls military base. Jim and Gail also have a son, Jeff, and his wife, Noell, who live in Farmington, where Jeff is a technician for Meta Office Supply and Noell works for General Motors.

When he isn't working at The Times, Jim says he likes to do things like hunting, fishing, woodworking and target shooting. Horseback riding is also a favorite hobby. He and his wife enjoy raising Norwegian Elkhound puppies and their Arabian horse.

Soo Line employees on strike and some of their supporters conducted a march in downtown Thief River Falls last Friday. The United Transportation Union is on strike against the Canadian Pacific Railroad—parent company of the Soo Line—with 16 other unions joining in the walkout. Approximately 85 people took part in the march.

Striking Soo Line workers hold march

(Editor's Note: The following article regarding the march held Friday was written by Maureen Steele, wife of one of the Soo Line Railroad employees currently on strike.)

Approximately 85 people made a peaceful march through downtown Thief River Falls Friday, August 19, in support of the striking United Transportation Union. This group consisted of members from the UTU, BLE, BMWE, TCU, MAPE, their families and other union supporters from the community. The march was to thank the community for their past and continued support and to help explain the issues involved in the strike.

This strike is not only affecting the 80 Soo Line employees in Thief River Falls and their families, but the community as a whole. Even though the railroad workers may not be a visible part of the community, they are a viable part of it. Their hard-earned money is spent at local businesses throughout town. Without their paychecks, that money isn't being put into the community. Their tax dollars are spent on the schools as well as other city and county projects; badly needed funds. The farmers suffer when their crops cannot be moved on time because of the strike, thereby cutting into more dollars generated into the community.

The 27 members of UTU Local No. 525 would like everyone to know that they didn't want to strike, but the CP/Soo Line forced it upon them. The UTU has been working without a contract since Jan. 1, 1988. The company has not wanted to negotiate from the beginning. The UTU has been willing to talk any time, anywhere since the beginning.

The CP/Soo negotiated a contract with the other 16 unions on the property before starting contract negotiations with the UTU. From the start, the company's negotiating team has outlined a sub-standard contract compared to other railroads. This contract was changed in some degree and figures, but it was the same contract over and over again. It just couldn't be accepted. The UTU offered new proposals, aiming at a compromise, but the company continued to refuse to talk.

The main issues in the strike are loss of jobs, safety, health insurance and wages. The CP/Soo Line wants to go to a two-man crew, consisting of an engineer and a conductor. That will eliminate many men here in town, some of them with 20 to 30 years of service invested in the railroad. The company also wants to eliminate all UTU employees who hired out after May 1, 1993. That would affect five men in this community directly.

In the past six years, the UTU members have not received any kind of raise, and the company is offering pay cuts in its "new" contract. Of course, there are other minor issues in this debate, but these issues are the main concerns of union members.

'94 Viking Crime Prevention cards available from officers

Law enforcement officials in Thief River Falls will be distributing 1994 Minnesota Viking Crime Prevention Cards this year again. This is the 12th consecutive year for the Minnesota Vikings Crime Prevention Card program, in which law enforcement agencies distribute "trading cards". Each of the 10 cards being distributed August 14 through October 16, has a full-color picture of a Viking on the front and, on the back, a crime prevention tip.

The program, sponsored by Gatorade, the official sports drink of the Minnesota Vikings, in cooperation with the Minnesota Crime Prevention Association is designed to develop relationships between young people and law enforcement officers.

Card number 1 is of Dennis Green and the crime prevention tip is: "Bicycles must obey the same laws as cars. Ride with traffic, obey all traffic laws, and use the proper hand signals. Proper bike safety may save your life."

Card number two is of Randal McDaniel, guard, and the crime prevention tip is: "Safety — Always tell your parents where you are going, and who you'll be with, and when you will return. Call home if you'll be late."

Card number 3 is of Vencie Glenn, safety, and the crime prevention tip is: "Home alone — When home alone, lock all doors and windows. Never open the door for strangers or let them know you are home alone. If someone phones for your parents, say they can't come to the phone."

Card number 4 is of Jack Del Rio, linebacker, and the crime prevention tip is: "DARE — Drug Abuse Resistance Education is for everyone. Ask your friends if they know the eight ways to say No. Your police or sheriff have more information about DARE, give them a call."

Card number five is of Cris Carter, wide receiver, and the crime prevention tip is: "Neighborhood Watch — Work together with your neighbors as a team, make your neighborhood a safer place to live. Looking out for each other is a good defense against crime. Report all unusual behavior to your police or sheriff."

Card number 6 is of Bernard Dafney, tackle, and the crime prevention tip is: "Touching — If a stranger, relative or friend touches you in a way that hurts or doesn't feel right, say no, get away and tell someone you trust. Never keep it a secret."

Card number 7 is of Scottie Graham, running back, and the crime prevention tip is: "Dial 911 for police, sheriff, fire or medical assistance. Also use 911 to report or prevent a crime anywhere in Minnesota. Dialing 911 from pay phones is free."

Card number eight is of John Randle, defensive tackle, and the crime prevention tip is: "Prevent crime by being the eyes and ears for your police or sheriff. Let them know when you see anything unusual in your neighborhood."

Card number nine is of Warren Moon, quarterback, and the crime prevention tip is: "By engraving your valuables and using Operation I.D. stickers in your home you reduce the chances that someone will steal your property. Call your police or sheriff for Operation I.D. information."

Dennis Green

Card number 10 is of Bud Grant, hall of fame member, and the crime prevention tip is: "Your education will always help you in everything that you do. Sometimes school can be very difficult, but work hard, concentrate and the extra time you put into your studies will pay off."

The cards can be obtained from any law enforcement department or officer beginning August 14.

Experts predicting colorful Fall colors in Minn. this year

Experts are predicting that Minnesotans and visitors can look forward to a colorful fall in Minnesota.

"It's been a middle-of-the-road summer," says Greg Spoden, state climatologist, "without the extremes in temperature and rain we've seen in the past few years. That's good news for trees and even better news for fall color."

Rainfall and temperature this summer have both been close to average over much of the state. The National Weather Service's 90-day forecast for Minnesota calls for continued average weather in September and October.

In order to produce deep, rich reds, brilliant oranges and bright yellows, says Olin Phillips of the Department of Natural Resources, trees need a fall combination of cool nights and warm sunny days. Rainy or overcast fall days tend to produce less intense fall color.

Fall color in Minnesota begins in the northeast and along the Canadian border, usually about the second week in September. By early to mid-October, the Twin Cities area is changing color. By the end of October, fall color in Minnesota is over for another year.

Because of the dense combination of deciduous trees and conifers, areas of northern and central Minnesota typically display spectacular color mixtures of green, russet, scarlet, orange and yellow. Areas especially famous for fall leaf color include the dramatic North Shore of Lake Superior, the Mississippi River Valley and the St. Croix River Valley.

The Minnesota Office of Tourism will provide its annual fall leaf color reports beginning the afternoon of Thursday, September 8. Leaf color information is collected from about 50 locations around the state and updated on Mondays and Thursdays throughout the fall season. Callers in the United States and Canada may contact the Minnesota Fall Leafline toll-free 1-800-657-3700; or from the Twin Cities area, 296-5029.

Sen. Stumpf notes several changes in MinnesotaCare

For the third year in a row, health care reform played a big role in a legislative session. Here are a few of the latest changes to MinnesotaCare.

Enrollment. MinnesotaCare enrollment will continue to expand, but not as much as some folks would like. The next sign-up phase will move beyond families to include Minnesotans without children. Starting October 1, individuals with incomes at or below 125 per cent of the federal poverty level will be able to enroll. In October, 1995, the sign-up will include individuals making up to 275 per cent of the poverty level.

Universal Benefit Set. This is not the same thing as universal coverage, but it is still important. For the next few months, health experts and state officials will work on defining a "universal benefit set" (UBS). The UBS will describe what health care services should be in a standard health plan. The legislature will review the UBS recommendations next year.

Integrated Service Networks. The latest change in this area is the addition of new community-based integrated service networks. These new organizations will be smaller another integrated service networks with no more than 50,000 people enrolled. They will also be allowed to provide health care coverage 18 months before the bigger integrated service networks.

Benefits from community-based integrated service networks will be similar to those from health maintenance organizations, with some differences. For example, community-based integrated service networks will be able to impose deductibles up to $1,000 per enrollee, unless out-of-pocket costs get to be more than $5,000 per family or $3,000 per individual per year.

Universal Coverage. The legislature set July, 1997 as the target date for universal health care coverage in Minnesota. By that time, if MinnesotaCare has received enough funding, all Minnesotans should have health insurance. Insurance reforms such as an elimination of pre-existing conditions would also occur on that date.

Financing MinnesotaCare. A big concern in the health care debate is: how will these changes be funded? The state's Health Care Commission

Salvation Army ships clothes to Rwanda

The Salvation Army is shipping clothing to Rwandan refugees at the Ngara Refugee Camp in northern Tanzania. The Salvation Army has committed to send 500-600 tons of clothing to this camp, and much of this has already been shipped and distributed to these destitute people.

At the Ngara Refugee Camp in Tanzania, there are more than 300,000 refugees in a makeshift camp of plastic and grass huts. Approximately 120,000 of the refugees are children; 20 per cent of these children are orphans. The last estimate we received was that 1,000 refuges were joining the camp per day. Of course, the refugees brought almost nothing with them, and what little clothing they have is in horrible condition due to the arduous journey, so the Salvation Army is meeting a critical need. The Salvation Army has been working in conjonction primarily with the Tanganyika Christian Refugee Services, several other Christian relief agencies and the social services office of the United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees.

Donations, checks marked "Rwanda Relief" may be sent to National headquarters to the attention of SAWSO: The Salvation Army, P.O. Box 269, Alexandria, VA 22313. These funds will be forwarded overseas to be used in the relief effort.

Finseth named freshman Rep. of the Year

State Representative Tim Finseth, District 1B, was named Freshman of the Year in the area of agriculture by the Minnesota House of Representatives Independent Republic Caucus.

This legislative session, Rep. Finseth played a significant role in protecting the interest of family farms and agri-business. In addition to co-authoring a bill to assess a levy on grain grown outside Minnesota but sold within the state, Rep. Finseth served as an advisor to his caucus on agriculture issues.

"Although Rep. Finseth was not a member of the House Agriculture committee, our caucus looked to him for advice and recommendations for legislation regarding farming and agri-business," House Minority Leader Steve Sviggum said. "His knowledge and experience in the agriculture industry is very beneficial at the Minnesota Legislature."

"The economic vitality of our district heavily relies on agriculture. Area farmers need a strong voice and capable leadership at the state Capitol. I'm honored to receive this recognition from my fellow legislators," Finseth said.

The positive gospel

After you read through this Bible study, go back and look up the Scriptures and highlight them in your Bible.

The word of God contains instructions concerning things true disciples of Jesus Christ are to do. If we do these things, God promises to pour out blessings on us until they overflow (Mal. 3:10).

What are some of the things we are instructed to do? We are commanded by Jesus Christ and God the Father to:

1) Consider our old self dead (Rom. 6:4, 11).

2) Cast all our anxieties on Christ. That means our cares, worries, doubts and troubles (1 Peter 5:7-9; Matt 11:28-29).

3) Seek peace and pursue it constantly (1 Peter 3:11).

4) Think on things that are beautiful and lovely (Phil. 4:8).

5) Keep our eyes from seeing violence (Psalm 11:5).

6) Say only what is uplifting, building up one another and never tearing down (1 Peter 4:11).

7) No longer use our mouths for both good and evil, but only for good, as we strive to do only God's Will in our daily lives (Psalm 34:13-14; Col. 3:17; Luke 13:24).

8) Commit our jobs to the Lord and work for our employers as if we were working for the Lord (Eph. 6:5-9). We are to do this even more so if our employers are mean or rude, as it pleases the Lord when we suffer for righteousness' sake. We have been called for such suffering because it builds godly character (1 Peter 2:18-19; 3:16).

9) Think God's thoughts and stop thinking our own thoughts (Is. 55:8; Prov. 12:5).

10) Speak God's words, not our own words (1 Peter 4:11).

11) Live only to the Spirit and thus put to death the deeds of the flesh. We are not to live our lives for self any longer (Rom. 15:3). Instead, we are to imitate God's Way of life in our mortal bodies (Eph. 5:1). This is to prepare us for the glorified body we are destined to receive at the coming of our Lord and Savior, Jesus Christ (Rom. 8:13; Gal. 5:16, 19-25; 6:7-9).

Jesus Christ came here to show those who would repent how to turn from their wicked ways so that He could bless them (Acts 3:26). All it involves is practicing to be a servant of others daily, until we come out of a life of selfishness and inwardness.

This is the positive gospel that Jesus Christ came to show us (Matt. 20:26-28; 23:11; Mark 9:35; 10:43-45; Rom. 15:2-3, 1 Cor. 10:24). If we live by these principles, our lives will be positively blessed, joyful and complete!

Sen. Stumpf notes many changes to MinnesotaCare

is required to look into that question, work with state agencies, and report to the legislature next year.

MinnesotaCare is currently supported by a controversial 2 per cent provider tax. Any new funding would be meant to either supplement or replace the tax.

There are many more technical changes to the MinnesotaCare law. These are just a few of the most important. More changes will also be in the works next year, with the goal of making sure all Minnesotans get good health care at an affordable price.

Schools Within Schools: Innovation In Action In Rural Minnesota

GUEST EDITORIAL
by Cathy Neuman, Outreach Coordinator
Center for School Change
Fergus Falls, Minnesota

Bagley, Blackduck, Cambridge, Crookston, Esko, Grand Rapids, Little Falls, Monticello, Morris, Thief River Falls, Virginia....all of these communities have one thing in common besides their rural Minnesota locations. Something truly amazing is happening in the public schools in each of these communities. They are all involved in creating ways to increase student learning through the development of "schools within schools."

A "school within a school" is just what the phrase implies—a distinct grouping of teachers and students with differences from other groupings in the same school. Generally, "schools within schools" are a choice option for parents, students and teachers, and clearly lay out philosophical, curriculum and instructional differences from other options at the school while still being held accountable for the district standard of learning and resource allocations.

"Sy" Fliegel, New York City school administrator, author of Miracle in East Harlem: The Fight for Choice in Public Education and a recent keynoter for Center for School Change conferences in Minnesota, notes that so often "school" is confused with a building when, in fact, a building can house many different schools (as they now do in East Harlem, New York) just like many different businesses can share an office complex.

This idea of "schools within schools" may sound interesting but why, you may ask, is education doing all of this? Why don't they just figure out what has to be done and then get it done?

The answer to that question is a simple one, but not necessarily a popular one in an age of quick fixes and spoon-fed answers. Research and experience has repeatedly shown that there is no one "right way" for organizing teaching and learning for all students and teachers, although there are general principles. Given that as a premise, isn't it unbelievable that hundreds of alternatives have not emerged over the lifetime of public education?

Actually, there have been many variations which have emerged either in single classrooms, from teams of teachers, from entire school sites, or been institutionalized into alternative schools for at-risk students, magnet schools, private schools, home schools, and more recently, charter schools. But what has not occurred is careful thought and reflection about useful alternatives for increased student learning for all schools which could result in widespread options for students, parents and teachers within school sites in all communities. This is especially critical for rural areas where options are few and so often seem to be dependent on population density.

In the northern Minnesota community of Blackduck, an elementary option is open for parents, students and teachers. Curiosity Castle is a multi-age grouping for six to nine-year-olds with an emphasis on hands-on instruction, cooperative learning, individualized student learning plans, youth service and increased parent collaboration. New this school year is Kids' Quest, an expansion of Curiosity Castle, for 10-12-year-olds. (For a description of this and other programs and contact people, call me at 218-739-3273.)

Of course, none of this happens without a good deal of time, effort and stamina. And it doesn't just happen everywhere. "Schools within schools" are teams of community and education professionals who question, research and then take the time and effort to translate that knowledge and experience into an educational philosophy and a reorganization of teaching and learning. They are not experimenting in the dark; they are professionals "innovating" on the job.

The initial challenge to communities and school districts is not only to tolerate, but to invite and encourage new ways of thinking while honoring the "old way" as it continues to operate. The ultimate challenge to any community is to actually learn from what's discovered in "schools within schools" so that more and more kids can benefit by modifications to existing practice and the creation of a range of options.

Minneapolis and St. Paul now have buildings which house three or four different schools at the same site. Rural Minnesota has this within its reach also. I commend these communities which have launched a "school within a school." I think it's one of those rare times when there are no losers. Not only are kids benefitting by another option for increased learning, but the school district and community have managed to install an institutional lever for ongoing innovation in one of the largest bureaucratic public institutions today—public education. Pretty amazing!

(Cathy Neuman's work as an outreach coordinator for the Center for School Change covers northern and central Minnesota. The center is funded by the Blandin Foundation and works with rural communities to make changes in public education to increase student achievement, improve attitudes toward education and increase the viability of rural communities in Minnesota.)

Strandquist News

The Strandquist Senior Citizens met at the Center on Thursday the 11th with 16 members and three guests. Alyce Anderson, Lillian Germundson and Elsie Lafrooth. They cut quilt blocks and sorted material for making rugs. I was glad to hear that they were going to make more rugs as I like to buy them they're both for looks and price. Phyllis Budziszewski took their blood pressures and Elsie Kimbrough served a delicious lunch. Anna Sellen won the door prize. On Friday, Aug. 22, seniors took the bus to Grand Forks for a day of shopping and a fun time. While at the Walmart store, Elphie Adlis met Lorna Mae Hougard Johnson of Crookston and Theresa Kasprowicz of Stephen and they visited until it was time to go and eat their fill at no other place but the Royal Fork in the Columbia Mall. Glorie told Denny that he would have to go to the restaurant for his dinner as she had seen enough of food for that day, fact is she had over-eaten.

On Wednesday the 17th, the Strandquist group have been invited to have dinner and a birthday party at the Senior Center in Newfolden. Gordon Bring and his string band will be entertaining them in the afternoon. They wish to have as much fun before winter sets in as they can because most of them prefer to stay home by the fire then. You can't blame them, so do I. Yesterday and today the weather has been beautiful but some of the forecasts haven't sounded so hot. Frosts have been predicted for us in the near future.

LaVoi Thun visited a few days with Merrill and Amy Nelson at Glacier National Park, MT. She also got to visit with Dick, Dawn and Christina Hegdon of Fountain Hills, AZ who were vacationing there.

Mike and Debbie Evans and family of Lemo Lakes arrived at Peter and Pearl Thompson's on Friday and they returned home on Sunday. Debbie was up to Thief River Falls to attend her 20th year class reunion.

Margaret, Aloura and Sara Donaldson, Pearl Thompson, Hazel Anderson, Otto and Doris Seng, Gloria Renstrom and granddaughter, Tess Vienese of Drayton visited Elsie Lafrooth on Saturday. Martys Lafrooth visited Elsie the day before to tell about her trip to the Cities.

LaVoi Thun and Phyllis Larson drove to Moorhead on Sunday to get Amy and Brook Bruggeman who spent the week with grandma Thun and attended Bible school.

Larry Fossell visited and had lunch with Isaac and Betsy Thompson on Saturday after attending the funeral of Lucy Fossell Walz.

LaVerne and Beverly Rasmussen visited at Peter Thompson's on Saturday evening. After attending the funeral of Beverly's aunt in Minneapolis they came to size up a spot to set an abode on if and when they would move here to spend some time on the farm.

Cathy Thompson and Karen Wikstrom, a consultant for the Pampered Chef, hosted a lovely party on Tuesday evening to a large number of ladies at the Robert Thompson home. All had a very enjoyable evening with fun and good food.

Pearl Thompson attended the funeral of her cousin, Mildred Billings in Lake Bronson on Monday.

Mike and Debi Bruggeman and Adam from Moorhead were weekend guests of LaVoi Thun. Amy and Brook Bruggeman had been at Grandma Thun's for a week to attend Bible school.

Pearl Thompson entertained Women's Missionary group on Thursday evening.

Strathcona, a town of 40 residents, was a real beehive yesterday with entertainment, eating and marketing of everything from antiques to you name it. Several hundred people all the way from Norway to many states and Canada found that wide spot in the road. I didn't see anyone who wasn't having a good time there and are looking forward to going to the Threshing Bee that will be held there in a week or so. Watch for the ad in the paper and for the date.

Debi and Adam Bruggeman took part in the Super America golf tournament at Karlstad on Sunday.

Grygla

LETTERS

To The Editor:

The bottlenecks and traffic tie-ups, due to the current construction projects in town, bring to mind another problem that has existed in Thief River Falls for years.

I refer, of course, to the lack of an underpass, or overpass, on one or more of our streets with railroad crossings. Waiting for a long, slow freight train to pass is very frustrating. Why something wasn't done years ago to alleviate this problem should elicit an explanation from someone—city, county, state, federal government or railroad.

The idea of spending a tidy sum to preserve an old relic, such as the Soo Line depot, is appealing. But I wonder if the money would be better spent in an effort to relieve the crossing problem. Food for thought.

Sincerely,
Harold Kelly

Kjellberg retires as director of Northwest ECSU

Gene J. Kjellberg

Director of the Northwest Minnesota Educational Cooperative Service Unit (ECSU) since 1989, Gene Kjellberg retired from the position in July following a lengthy career in education.

After completing a two-year term of service in the U.S. Army, Kjellberg obtained his teaching degree in agriculture in 1962 and launched a career in education as a vocational agriculture instructor in the New York Mills school district.

He later earned a master's degree in school administration and became a high school principal and superintendent in Humboldt-St. Vincent. He later served as superintendent at Marshall County Central schools in Newfolden and at the Blackduck public schools.

In an article regarding Kjellberg's retirement, Suzanne Riley writes that "As a teacher, Gene Kjellberg taught young students. As a school administrator his 'classroom' extended beyond four walls to envelop the entire school district as well as the community. He sought to provide his teachers with quality professional development opportunities and his community members with information about what his schools were accomplishing."

Kjellberg was instrumental in establishing the Channel 9 Public Television station and was the first chairman of the advisory group for developing educational programming. He served as the first chairman of the Northwest Coalition Teacher Center and was a leader in development of the Northern Coalition for Education.

He served on the state task force to study the regional delivery of educational services to schools, which led to the initiation of the nine Minnesota Educational Cooperative Educational Service Units in 1976. In 1986 he was elected by the schools in northern Minnesota to serve as their representative on the Minnesota State High School League Board of Directors.

In his most recent position as director of Northwest ECSU in Thief River Falls, he expanded his "classroom" to include the 47 school districts that work together to improve efficiency and cost-effectiveness in administrative and instructional endeavors.

Working in this capacity for the past five years, Kjellberg has engineered cooperative programs with the help and support of colleagues including school administrators, teachers, board members, community people, parents, students, legislators and his ECSU staff.

Following retirement, Kjellberg intends to remain an active member in numerous community and professional organizations. He plans to serve as a consultant in school improvement and administrative services for public agencies, as well as increase his recreational time for hunting. Gene has a wife and two daughters teaching in area schools.

Transportation changes made for School Dist. 564 students

Six routes added in the city to transport 488 elementary students

Location of the new Challenger elementary school at the south edge of Thief River Falls has resulted in the necessity to make bus transportation available to 488 elementary students who would otherwise have been within walking distance of the existing elementary schools.

Classes at Challenger will start September 19—nine school days later than classes at Franklin middle school, Lincoln high school, and the community's private schools.

State law requires that school districts must provide bus transportation for elementary students who live more than a mile from the school they attend. Only 45 students, primarily those who live in the Southtown addition, are within walking distance of the new school.

As a result, the school district's transportation department has arranged six new bus routes within the city for elementary and preschool students only—including those students who attend St. Bernard's school and Our Saviour's Christian Academy. Each of those six routes will have several stops where the bus will remain for five to eight minutes.

"None of the students boarding at any of those stops should have a walk of more than three or four minutes," states Fred Mykleby, supervisor of transportation for School District 564. "The buses will serve as shelters as they wait for other students to board. Parents should have students leave home to walk to the bus on a schedule that brings them to the bus stop after the bus has arrived so they will be able to board immediately."

The school patrol which previously provided crossing guards for the neighborhood elementary schools has been converted to a bus patrol. Members will be assigned to each bus to assist students in crossing main thoroughfares to reach the bus stop. As an additional safety factor, they will also be required to report any misconduct on the bus to the bus driver.

Once the buses have made their scheduled stops, they will proceed directly to Challenger elementary school to unload at the north side of the building. Students of St. Bernard's school and Our Saviour's Christian Academy will transfer at Challenger to buses carrying them to their respective schools.

Hub Sites Expanded

During the 1993-94 school year, only one hub center was used for bus transfer, and that was at Washington elementary school. This school year there will be three hub sites for rural buses where students will transfer from the bus which picked them up at their homes to the bus which will take them to the school they attend.

At Lincoln high school there will be six buses transferring students. Five buses will meet at the hub site established on the Home Lumber Company property on Eighth street at Dewey Avenue. Seven buses will use a hub site now being arranged along Pennington Avenue north of the Hydra-Mac manufacturing plant.

Purpose of the hub sites is to consolidate students for transport to individual schools and thereby reduce bus traffic at each of the schools. Only one or two buses from each hub site will go to any one school.

Mykleby said that all buses at each hub site will be parked in the same position each day to increase familiarity of transfer. Students will remain on the bus until all buses are positioned on site, then transfer simultaneously. One driver at each hub site will be assigned to conduct a visual check to make sure that all students have boarded before any bus leaves.

It is expected that the Pennington Avenue site will be enlarged at some future date and become the only hub center for the district. This will not take place this school year and perhaps not for several years pending traffic and other studies by the city and county.

During the 1993-94 school year the district had pick-up points at Northrop elementary school and Lincoln high school for bus transportation to Franklin middle school. This year the pick-up points will be at Main Avenue and Ninth Street

The new aluminum and fiberglass sculpture on the southeast wall of the Northwest Technical College's aviation hangar at the Thief River Falls Regional Airport was installed last week by artist Brad Jirka of Northfield. The sculpture features a wing that is 26 feet long and a simulated engine cowling, all illuminated at night with neon lighting.

Aviation hangar gets new artwork

Instructional aviation hangar of the Northwest Technical College at the regional airport south of Thief River Falls received a decorative additon last week with the installation of a large sculpture near the top of its exterior southeast end.

The sculpture is the creation of Brad P. Jirka of Northfield, who was selected from a group of nominees by a local committee advising expenditure of the mandated per cent for the arts on state building projects. The mandate requires that a percentage of the cost of the construction project is expended for works of art.

Jirka conceived the design from information he received from the committee regarding aspects of the school and aviation in this community. He planned materials to be used as well as creating the design. His final plans were approved and he went ahead with the construction in the Twin Cities, starting in April and working alone until May.

Toward the end of the project he had up to five people working on various aspects of the construction, then transported the sculpture to Thief River Falls for attaching to the southeast end of the hangar building, about 50 feet in the air.

Installation took about two and a half weeks, not because of any real difficulty in attaching the 500-pound sculpture to the wall but because of the difficulty in getting the leased equipment to work at that height on site at the same time.

Jirka, who has been an instructor at the Minneapolis College of Art and Design for the past 14 years, said that the hangar area was a con-

President Clinton orders striking Soo Line workers back to work

Presidential Emergency Board to deal with labor dispute on Soo Line

President Clinton has ordered striking Soo Line railroad employees back to work and back to the negotiating table.

Over 1,100 United Transportation Union (UTU) employees along with members of 15 crafts honoring the picket lines have been on strike since July 13 in a dispute with Soo Line over wages, rules, benefits and crew size. When the strike threatened to involve other railroads, President Clinton ordered a Presidential Emergency Board to deal with the labor dispute.

Under the Railway Labor Act, an appointed Presidential Emergency board will have 30 days to recommend a settlement. Both sides will then have another 30 days to consider the recommendation, but either side could then reject the terms and the strike could resume.

UTU International President G. Thomas DuBose said: "We deeply regret that the intransigence of the Canadian Pacific has resulted in a Presidential Emergency Board. We believe in negotiated settlements. Nevertheless, we are asking all UTU members and our allies in the other crafts to return to work immediately."

DuBose added, "The PEB would have been unnecessary if the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers remained strong in support of the strike. Nearly all of the members of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers defied their president Ron McLaughlin and remained in support, with fewer than 15 out of 450 engineers crossing the picket line, but the weakness of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers leadership gave hope to Canadian Pacific that the strike could be broken. It was not. The fact is that the CP refused to budget from their position stated more than six weeks ago.

Renewed contract talks between Soo Line Railroad and UTU broke off last Wednesday.

The UTU has claimed to have been 90 per cent effective in closing down Soo Line operations. However, the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers were recently encouraged to return to work by its leadership, and Soo Line reported that locomotive engineers began reporting back to work in Iowa.

"UTU leaders have not moved in any way from the position they have held for more than a year," Ed Dodge, Soo President and chief executive officer said. "It is very clear to us that the negotiators for the union do not want a voluntary settlement of the contract.

"Over three days of negotiations, Soo attempted to develop a process for phase-in of conductor only operations in yard service, a provision which UTU has not agreed to in the past but which is critical to the company. The procedure was summarily rejected by the union and they had nothing to offer as an alternative.

"Prior to the break-off Wednesday, Soo asked the UTU negotiating team if they would take Soo's contract to their membership for a vote. They ignored the idea," Dodge said.

"In fact, in over four years of bargaining they have never taken a contract offer from the Soo to their membership for a vote. I am of the opinion that individuals on the picket line deserve an opportunity to vote on our contract."

The offer to UTU conductors and training, who as a group, average more than $60,000 in compensation including wages and benefits, included a six per cent wage increase, lump sum payment of up to $7,500 and a health, dental and life insurance package with 100 per cent of the premiums paid by the company.

The company proposed to immediately reduce the size of road train crews from three to two persons, as most other railroads have already done and implement conductor only service in yard areas. The company offered a $5,000 lump sum payment for protected employees and a per trip payment of $13 each time they work in conductor only service.

For individuals who are not able to hold a regular job as crew size is reduced, a "reserve board" has been established to protect them. On the reserve board, individuals can continue to collect 75 per cent or more of their average wages while not working, receive continued health benefits and are free to work another job outside the rail industry without reducing their Soo pay. The individual would be notified when a regular job became available and then has up to two weeks to return to work.

According to a news report in the Star Tribune, "Clinton, in a statement issued from his vacation site at Martha's Vineyard, said an expanded strike 'would deprive a section of the country of essential transportation services.'"

TRF woman held hostage during assault

Dennis Del Knutson, 36, Thief River Falls, will be charged with assault following an incident on August 28.

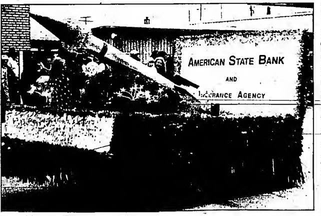
According to a police department spokesperson, on August 28 at 8:45 a.m. a woman came to the station and stated that she had been physically and sexually assaulted by Knutson.

At about 2 a.m. she said she was in her room at her home when she heard glass breaking and someone coming up the stairs. When she tried to call police she discovered the phone was dead. She then saw Knutson coming up the stairs carrying a rifle. She said he said he would kill her, her children, and himself and pointed the gun at her. After being assaulted and held for nearly six hours, she was only able to leave after he left the house. She went to the law enforcement center and reported the incident.

Police discovered that entry to the house was gained by using a baseball bat. The police department spokesperson said Knutson allegedly admitted to the crime in a taped statement after coming into the law enforcement center on his own. He also said he had purchased the gun the day before.

Police said a shot was fired during the incident, and that the woman had a protection order against Knutson.

Knutson appeared in court on Monday and bond was set at $100,000. A psychological evaluation was ordered.



Selected as the Best All Around float in the Grygla Fall Festival parade Saturday was this entry from the American State Bank of Grygla, proclaiming "Have A Blest in '94!"

Drivers In Short Supply

It has been an 11th hour effort to secure the approximately 30 bus drivers that are needed to handle the district's 26 separate routes this year, the transportation supervisor said. The hurdle should be cleared if all present applicants pass their certification tests, he said, but the short supply of available drivers was a major concern throughout the summer.

Mykleby reminds parents and bus riding students that riding a school bus is a privilege, not a right, and that bus riding privileges may be revoked for a student who fails to satisfactorily demonstrate knowledge of the seven competencies and concepts outlined in the school bus safety law.

Students are to be taught through classroom instruction and practical training using a school bus by the third week of school. The seven competencies include (1) transportation by school bus is a privilege, not a right; (2) district policies for student conduct and school bus safety; (3) appropriate conduct while on the bus; (4) the danger zones surrounding a bus; (5) procedures for safely boarding and leaving a school bus; (6) procedures for safe vehicle lane crossing and (7) school bus evacuation and other emergency procedures.

By October 15, school districts must certify to the Commissioner of Education that students have satisfactorily demonstrated their knowledge of the required competencies.

He also listed the 10 rules applied to riding on a school bus:

(1) Immediately follow the directions of the driver;

(2) Sit in your seat facing forward;

(3) Talk quietly and use appropriate language;

(4) Keep all parts of your body inside the bus;

(5) Keep your arms, legs and belongings to yourself;

(6) No fighting, harassment, intimidation or horseplay;

(7) Do not throw any object;

(8) No eating, drinking or use of tobacco or drugs;

(9) Do not bring any weapon or dangerous objects on the school bus;

(10) Do not damage the school bus.

"We recognize that the new bus schedule will be a major change for many students as well as it has been for our department," the transportation supervisor added. "Despite our best efforts to anticipate problems and difficulties, some are sure to arise. We would appreciate having them promptly brought to our attention so that they can be corrected if possible. And we ask for the public's patience and understanding as the new system is put in place."

Hearing held on Housing grant

Public hearing regarding application by Pennington county for a Small Cities Development Program grant for housing rehabilitation was conducted in county commissioner chambers Tuesday.

The county intends to apply for a grant that would fund a housing rehabilitation project. Joan Abercrombie, who had been asked to write the grant, explained its features and need for the grant.

A housing survey conducted last year, in which the county recorded a 61.8 per cent return, indicated that there is a need to rehabilitate residences for low to moderate income property owners in the county. Of the over 160 surveys returned, 109 individuals with low to moderate incomes indicated an interest in rehabilitation for their homes. Much of the need appears to be for energy conservation, such as windows, doors, storm windows, and wall insulation; although, there was interest in receiving assistance to conduct other housing rehabilitation, such as exterior repairs.

Abercrombie was not certain how much money would be requested in the application but speculated that the county is interested in providing rehabilitation for about 40 homes. Realistically, she thinks the grant request will be for about $500,000.

Abercrombie also discussed the structure and guidelines of rehabilitation loans. Three levels, based on income guidelines, have been established. Under level 1, which is classified as families with "very low income", the SCDP would provide a deferred loan for 90 per cent of the project's bid cost. The loan would be forgiven after seven years, if the individual remains in the home and does not sell it. The individual would have to come up with about 10 per cent of the project cost, but low interest loans for that amount are also available from another financing source.

Level II, which is defined with income guidelines and HUD Section 8, explains that the SCDP deferred loan would be for 70 per cent of the project's bid cost. An SCDP reduced loan would be available for 20 per cent and the remaining 10 per cent would have to come from another financing source.

Level II, which is defined as "lower income", would allow SCDP deferred loans for 50 per cent of the project's bid cost. An SCDP reduced loan would be available for 40 per cent of the remaining project cost, and 10 per cent would have to come from another financing source.

Abercrombie explained that the county could establish other guidelines for the loans. The county board recommended that the loans be assumable to other low to moderate income individuals and that priorities be established. They also agreed that a committee should be established to oversee the program.

Abercrombie said the application will be submitted on October 1 and awards will be announced in March. If the county is successful in its grant application the plan may be ready for implementation in about one year from now.

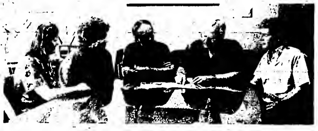
Artist Brad P. Jirka of Northfield completed installation of his sculpture on the southeast end of the Northwest Technical College's aviation hangar at the Thief River Falls Regional Airport last week. The sculpture was financed with funds from a percent for the arts—a program whereby a percentage of the contract cost for construction is set aside for artwork.



Discussing the new sculpture attached to the aviation department hangar at the Thief River Falls Regional Airport are (left to right) Cindy Cedergren of the Northwest Technical College staff; Janese Thatcher, member of the local per cent for the arts committee; Brad P. Jirka, artist who created the sculpture; Dr. Orley Gunderson, president of the technical college's Thief River Falls campus; and Jim Bitzegaio, tech college teacher and committee member.

CRP contracts scheduled to expire in 1995 will be extended for an additional year

Farmers with Conservation Reserve Program (CRP) contracts scheduled to expire in 1995 have been granted a one-year extension by the U.S. Department of Agriculture, according to Seventh District Congressman Collin Peterson.

"This action will allow producers to take full advantage of any changes made in the CRP during the 1995 Farm Bill debate," the Congressman said, noting that he and 13 other members of the House agriculture committee wrote Secretary of Agriculture Espy requesting the extension.

The extension will also permit time to provide more information to the Congressional Budget Office (CBO). During a recent subcommittee hearing, CBO testified that until a signal was sent from USDA, a CRP program would not be included in the budget baseline.

"Continuation of CRP would be extremely difficult without inclusion in the yearly budget figures," Rep. Peterson said. "Secretary Espy's decision to extend CRP is a signal of the Administration's commitment to this highly successful program. I hope that CBO recognizes this commitment and includes CRP in the budget baseline."

venient place to work. Usually such installations must take place around schedules and activities where there are complaints about noise or interruptions, he said.

"Mechanicks of the Ether" is the title of the sculpture which is fabricated from aluminum plate, aluminum structural extrusions, foam/epoxy fiberglass, polycarbonate and neon. Metal tubing forms the "string" for the plumb bob which is fabricated and machined from copper, brass and acrylic and which provides external illumination by replacing a light fixture between entrance doors to the hangar.

The wing is 26 feet long with neon illumination following the wing outline, trailing edge and rib lines as well as "washing" the inner aluminum surface.

The powerplant and spinner element is fabricated from aluminum plate, aluminum structural extrusions and foam/epoxy fiberglass. The cowling was formed over a foam core. This element is also illuminated with neon and the spinner element is electrically powered from within the building to rotate slowly, providing animation to the sculpture.

The horizon line below the wing and cowling is also made from aluminum plate and extrusions with the upper and lower surfaces of translucent vinyl covered polycarbonate and backlit.

Placement of the sculpture on the side of the hangar required the leasing of a lift truck and a crane.

Amount of funds available for the project from the per cent for the arts was $18,005. Jirka was philosophical about the profitability of his project: "I think we took a real bath on this one," he said.

Rep. Jim Tunhiem discusses border fishing controversy

While attending the Midwest Council of State Governments conference in Des Moines, IA August 14-16, Rep. Jim Tunheim of Kennedy spoke to Canadian delegates about disputes regarding the Minnesota/Ontario border fishing regulations.

"I was encouraged by the fact that the members of the Canadian delegation acknowledged the situation needs attention and cooperation," Rep. Tunheim said.

A resolution was passed by the committee to encourage Minnesota and Ontario governments to continue negotiations. It also called for both federal governments to begin preparations for the long sought after reading of historical treaties such as the Root/Bryce Boundary Water Treaty of 1909.

"We feel that the original treaties governing this area guaranteed equal access to commerce on all border waters, especially in relation to fishing rights," Rep. Tunheim said. "I believe these readings will be especially beneficial to the Minnesota position on this long-standing debate."

Putting Juice In Perspective

Juice is so full of vitamins and nutrients, you could never drink too much. Or could you? While it is true that juice supplies a delicious, nutritious way to quench your thirst, it should be a moderate part of a balanced diet.

Some people who are unaccustomed to drinking much water have switched from drinking soda pop all day long to drinking juice, assuming that juice is a low-calorie drink. Actually, other than tomato and tomato-vegetable juices, the calories and sugar in juice are about the same as in regular soda pop.

Certainly, juice is a more nutritious source of calories than soda pop, since it provides vitamins and other nutrients along with those calories. But it is very easy to drink down a lot of calories when juice is used as a thirst-quencher.

Some people who are not used to eating many fruits and vegetables drink lots of juice because it seems like the easiest way to meet recommendations that we eat more fruits and vegetables. However, while juice is a very good source of many nutrients, it does not supply all the health benefits of eating fruits and vegetables, such as dietary fiber.

Scientists are discovering that fruits and vegetables contain a different kind of fiber than grain products do, and that we need both kinds for good health. It does not work to try to get all your fiber from whole wheat bread and cereals and drink juice for all or most of your fruits and vegetables.

Drinking too much juice also creates problems for young children. A recent report on children in a medical center who were not growing well found that many had been given so much juice that they did not consume enough other nutritious foods. As a result, they did not get enough protein, fat, or certain vitamins and minerals.

When the amount of juice was reduced, the children's diets improved and they gained weight. Juice is good for children, but should not replace grain products, meats, dairy products and solid fruits and vegetables.

There is no question that juice is a healthy drink. But with the goals of balance and moderation in mind, make sure that you also eat several

Methodist church will have riverside services on Sunday

The United Methodist church will hold outdoor worship services on the banks of the Red Lake River near the church on Sunday, September 3, at 9:30 a.m. Rev. Bill Kerr will lead in worship, and everyone is cordially invited to attend.

The banks of the Red Lake River near the United Methodist church have become well-known as a beautiful local landmark. Tourists and local residents alike can often be seen strolling along the scenic riverwalk or lounging on the observation deck overlooking the river.

The site is beautifully landscaped with shrubs and trees, and a plaque on the deck proclaims "God Loves You." This tranquil setting was made possible through the efforts and monetary donations of the congregation of United Methodist church, with assistance from the Zehlians and Pennington county. The project took over two years to complete.

The Riverwalk was dedicated during the American Festival as part of a Sunday worship service held on July 3, 1994. The United Methodist congregation was joined by many visitors that morning, including Gretchen Beito of the Zehlians group. She made a special presentation to the people of the church to show appreciation for their perseverence in completing their portion of the Riverwalk Project.

Sylvia Moe and Chad Maurstad wed Aug. 6

Sylvia Moe and Chad Maurstad were united in marriage at a double ring ceremony on August 6 at Grace Lutheran church in Grygla. Rev. Robert Amundson officiated at the 2 p.m. ceremony.

Parents of the couple are Edward and Delores Moe of Grygla and Herb and Jackie Maurstad of Warren.

Music was provided by Jodi Schultz, friend of the bride, singing "God, A Woman, and a Man," "Household of Faith," and "Thy Will Be Done." Joy Nordby, also a friend of the bride, was organist, playing selections of "Bridal Chorus" and "The Wedding March."

Pink Magnolias and greenery graced the church altar, with pink lace hearts trimming the pews.

For her wedding, the bride wore a gown created by her mother. The white textured gown featured a self train and fitted bodice accented with sequins and pearl appliques on the bodice, at the waistline and on the long sleeves, which ended in a point at the wrist, fastened with tiny pearl buttons. The same pearl buttons outlined the back of the gown. The full skirt and flowing train also featured matching appliques.

The bridal headpiece was a sequin and pearl-covered band with net pouf and fingertip veil. To complement her gown, the bride wore a double strand pearl necklace and pink rose earrings with drop pearls.

The cascading bridal bouquet was made up of white, pink and mauve roses accented with lace, ribbon and pearl streamers.

Michelle Zenz of Max, ND, friend of the bride, served as her maid of honor. Bridesmaid was Heather Moe of Dearborn, MI, cousin of the bride.

The bride's attendants wore matching tea-length gowns with fitted princess bodices and dropped waistlines. Bodices were accented with a sequin and pearl-covered applique. They also wore earrings matching those of the bride, gifts to them from the bride. They carried bouquets similar to the bridal bouquet.

The bride's personal attendant was her cousin, Andrea Moe.

The groom was attired in a black, tailed tuxedo with pink bow tie and cummerbund. He wore a boutonniere of a pink rose and mauve rosebud.

Serving as best man was the groom's brother, Jeremy Maurstad of Warren, with Mike Swanson of Chisholm, cousin of the groom, as groomsman. Both wore black, tailed tuxedos and pink rose boutonnieres.

Ushering the guests were Terry Nicholls of Warren and Jason Hitman of Warren, both friends of the groom. They wore pink rose boutonnieres.

For her daughter's wedding, the mother of the bride chose a street length gown of powder green with white inset at the neckline and white lace trim on the collar. The mother of the groom also chose a street length gown, of an aqua shade, with fitted waist and matching embroidered trim. They were presented with corsages of mauve roses accented with white lace and mauve ribbon trim.

Fathers of the couple wore charcoal gray suits with pink rose boutonnieres.

Honored guests of the couple were Mr. and Mrs. William Johnke, grandparents of the groom.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held for the couple. The dining room was decorated with pink and white streamers and wedding bells, and tables were graced with pink and white flower centerpieces.

Hosts and hostesses at the reception were Tony and Connie Moe, cousins of the bride, and Steve and Kathie Johnke, uncle and aunt of the groom.

Traci Kostrzewski, sister of the groom, presided at the guest book, and Delores Saul, friend of the bride, and Chrystal Hendrickson, friend of the groom, cut the wedding cake.

The white wedding cake was a three-tiered creation trimmed with pink roses and topped with crystal hearts and swans, with a white lace base. It was baked by Janice Peterson of Grygla.

Sharon Diesen, cousin of the bride, and Bev Maurstad, aunt of the groom, served coffee. Kelsie Moe and Stephanie Roen, cousins of the bride, presided at the punch bowl.

Flower hostess was Annette Maurstad, aunt of the groom, and gift carriers were Tanner and Tyler Altendorf and Ryan and Travis Loeslie, cousins of the bride.

Waitresses were Amy Maurstad and Jenny Pederson, cousins of the groom. Joey Pederson served as videographer, and Mary Jo Olson as photographer.

The couple honeymooned in Medora, ND, and the Black Hills of South Dakota. ## TIMES FOR TODDLERS

ACTIVITIES

Sand Casting

Do you remember doing this, but have you forgotten the details? Well, here they are. You will need water, plaster of paris, a coffee can and sand. It is easier to do sand casting outside near a water source. In a large coffee can, put a few cups of water and stir in the plaster of paris until the mixture looks like heavy cream. Let the children use objects and fingers to carve out shapes in the sand. Put a treasure such as a sea shell in the very bottom. Carefully pour the thickened plaster into shape and let it harden. After it has dried, brush away the sand and you will have a new treasure.

BOOK OF THE WEEK

The Thief River Polls public library invites you to browse through its new selection of children's books including the following:

RASCAL. Oregon's Journey. When the circus bear, Oregon, decides that he wants to go home to the big forest, he enlists the help of a dwarf named Duke. Together they set out for an unforgettable journey to the heartland of America.

Harrison, David L. When Cows Come Home. Follow this hoppy herd of cows as they romp across the pages and keep you loughing until the cows come home!

VIDEO VARIETY

Once Upon a Forest. When a chemical spill destroys a land called Dapplewood, a host of fun-loving characters travel an adventurous race against time to seek restoration.

PARENTING TIPS

Tips For Getting Kids To Bed

For many of us summer has meant a more relaxed routine and a later bedtime for our children. Now with the coming of fall, routines are changing and you have to "get back on schedule." But how do you re-establish an earlier bedtime without a hassle? In reality there is no guarantee of a hassle-free bedtime, only some tips that can help!

•Have a set bedtime. "When the big hand is on the six" or "when the clock says these numbers" can be part of the routine. In this way the clock, not the parent, is announcing the time to go to bed.

•Use a routine. For instance, first a bath, then put on the pajamas, then brush the teeth, then read a story, then bed. Once you establish a routine, your child will come to expect it. That also means that you will have problems if you try to change it or skip any of it.

•Sometimes bedtime is a parent problem more than a child problem. We are the ones who have to stop what we are doing and take the time to start the process and then keep it going. If we are consistent everything will go more smoothly.

If your child doesn't fall asleep at once, there's no harm in reading or playing quietly in bed even after bedtime. Remember that the parent makes the decision on when the child goes to bed and the child makes the decision on when he or she falls asleep. A child can't go to sleep on demand any more than an adult can. A parent's task is to make sure that the activities and the environment are appropriate so that the child can relax and go to sleep. Most often, if you tiptoe in only ten or fifteen minutes later you will find your youngster fast asleep.

SOMETHING TO TALK ABOUT

Your child will often be more cooperative if you give a warning. "After this television program, it is bath time" or "after we play this game, it is bath time." For the young child who does not understand the concept of time, use something he or she can understand.

Dear Friends,

When you hear of the death of a friend, you can pray for the family. God hears and answers even though the family is unaware of our prayers. When we meet the family at the funeral home or church, we may mention that we prayed for them upon hearing the news of their bereavement. They will be comforted - more than by an immediate visit or a distracting phone call.

Respectfully,

Belmont Funeral Home

Go-ahead given to start Franklin classes Sept. 6th

Although contractors had only the short summer season to work on additions and remodeling at Franklin middle school in Thief River Falls, the administration of School District 564 has given approval to the staff to start classes as scheduled on Tuesday, September 6.

"It's going to take some teamwork to get the kids into Franklin comfortably," Supt. Bob Duncan said Monday. "In addition to renovation, the building has also been redesigned, making it unfamiliar even to returning students.

Supt. Duncan said parents should watch for the mailing that went out early this week and which includes a map of the redesigned building.

"We know that is a poor substitute for the orientation that we had to cancel," he said, "but it should help students get their bearings when they come into the building. Volunteers are being arranged by Carol Ihle, the school district's volunteer coordinator, to be stationed throughout Franklin on opening day to answer questions and help students find their way around."

The superintendent said the cafeteria/lunch room will be open for the first day of school. "Our only curriculum adjustments appear to be in home economics, the library/media area and in music. Those programs are in new additions to the building which will still be under construction."

Dr. Duncan said the project was set back by the wind storm in July which toppled a large wall of the multi-purpose room addition and the difficulty of contractors to secure additional workers, especially in skilled trade areas. The delays not only forced cancellation of orientation events for students but delayed staff preparation.

There was little doubt that Lincoln high school would be ready on time, Supt. Duncan noted, although students and staff there have almost become accustomed to construction going on all around them. "We broke ground on the Lincoln project at about the beginning of the school year in 1993 and the construction has been almost continuous since then," he said.

Parents were informed earlier this month that there would be a two-week delay for preschool and elementary students entering the new Challenger school this fall. Staff and parents were commended by the superintendent for their patience and flexibility in dealing with the district-wide construction plan.

"Our calendar theme this year seems very appropriate—'It Takes a Whole Village to Educate a Child.' Our school improvements may look challenging to us right now, but they are also very exciting. We're counting on a community effort to get our kids off to a great start this fall."

Tom Scheef had his pack mule loaded with gear to participate in the Grygla Fall Festival parade last Saturday in Goodridge. They were part of the saddle club entry in the parade.

Kids always like to participate in a parade, although you couldn't tell it by the expressions on most of these youngsters' faces during the Fall Festival parade in Grygla Saturday. The float was sponsored by the St. Petri Lutheran Church and Sunday School. The youngsters' spirits may have been dampened by the light mist starting to fall during the parade.

SPEAKING OF

Sherry LaCoursiere

. . . Where's the Beef?

I was all ready to write the continuation to my "dizzy drivers" column from last week when something else happened to me. I will write more about drivers next week.

This week's column, however, is going to be similar to the driver column in that it is a gripe about something – something right in this town.

To begin, I was extremely tired after work Monday evening. No doubt the reason I was tired was because I and my children spent the entire weekend painting our house. All of the kids came home to help and I spent my time cooking, cleaning up after the cooking, feeding people, cleaning up after they ate, and, once in a while, getting out to do a little work on the house.

By the time I went to bed Sunday night, I was so tired I couldn't go to sleep – have you ever felt that way? I can't tell you when I finally got to sleep because the last time I looked at the clock it was after 1:00 a.m. That was when I decided I wouldn't look at the clock any more because it was just making me mad because I was still awake and that wasn't helping me to get to sleep either.

I came to work Monday morning so stiff I could barely walk and very tired. I made it through the day, but when I got home from work the last thing I wanted to do was cook a meal. We decided to get burgers and fries.

I wasn't very hungry so I decided that I wanted a regular-sized cheeseburger from one of the fast food, drive-in places in town and I would share one of my son's fries. It sounded great – anything I wouldn't have to cook or clean up after sounded wonderful to me.

Then I got my burger. It looked all right – meat patty sticking out all around the bun, a hunk of cheese melted on top – little green pickle slices here and there – no ketchup or mustard, just like I ordered it.

But after a few bites I noticed something strange. The patty on my burger was very thin. In fact, the patty was so thin that I couldn't taste it. It was so thin that the cheese was thicker than the patty of meat on my burger.

I couldn't believe it! I couldn't stand it – I had to get out the ruler and measure it. Would you believe it was less than 1/16th of an inch thick? "I bet you can see the light through it," one of the boys said. I tried holding it up to the light and I could – there was the light shining right through it.

It was the skinniest patty I had ever seen. I can't imagine how they made it – perhaps they roll it through a pasta machine – several times. To tell you the truth, the one time I tried to make pasta it came out thicker than the meat patty on my burger.

Who do they think they are kidding? Here I was with this huge roll filled with a tiny, thin little layer of meat – did they think I was so hungry I would wolf it down and wouldn't notice? Perhaps they think I eat with my eyes closed.

I seldom eat at fast food places so I don't know if this skinny meat patty has been sold for quite some time or is something new, but I think it is outrageous. Are they cutting down on costs, or what?

I suppose using a smaller amount of meat is one way to cut costs, but it is also one way to lose customers. I, for one, will never buy another hamburger at that place. They can take their skinny little patties and eat them themselves.

If they want to use smaller quantities of meat in the regular burgers, I would suggest something – that they use a smaller roll and call it a mini-burger. Just think of the savings – the mini-burger wouldn't need as much cheese and just one pickle slice could cover the whole thing. Besides that, it might actually have a meat patty on it that didn't look like a piece of (very worn and thin) shoe leather because the patty would not have to fill up such a huge roll.

Now that I think of it, I wonder if that was really a meat patty in my burger. You know, it just might have been a piece of (very worn and thin) shoe leather. Then again, it might have been a piece of cardboard.

Barth herd is tops in county DHIA report

Doug and Gloria Barth's dairy herd led the Pennington County Dairy Herd Improvement Association in production for the month of June, according to Randy and Margaret Rasmussen, supervisors.

The Barth herd of 40 cows, 98 per cent of which were in milk, averaged 66.5 pounds of milk and 2.22 pounds of butterfat for the month.

Bob Schindler earned second place with his 48-cow herd averaging 61.1 pounds of milk and 2.11 pounds of butterfat. Ninety-two per cent of his herd was in milk in June.

Kelly and Gary Lundeen's 42-cow herd, 98 per cent of which was in milk, placed third with production of 60.5 pounds of milk and 1.99 pounds of butterfat on average.

Other herds in the top 10 included the following with number of cows in the herd, percentage in milk, pounds of milk and pounds of butterfat listed respectively:

Mark Hanson (3x per day milking), 54, 83%, 59.4 and 1.98; Walter Bros. Farm, 140, 89%; 59.1 and 1.83; Leonard and Marge Geske, 45, 93%, 57.3 and 1.88; Kevin Kalt, 63, 92%, 57.1 and 2.15; Tom Koop, 31, 100%, 56.9 and 2.05; Steve Nelson, 59, 88%, 56.9 and 1.77; and Lyle Swanson, 54, 87%, 56.5 and 2.01.

Herd averages are affected by the number of dry cows in the herd since the production is averaged over the entire herd to give the farmer a record of the herd's earning power for the month. There were 25 official DHIA and one owner sampler herd on test for the month of June.

TRF takes on defending champions

■ Prowlers open football season at Detroit Lakes Thursday

Two-time defending Class A champion Detroit Lakes will be favored to win its fifth straight Section 8A high school football title this fall – until somebody proves otherwise.

Thief River Falls will get the first shot at the Lakers Thursday in a 7:30 p.m. 1994 season opener at Mollberg Field in Detroit Lakes.

The Prowlers, who lost in the 1992 Section 8A finals and reached the semifinals last year, figure to be a contender again this fall. They will put a big, experienced ball club on the field against a Detroit Lakes that lost heavily to graduation. However, opposing coaches figure the Lakers' program is in position to fill those spots with little noticeable drop in talent level.

"They're going to be tough again," warned Thief River Falls coach Jeff Mumm. "I don't anticipate them missing a beat."

Playing a team that has been in three straight Class A state finals is not the ideal way to start a season, acknowledged Mumm. "We want to beat Detroit Lakes; we think we have a shot," he said. "But you have to remember that you have seven more (regular season) games to play." There will be a challenge, he explained, to take either a win or a loss in stride in order to get ready for Week 2 – the Prowlers' home opener against Class AA Alexandria.

The Prowlers might not have won many preseason votes as a playoff challenger during Saturday's annual Thief River Falls Sports Boosters Pigskin Preview when viewers saw the team struggle at times on both offense and defense. But the coaches used the scrimmages to distribute playing time and evaluate personnel, not as a fine-tuning instrument for the anticipated starting units.

"Offensively it did not go as well as we would have liked," admitted Mumm. "Defensively we got caught out of position at times. But because of the situations, our No. 1 group just didn't get the reps we wanted."

Offensively, the starting line-up for the pre-Labor Day weekend opener is expected to have 6-4, 205-pound junior Robby Farbo at center; 6-0 185-pound senior John Davis and 5-10, 170-pound senior Jason Hruby at guards; 6-1, 290-pound senior Cayler Olson, 6-2, 290-pound senior Mark Spyhalski or 6-2, 220-pound junior Kyle Miller at tackle; 6-2, 178-pound senior Jason Homme, 6-2, 161-pound junior Steve Rambeck or 6-1, 162-pound senior Nathan Anderson at tight end, while 6-4, 161-pound senior Steve Burslie is used as a wide receiver; 6-1, 185-pound senior Eric Bjorgaard at quarterback; 5-10, 205-pound senior Brian Howe at fullback; 5-9, 177-pound senior Tony Halsa at one halfback; and either 5-6, 142-pound junior Josh Harris, 5-9, 140-pound junior Nick Chiodo or 5-9, 165-pound sophomore Paul Kopari at the other halfback spot.

Defensively, Hruby will be at nose guard; Homme, Miller or Olson will be the tackles; Bjorgaard and 5-10, 132-pound senior Max Rodniecki will be the ends; Halsa, Davis and 5-9, 150-pound junior Paul Gonsarowski will be the linebackers; with Anderson, Chiodo, 6-1, 154-pound junior Robbie Stock, 5-8, 155-pound junior Jason Breiland, or 5-10, 167-pound senior Adam Henney in the secondary.

MSHSL News

Sweet 16 Tournament

Minnesota State High School League Board of Directors is expected to decide September 28 whether or not to conduct the boys state basketball tournament in a Sweet 16 format.

Basketball Advisory Committee has recommended that starting in 1995, the tournament be formatted to allow mixed play between Class A and Class AA teams. The two classes would play only within each class for the first round, but then could be mixed in every round thereafter.

The Board has postponed a decision on the request pending further information. One of the reasons the Board wanted more information is because the recommended format contradicts results of a survey of schools which indicated that a majority of Class A schools oppose such a format.

MSHSL staff will give every head boys basketball coach in the state an opportunity to vote on whether they like the Sweet 16 format. Results of the survey will be available to the Board at its September 28 meeting. Some Board members have indicated the survey results will be important in deciding whether or not to support the proposal.

Tentative '94 waterfowl season dates are set

Status of waterfowl improved dramatically in 1994, with substantial increases in both duck and goose populations important to Minnesota, pointed out Department of Natural Resources officials.

"This is the year we have been waiting for, particularly in regard to habitat conditions for ducks," said Tim Bremicker, Chief of the DNR Section of Wildlife. "Pond numbers have increased dramatically throughout much of the prairie breeding range, and the widespread availability of good nesting cover on CRP and other lands combined with excellent brood habitat, has set the stage for one of the best duck production years in over a decade," said Bremicker.

The fall flight of mallards in 1994 is predicted to be 12 million, the largest since 1979, and up from 8.8 million last year. The total duck fall flight of 71 million is the largest since the early 1980's.

Based on this year's outstanding outlook, the Mississippi Flyway Council, an organization of 14 states from Minnesota to Louisiana that provides input on migratory bird and wetland habitat issues, had recommended a 40-day duck season with a 4-duck limit. The U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service regulations proposal for Minnesota and other Mississippi Flyway states allows states to choose between a 30-day duck season with a 4-duck daily bag limit or a 40-day duck season with a 3-duck daily bag limit. Both options would include restrictions on certain species such as mallards, wood ducks, pintails, canvasbacks, and redheads. The daily bag limit has been three ducks the last six years.

"The duck season we are proposing for Minnesota would be 40 days long with a 3-duck daily bag limit," said Tim Bremicker, chief of the DNR section of wildlife. "The longer season would allow Minnesota to drop the split season that has been in place the last three years and would allow duck hunting for 40 consecutive days."

Under this option, tentative dates for the 1994 Minnesota duck hunting season would be noon Saturday, Oct. 1 through Wednesday, Nov. 9. Except for October 1 when shooting hours are from noon to 4 p.m., shooting hours would be from one-half hour before sunrise to 4 p.m. daily through Oct. 21, and from one-half hour before sunrise to sunset beginning Saturday, Oct. 22, through the close of the season.

The proposed daily bag limit of ducks is three, and may include no more than two mallards (only one of which may be a female), two wood ducks, one black duck, one pintail, one redhead, and one canvasback. Possession limit is double the daily bag limit.

"The canvasback season has been closed for the past eight years, but the population has now increased above the level necessary to reopen the canvasback hunting season," said Bremicker. "Although area closures are not required by the proposed federal rule, Minnesota has been a major canvasback harvest state and we want to be cautious about opening all of the state to hunting this year," he added. Area closures are being considered for canvasbacks in areas such as Lake Christina, the Mississippi River Pools generally south of Lake Pepin, and North Heron Lake to reduce harvest and disturbance of canvasbacks on traditional concentration areas.

Goose season lengths, bag limits and zones in Minnesota will be the Elizabeth Quick has accepted the position of Science Technician at the new Challenger Elementary School in Thief River Falls. She will be in charge of organization and inventory of materials for the new elementary science curriculum, and will also serve as a resource professional for teachers in grades preschool to five.

Elizabeth Quick hired for science position

Elizabeth Quick says science is "something that can really get kids involved." The Red Lake Falls woman and recent graduate of the College of William and Mary, in Williamsburg, VA, has accepted the position of Science Technician at the new Challenger Elementary School in Thief River Falls, beginning this fall.

Quick, who grew up in the Washington D.C. suburb of Alexandria, VA, holds a bachelor of arts degree in English and elementary education. She will be in charge of organization and inventory of materials for the new elementary science curriculum, and will also serve as a resource professional for teachers in grades preschool to five.

Quick says work and time involved in planning and setting up science labs and hands-on learning stations often means students have had to wait until middle school and high school for many science programs. "My job is to obtain and prepare materials to create elementary science activities that the teachers and students can step into. The goal is to take children beyond their text books and draw them into the world around them."

Quick says the "hands-on, minds-on science curriculum" is also an opportunity to work with students who have been unable to relate to traditional science instruction. "It's an opportunity to reach out to students of every ability, and to make science accessible and exciting."

Quick says she's excited about the "direction Challenger is going with science. I hope to provide background and resources so teachers can have the kind of science curriculum they want."

same as last year.

"The Eastern Prairie Population of Canada geese which nests in northern Manitoba and stops at Roseau River, Thief Lake, and Lac qui Parle wildlife management areas and other areas during migration showed a large increase in the breeding population this year," said Bremicker. "If this trend continues, we could see some relaxation in goose seasons in our western goose zones next year. However, the Mississippi Flyway Council management plan calls for continued conservative seasons until the population is above the threshold levels for two consecutive years."

Seasons in the west and northwest goose zones will be 40 days and will be 30 days in the Lac qui Parle and west-central zones. Daily bag limit will be one Canada goose. The season will be 70 days in the southeast zone and 50 days in the remainder of the state, with a daily bag limit of two Canada geese. December goose hunts in the Twin Cities metro, Olmsted County and Fergus Falls/Alexandria zones will be continued this year.

"These seasons are currently just proposals and are still subject to change," said Bremicker. DNR officials will announce the final season selections in early September.

Waterfowl hunters should consult the 1994 Minnesota Hunting and Trapping Regulations and 1994 Minnesota Waterfowl Hunting Regulations Supplements for a complete waterfowl regulations.

DNR News

Firearms and bows confiscated from violators of Minnesota's game and fish laws will be sold at public auctions in September. The auctions will be organized by the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources and the Minnesota State Surplus Property Operations.

The firearms and bows will be sold as part of surplus property auctions that will include vehicles and other large property items. Money received from the sale of firearms and bows will be deposited in the state's Game and Fish Fund.

The auctions will start at 9:30 a.m. Vehicles will be sold first. Gates open at 8 a.m. for vehicle inspection.

For reasons of security, there will be no pre-inspection of firearms or bows. A limited number of lists describing items for sale will be available at the door and from the DNR prior to the auction.

Each auction will include approximately 100 firearms, including 45 shotguns, 5 rifles, and six compound bows.

No firearms will be sold to anyone less than 18 years of age. Nonresidents must have a firearms dealers license. Each purchaser must provide current valid ID.

Classes for starting a business

Northwest Minnesota Initiative Fund is offering classes in Thief River Falls for those who are thinking about starting a business. The Emerging Entrepreneur Development Program encourages economic self-sufficiency through the growth of small business and self-employment opportunities.

Turning a business idea into a business is a process that requires time and "know-how". Through the NWMIFs business development training, individuals learn how to plan the start up of their business as well as manage it once it is operating.

The classes will cover topics such as Business Plan Development, Idea/Opportunity Assessment, Business Lifestyle, Goal Setting, Marketing and Financing.

Fall 1994 classes will be held in Hallock, Thief River Falls, and Ada. Classes begin with an introductory session followed by seven continuous sessions held weekly.

In Thief River Falls, the introductory session is scheduled for Tuesday, September 13, from 5:30 to 8:30 p.m. The remaining seven sessions will be held every Tuesday beginning September 20 from 5:30 to 7:30 p.m. All sessions will be held at Lincoln high school in room 109.

The cost for the first session is $10 and $55 for the remaining seven sessions. Reduced fees for income eligible individuals are available. Interested individuals should contact Steve Schoeneck of the Northwest Minnesota Initiative Fund at 1-800-659-7859 with any questions or to register for the classes.

Terry Blacklance has been hired by School District 564 in Thief River Falls to serve as Native American Education Coordinator in the district. He will serve as an activity coordinator for district staff, Native American students and families.

Blacklance hired as Native American ed. coordinator

Terry Blacklance of Thief River Falls has accepted the position of Native American Education Coordinator for the Thief River Falls School District. Blacklance was recently hired by School District 564 to serve as an activity coordinator for district staff, Native American students and families.

Blacklance is a graduate of Warren high school with degrees in mass communications and criminal justice from Northland Community College and Bemidji State University. He says he "enjoys working with kids. Everyone needs someone to turn to, especially minority students. This position is an educational link between staff and families and a chance to provide insight into Native American Traditions."

Blacklance says Native American young people are losing touch with their cultural heritage. His family background is Sioux and Chippewa, and he says his parents were "better than many" in preserving Native American values and traditions. He says that's not an easy balance for minorities. However, with the growing numbers of Native American students in the Thief River Falls District, Blacklance says he hopes to provide both background and guidance in respecting cultural differences.

The Senior Citizens met at the Center on Thursday afternoon for a time of visiting and games, with 11 members and three guests present. Helen Jacobson won the blackout Bingo and Evolyn Kujava served a lovely lunch. Evelyn Kline won the door prize. They were told of the passing of a relative and friend while there some time was spent reminiscing. Myrtle Sjodin, 88, passed away in Seattle. She was the daughter of Ole Sjodine, and sister to, Sylvia, Elaina and Delores. If we get an obituary we will get it in next week.

The weather has been very cooperative with the farmers and gardeners this summer. It has been raining and cold most of the time and on Saturday morning it decided to hail on some places around here. Mary Ranstrom said her rhubarb was hanging in shreds and the ground was white for a long time. She was piling up wood today that she had gotten as it looked like winter could not be far away. Her wood burning trash burner keeps her kitchen a cozy place to sit and have coffee those days.

Paul and Ruth Wallestad visited with Isaac and Betsy Thompson on Wednesday. Since Ruth retired from the post office in Karlstad they have taken up tourism. I recall when in school we were to write about our choice of future vocation and when I handed in my paper on tourism the teacher said "There is no such thing as tourism". But now they have proved that there is such a thing and they seem to like it. Boy would I like to discuss that paper with her now.

A week ago, Thursday, Jennifer Anderson and Eva Bernard drove to Chatfield where Jennifer was a bridesmaid in her cousin's wedding, August 20th. On Tuesday, LaVol Thun and Florence Myhrer had lunch with Pat Hetland in Thief River Falls and later visited with Ella Thun and Anne Hensen.

Paul, Shirley and Konrick Anderson attended the Melissa Boen-Michael Lorenson wedding in Karlstad on Saturday.

Arnold and Vernice Larson were Tuesday evening visitors at LaVol Thun's. You know you have too much rain when the ducks are riding around in boats. We were lucky that the tornado went a few miles north of us.

On Sunday, Pinkie Werner and Mavis Peterson of Stephen brought Mary and Donna Ranstrom to Lois Carrico's and then they all went and enjoyed a delicious dinner at the Strandquist school sponsored by St. Edwards Church. Later they returned to Mary's and had dessert.

Alcohol. Michael Kenneth Holmgren, 23, Thief River Falls, is being charged with contributing to the delinquency of a minor for allegedly allowing a minor to consume alcohol on or about early January of 1994.

Mn/DOT may remove some mailboxes that do not conform to safety standards

You may have seen them: rural delivery mailbox supports made from old milk cans and filled with rocks for support. Often they are made from farm implements such as plows or cultivators. Or they may be made from heavy scrap timber and placed at windshield height close to the roadway.

You may, in fact, have one. However, if you or your neighbors have installed similar supports, they must be removed if they are located along state trunk highways where speed limits are 40 miles an hour or higher, the Minnesota Department of Transportation advises.

Non-conforming mailbox supports present a safety hazard to motorists. Rules that became effective August 22 require that hazardous mailbox supports be replaced with a safe mailbox support. New supports are required only when owners have been officially notified, says Jerry Miller, assistant district engineer, MN/DOT.

"Nationally, there have been more than 200 deaths attributed to vehicle collisions with hazardous mailbox supports," he notes. "In Minnesota, so far, we have not had any fatalities. We'd like to keep it that way by reducing the potential for danger."

Danger stems mainly from mailbox supports that don't collapse easily when struck by a vehicle. "Because of the design and weight of some mailbox supports, they can be a hazard to motorists and can cause injuries or death if struck by a motor vehicle," Miller adds.

To eliminate roadside hazards and improve driving safely, the Minnesota Legislature allows removal of mailbox supports that do not meet acceptable safety standards, Miller notes. In addition to Mn/DOT, other road authorities — townships, cities and counties — have the right to enforce the rules if they choose.

Owners of mailbox supports that fail to meet these standards will be directed to remove them and install a type that does meet standards. The replacement process will be phased in during the next four years. If the owner does not agree to remove a support, Mn/DOT will do it free of charge.

County 4-H record judging to be held September 28-29

individual 4-H records intended for county record judging must be submitted to the Pennington county extension office by September 15 to be eligible for the competition, according to Van Swanson, extension educator for 4-H.

Also due on that date will be all award forms, including honor club, conservation, electric, demonstrations and others.

Club leaders are asked to submit a complete list of all club members participating, review records submitted and eliminate those which are incomplete or unworthy of winning a county award. This early elimination reduces the time required for judging at the county level.

The judging itself will take place Wednesday and Thursday, September 28 and 29, from 12:45 to 4 p.m. and 6:45 to 10 p.m. each day.

Each club is responsible to find adults to help with the judging. No previous experience is necessary and for parents of new members it is educational and helpful as they consider their own children's record keeping. Five or six adults are needed from each club.

All judging sessions will take place in the courthouse meeting room and 10 to 12 adult volunteers per session are expected.

The Second Section

Paul and Evadell Tangquist, 923 North Knight, take extra pride in their yard and garden. They recently received the 1994 Beautification Award for a residence. The award recognizes owners of a residence who take extra pride in the appearance of their home by designing and maintaining a garden of such beauty that it enhances the beauty and overall appearance of the entire community.

Wh[illegible]e less severe market discounts

According to the Minnesota Wheat Research and Promotion Council, it appears that new crop wheat will generally face less severe market discounts than in 1993, when many grain merchandisers panicked at the first signs of scab and were unsure how to handle infected grain.

Still, prices will be less than for top quality wheat. Wheat infected with scab and vomitoxin would likely not be considered No. 1 milling quality, defined as 58 pounds or better test weight; 275 or better falling numbers; 13.5 per cent less moisture; 1.5 per cent or less damage and 1.5 per cent or less dockage.

It would likely qualify as terminal quality, which would be above five cents to more than 50 cents under wheat considered milling quality, says Steve Bollig, merchandiser for Mahnomen Farmers Co-op Grain Association, Mahnomen.

Farmers would see discounts for scab show up as damage and test weight factors. At Farmers Co-op in Winger, discounts would average about 10 to 15 cents for damage and five cents for test weight, says Robbie Jones, manager.

Farmers shouldn't see discounts for vomitoxin in wheat, due largely to revised Food and Drug Administration vomitoxin guidelines that weren't in place until after last year's harvest. Now, the grain trade has more freedom to blend wheat to meet the FDA guideline requiring that vomitoxin be under one parts per million in finished wheat products.

That doesn't hold true for malting barley, however. Anxiety about vomitoxin still exists in the malting and brewing industry. Aside from normal quality specifications, there is a discount of about five cents per bushel for barley infected with one to two ppm of vomitoxin, and 20 cents per bushel for barley with two to three ppm vomitoxin, says Bollig.

"For lower quality grain, it's a natural reaction of the market; there's going to be discounts to effectively discourage grain from coming to market all at one time," says George Flaskerod, a grains marketing specialist at North Dakota State University who also farms near Fosston.

Over time, prices may improve for lower quality grain as it is blended and moves through marketing channels. "Wait for export business to develop. Not all countries require higher quality wheat. There are places where that can go, and we do have limited stocks in the world market this year," he says.

Historically, cash grain prices rebound from harvest-time lows and improve in the October-December time frame. Storing grain until then and in the meantime cleaning lower quality grain is a marketing strategy to consider.

"You could likely move up a grade by cleaning, but it may be difficult to improve severely infected grain by two full grades, judging upon experiences from last year," says Flaskerud. Protein premiums will not be as handsome as last year, so be sure to compare the costs of cleaning grain with projected price gains, he adds.

Consider selling some grain off the combine and avoiding storage costs, says Bollig. Then, replace cash sales with options or minimum price contracts.

Last year, some infected grain was used as or sold for livestock feed. And it wasn't unusual for farmers to shop around, selling to market outlets in areas unaffected by scab where discounts were less and merchandisers were willing to blend.

Just as farmers affected by small grain diseases will look for the best options to get through a second lean harvest in a row, so too will volume-dependent grain elevators. "Sometimes farmers think grain elevators take advantage of them. I understand that the farmer as a businessman must market as best he can, but so does the grain elevator," says Jones.

"We have to contract for transportation within a certain time frame and to out guess farmers as to when they're going to sell can be frustrating," he says. "We have to work the best we can with the volumes and margins we have."

NFO makes plans for annual state convention

National Farmers Organization members of Minnesota will hold their annual state convention and banquet Saturday, September 10, at the Holiday Inn and Convention Center in Willmar. Gene Paul of Delavan, one of the top officials in the NFO Dairy Department, will be the guest speaker at the 6 p.m. banquet. Paul, who also farms near Delavan and is employed by NFO, will explain how the dairy department, currently NFO's fastest growing department, made major progress in the past few months, especially in Minnesota.

In the wake of a major price drop for milk at the farm gate, NFO sent hundreds of "urgent message" letters to dairy producers in Minnesota urging them to help reverse the trend of lower milk prices by joining NFO's collective bargaining program. The result was one of the greatest periods of growth of milk volume that the organization has seen for some time.

Paul will also discuss the organization's rapid growth in California, which in recent years has become the second largest milk producing state.

State NFO President Ed France Jr. of Pine City will call the convention to order at noon. The afternoon session will include adopting resolutions and nominating a director to replace John Petersen of Caledonia, whose term expires this year. Petersen has stated he does not wish to run for another term. There are several NFO leaders interested in the position.

Commodity reports will be given by department leaders from NFO's home office in Ames, Iowa. The livestock department will feature two speakers, Richard Ellinghuysen, head of the department; and Karen Mikkelson, one of the department's bargainers. They will discuss contracting programs available to members as well as the trend in meat packer consolidation and plant closings.

Tim Ennis of the NFO Grain department will explain how members can, in a sense, forward contract grain up to three years ahead and take advantage of sudden price rallies with NFO's "$pike-Up" program.

Dave Kaseno, head of the NFO dairy office in Mankato, will give the dairy report.

National issues expected to be discussed will be those most connected to commodity prices, such as the North American Free Trade Agreement and the General Agreement on Tarrifs and Trade (GATT).

Tickets for the banquet must be purchased in advance and are available for $5 through local county NFO leaders. Members as well as visitors are invited.

Crops need warm sunny days

Temperatures returned to near normal last week, according to the Minnesota Agricultural Statistics Service.

Farmers in the northwest made good progress in harvesting barley. They were able to complete an additional 30 percentage points of the barley harvest this week. Reporters indicated that the moisture content of spring wheat was still on the high side and farmers were waiting for it to dry down.

In the southern half of the state, farmers reported corn in the dough stage gained 26 percentage points for the week. Farmers need two to three weeks of above normal temperatures in order to push the corn to maturity.

White mold in soybean fields in the south central and southeast districts continues to be a problem. This is showing up in narrow rowed fields which are unable to dry out. Damage was reported from mild to significant in some fields. Above normal temperatures are needed to prevent further damage.

As of last Friday, topsoil moisture was two per cent very short, 12 per cent short, 69 per cent adequate and 17 per cent surplus.

Grygla SWCD seeks candidates

Strandquist

F. Myrtle Vegle
436-2133

The Strandquist Senior Citizens met together on Thursday with 12 members and two guests, Mory and Donna Renstrom. Many plans were made at the business meeting that afternoon. Evelyn Kline was the hostess and served a lovely lunch to them and Lorraine Setten won the door prize. The day before 16 of them went to the meal site in Newfolden where a very delicious dinner was served. In the afternoon a birthday party was held at which Vi Moen and Alvina Stevens provided the music for entertainment. A good time was had by all and we can say that too as they were to Karlstad the week before and we enjoyed them a lot.

For a couple of weeks I hadn't heard from Frank and Judy Kleinvachter or found out what they were doing so today I learned they are busy moving a little nearer uptown, in fact right next door to Elmer Blackberg on #11. Welcome to the neighborhood, Frank and Judy. They are busy painting and packing, but still had company, Julius and Toni Kleinvachter visited there yesterday.

Elphie Adlis is busy embroidering on dish towels today for the seniors. On Saturday, she, together with Stanley and Linda Adlis, went to Alan Rogalla's in Thief River Falls to help her granddaughter, Lauren Rogalla, celebrate her 5th birthday. Betty Johnson and her granddaughter, Megan Miami, from Warroad joined them and the afternoon was spent swimming and having a good time for all.

Arnold and Vernice Larson were Wednesday evening visitors at LaVol Thun's.

Vance and Adrienne Lofrooth served a delicious chicken dinner with all the trimmings out in their new gazebo Saturday afternoon with Clare Nelson, Elsie Lefrooth, Ida Bruce and Mary and Donna Renstrom.

Morris and Hazel Anderson spent Sunday in Grand Forks visiting Jim, Cindy and Cristy Wetterlund and going to the Heritage Days.

LaVol Thun was a Saturday evening supper guest at Ed Carlson's together with Todd and Lori Jenson of Chaska who were visiting Lori's parents for the weekend.

Visitors at Elsie Lefrooth's this past week have been Marlys and Greg Lefrooth, Vance Lefrooth, Lowell Lefrooth, Lisa Elliott, and Alyssa Lofrooth and Alex Berowicz.

Betsy Thompson hasn't done any visiting this past week as she has to be on hand to cook and deliver coffee to Isaac who is trying to get the harvesting done in between the rains that have decided to put a stop to it. When it's too wet to combine, he is tool-barring what he has already taken off. He is planning to have his 80th birthday celebrated this year.

We have had three days without rain now and plenty wind to dry things out so with a little luck the farmers may get in most of the crops. It would be nice if we would get a few more days of summer.

Gatzke

Ivan and Louisa Lyons of Grey Eagle are spending a few days at the Alan Saverts home.

The Adams family, Alan, Annette, Corey and Scott of Portland, OR spent a few days at the Clifford Klamar home.

Whole Wheat BIBLE STUDY

What is sin?

After you read through this Bible study, go back and look up the Scriptures and highlight them in your Bible.

Let no one say when he is tempted, "I am being tempted by God"; for God cannot be tempted by evil and He tempts no one. But each one is tempted when he dwells on sin and is carried away and enticed by his own lust. Then, when lust has conceived, it gives birth to sin; and when sin is accomplished, it brings forth death (James 1:13-15).

The above is the process by which sin is conceived in the human mind. If we never dwelled on sin, sin would never be conceived in our minds. Dwelling on wrong thoughts—or sin—results in wrong actions. Does that mean Jesus never had wrong thoughts go through His mind? No, of course it doesn't! But He never dwelled on them, so He never carried any of them out (Heb. 5:8-9; Is. 7:14-16).

The tempter is Satan. Those who are tempted are humans (1 Thess. 3:5). We tempt ourselves and Satan also tempts us, just as he tempted our perfect example, Jesus Christ (Luke 4:1-2).

Dwelling on what is wrong is sin because what you dwell on becomes the desire of your heart. Jesus Christ said that if you dwell on adultery, you have already committed it in your heart (Matt. 5:28). A premeditated murder is dwelt upon and planned. Our Creator instructs us to dwell only upon what is good so we will always say and do things that are good and pleasing to the Lord (Phil. 4:8-9).

Our Father wants us to overcome our evil natures by doing good every moment of every day (Rom. 12:21; 2 Cor. 10:5). Who can stop you from only thinking good thoughts, from only saying good things and from only doing good things? Your old nature will try to stop you. Satan will try to tempt you. But who is there to harm you if you prove zealous for what is good (1 Peter. 3:13)? No one! So dwell not on evil and sin not. Dwell only on good and do only good for God! Then you will not carry out the desires of the flesh (Gal. 5:16).

Information on Army testing in Minn. released

The U.S. Army has released 22 additional documents to United States Senator Paul Wellstone detailing chemical and biological warfare testing throughout Minnesota. The documents, for the first time, provide information on testing throughout Greater Minnesota, including the Chippewa National Forest.

"It appears that in 1964, there were 23 individual tests in the Chippewa National Forest involving the release of nearly 700 pounds of fluorescent particle substance — most likely zinc cadmium sulfide and perhaps another chemical," Wellstone said.

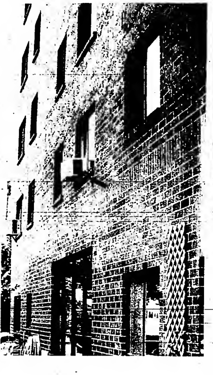
In addition to the spraying in the Chippewa National Forest, there were tests in May and June 1953 at University of Minnesota agricultural experiment stations in Morris, LeSueur, Waseca, Crookston, Duluth and Rosemount.

"The Army ran tests on wheat crops in these areas using live wheat stem rust spores," Wellstone said. "The amounts released in the first five tests were about a tenth of a gram each. However, in Rosemount the amount was larger — up to approximately 30 grams."

"My continuing commitment to Minnesotans is to see that information on testing is made public," Wellstone said. "The Cold War is over and it is time to let the sun shine on these tests."

In addition to securing the release of documents, Wellstone was able to get the Senate Appropriations Committee to approve the spending of $1 million on an independent health study on the effects of the Army testing. The study will include analyzing the effects of the Chippewa testing as well as the testing in Minneapolis. Both the full Senate and the House have approved the funding of the study.

The study, which will be conducted by the National Academy of Science, could begin as early as October.



Winton and Irene Fellman were surprised a few weeks ago when a pair of mourning doves selected their window sill at Riverside Terrace Apartments as a nesting site. The nest was built on the concrete sill next to an air conditioner. Winton carefully recorded when the eggs were laid—one on July 31 and one on August 1, and when they hatched—one on August 14 and the other on August 15. When these Times photos were taken late last week the youngsters had shown rapid development. The photo at left shows the nest's precarious location on the second floor. The photo above was taken from inside the Fellmans' apartment.

Marshall history group to enter its fall season

Marshall County Historical Society with offices at the museum on the Marshall county fairgrounds in Warren will begin its fall hours on September 1. The museum will be open from Monday through Wednesday from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

LaVonne Mattson of rural Newfolden is the new director/curator of the society's museum and can be contacted at Route 1, Box 130, Newfolden or by phone at Holt (449-3001).

She said donations are still needed for repairs to be done to the Alma Lutheran Church and the Cook School, both of which have been moved to the grounds at the historical society's museum area.

Donations are also invited for the society's Memorial Building Fund which was started with a donation of $5,000 from Mrs. Delmar Hagen of Gatzke. Anyone wishing to make a donation may contact LaVonne Mattson at the museum or at her home as listed above.

Members of the historical society will participate in Grinding Day at the Old Mill State Park on Sunday, September 4, by operating the 1878 Case steam engine which powered the mill and selling the fresh stone-ground flour to be milled that day.

Mattson invites members of the society and others to stop by the museum for a cup of coffee before the museum closes for the late fall and winter months.

Monthly meeting of the organization will be held Tuesday, September 6, at 7:30 p.m. at the museum office in Warren.

Tattooing Americans ....In Plastic?

In the years of Hitler's Nazi regime, the cruel and oppressive government intent on persecution and later extermination of Jews marked those identified and imprisoned with tattoos. The marks were permanent and worn even by survivors of that horrible time until their eventual deaths.

In earlier days in our own United States, military deserters who were caught were branded with a hot iron and bore the scar of that brand as a mark of degradation for the rest of their lives.

Today in America we are much too sophisticated for those kinds of dehumanizing acts. It would be viewed as barbaric to brand a person and it would certainly be considered a gross violation of human rights to have someone tattooed by the government as a mark of identification. Yes, we are much too advanced for such archaic methods.

That is not to say, however, that government is averse to means of identification and control of its citizens. Today's tattoo is the information chip and the branding iron is the computer. While computer technology has contributed in many worthwhile ways to make life better for all of us, it also has tremendous potential as a tool of oppression.

In private industry, rapid progress is being made on development of a "smart card" for use as a credit or bank card. While today's common money machine cards have a capability of holding about 40 characters, for example, the new "smart card" will include a computer chip that can contain the equivalent of about 9,000 characters or three pages of information.

Credit card companies and banks like the new cards which would make it more difficult for credit card theft and fraud that costs the banking industry some $1.2 billion a year. Credit card companies believe they could save $600 million a year in transaction costs for telephone lines and central computers.

Receipt and use of such cards would be voluntary, of course, and the information—generally specific to the particular purpose of the card—would be the property of the issuing company or industry.

So what about a "smart cart" mandated by the government that would provide the government centralized access to such personal information as your income and taxes, medical records, savings and borrowing, firearms purchases, stock market transactions, family history, an on and on? Would you want such a collection of information about you available at the stroke of a computer key?

When President Clinton was most actively pitching his health care plan, he would hold up a plastic card that be called a "health security card." Owning such a card, he said, would mean health care that could never be taken away. The card would contain, among other things, all your medical information back to childhood.

But the Clinton Administration hasn't stopped there. Recently it announced a proposal for a national identity card with smart card capabilities to be issued at birth and used, according to Administration sources, to make certain that people paid their taxes. Officials estimated that it would bring in $340 million over five years.

Now, it is fine to utilize the time-saving elements that computers offer and it is fine for government to collect all the taxes that are properly owed to it. But it is not fine for government to step into the lives of Americans at birth and tattoo them with plastic.

Maybe such a government practice would be harmless or even beneficial. But maybe not. It most certainly is contrary to the intent of the Constitution to limit government authority and preserve individual rights. And it worries the dickens out of us that federal bureaucrats and political manipulators could have almost unlimited access to the private lives of all the nation's citizens. It's time to insist that Congress puts the brakes on this kind of idea.

Religious Right Gains In Political Strength

Despite the efforts of the liberal establishment to remove religious influence from every area of public life, the American people have resisted that pressure and are even beginning to regain some lost ground. To do so, it has been necessary for supporters of religion to enter the political arena in defense of their values.

If there is one thing a politician understands it is the value of numbers. And nothing gets an office holder's attention like the knowledge that a substantial group of people of voting age and of common purpose has a particular interest in the way he or she votes.

The Constitution's provision for the so-called separation of church and state are proper safeguards if they are allowed to be logically interpreted. But liberal idealists, abetted by liberal judges, have been successful in removing religious expression from many aspects of public life. For the most part, a decline in social morality has been the result and the nation's integrity has been eroded.

Religious activists rebelled against these liberal pressures, Organizations such as television evangelist Pat Robertson's Christian Coalition were formed. The coalition's executive director, Ralph Reed, is not reluctant to express its goal—"to take back this country one precinct at a time" so "we will see a country once again governed by Christian values."

"Pundits and professors make a big mistake in writing us off as fanatics," be adds. "We're the believe-in-God, middle class backbone of this country. There are a heck of a lot of people out there who share our values."

Reed is right. Nearly 150 million Americans, or about 61 per cent of the population, belong to some sort of religious group. Of that total, 94 per cent are members of Christian or quasi-Christian denominations. More and more political candidates who are identified as supporting the views of the religious right are being nominated and elected across the land.

While it is good to see the liberals' anti-religious campaign thwarted, replacing it with a narrow religious interpretation would be no great improvement.

"Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof...." states the First Amendment to the U.S. Constitution. That should be simple enough to understand: The federal government should not determine a national religion, and it should not interfere with religious practice. Why does that have to be so complicated?

We don't like politicians attempting to legislate how religion may or may not be practiced and we similarly don't like politics being preached from the pulpit.

"Many Americans who describe themselves as conservative Christians," points out an opinion poll by the New York Times and CBS, "reject any effort to lump themselves into a 'movement,' preferring to describe themselves in specific doctrinal terms....."

That is as it should be, and while it may be true, there is sure to be a religious influence in many elections, and that influence will play an important role in the results.

LETTERS

To The Editor:

One of the reasons that gun control advocates have made such gains is that most hunters with 742 Remingtons, Model 100 Winchesters and other semi-auto rifles and shotguns haven't been affected.....: yet. Mr. Clinton, his wife Hillary and 120 of his appointees and bureaucrats including Treasury Secretary Bentsen, are creating a new class of restricted weapons. This class will include all handguns and semi-automatic long guns. All weapons will be classified as banned, restricted or unrestricted. The unrestricted class will be only bolt action, pump action, lever action and single shot.

Their track record looks good, if you count the Brady Bill, banned all guns and ammo from Norinco, and some soft nose expanding bullets. They have banned all assault guns, clips that hold over 10 rounds and classified some shotguns as a destructive device, which are now highly restricted. This could be expanded to all shotguns shortly.

Most hunters have been too passive on this issue. Now some of their favorite rifles and shotguns are targeted. Maybe these chickens, when their tail feathers are getting plucked, will turn around and say, "That's enough!"

Thank you.

Among those who attended the Rednicki family reunion recently in Staples were: Virgil and Theresa Rednicki, Geri and Errol Rustan and family. They joined the other members of their family in visiting with the 123 family members present. Special and oldest guest was Helen Frank of Chicago, IL. They also enjoyed visiting with Sybil Rednicki of Brainerd who has not been able to attend many family functions in recent years. The next day the group met again to honor Roman and Elaine Rednicki on the occasion of their 50th Wedding Anniversary. Among the many friends and neighbors who attended were: Korydon and Carol Chorvestad and Marylin and Owen Scramstad, David and Pat Scramstad of Thief River Falls, and Mrs. Richard Scramstad of Michigan.

Recent guests at the Jim and Kathy Dulka home were Matt, Kelly, Katie, Mikey, and Annie Dulke of Castro Valley, CA. # Stumpf reviews laws effective starting August 1

August is always an important time for Minnesota laws, because August 1 is the most common date for new laws to take effect, according to Minnesota Senator LeRoy Stumpf of Thief River Falls. He called attention to the following new transportation laws:

Accident Reporting: If a person has a car accident that results in less than 1,000 property damage, it will not have to be reported. The old law required any damage above $500 to be reported to the state. The change was made because minor "fender benders" can easily exceed $500 in damage.

Drunk Driving Penalties: Some drunk drivers will face more jail time from now on. Judges will be allowed, and sometimes required, to make offenders serve sentences consecutively instead of concurrently. This change was made to keep offenders with multiple convictions off the road for a longer time.

Open Bottles in Limousines: The state's open bottle law has been modified. Last year charter buses and limousines were exempted from the law. This year that exemption was amended so that it will apply to limousines only when they are actually providing limousine service.

License Plates: A new kind of license plate will soon be available. Volunteer ambulance attendants will be able to buy a special plate for a $10 fee. Some volunteers in northwestern Minnesota requested this change. Sen. Stumpf and Rep. Jim Tunheim of Kennedy sponsored the legislation.

Permits for Handicapped Parking: Those who used one of these permits may have to display it in a different place. In the past the permits were designed to be set on the dashboard. New two-sided permits already being issued are meant to hang from a rear-view mirror. This new format will make it easier for law enforcement officers to see the permits from behind a vehicle.

Handicapped Parking Patrols: The Legislature has been expanding the use of citizen patrols to enforce handicapped parking regulations. Now, any incorporated city in the state will be allowed to use a citizen patrol to tag a vehicle illegally parked in a handicapped space.

Seat Belts: Minnesota's seat belt law has been expanded to include truckers and bus drivers. "commercial motor vehicle" drivers and their front seat passengers will be subject to a $25 fine if they fail to buckle up. The law includes vehicles weighing more than 26,000 pounds and school buses.

"These are just a few of the new laws for travel," Sen. Stumpf said. "There are many others, including one that doubles the fine for speeding through a construction zone. No matter what your summer travel plans are, drive safely and have a good trip."

Agassiz Learning Center sponsors Leopold programs

Agassiz Environmental Learning Center near Fertile will sponsor two Leopold programs on Saturday, September 10, at the West Mill Nature Center located in the Fertile Sand Hills Recreation Area at Fertile.

An educator's workshop called The Leopold Education Project (LEP) will take place from 9:30 to 2:30 p.m. The LEP is a new set of school curriculum materials for educators who work with middle school and/or high school students. Cost of this workshop, materials and a noon meal will be $25. Certificates concerning continuing education units will be available for teachers.

The second program entitled "Great Possessions" is open to the general public and will begin at 3 p.m. Participants will construct a sturdy and simple one-person bench similar to the one on which Leopold sat while observing and enjoying the natural world. Cost of the program and materials to make the bench is $30.

The Leopold Education Project curriculum materials are correlated with Aldo Leopold's "A Sand County Almanac." First published in 1949, this literary conservation classic contains month-by-month descriptions of the natural world as Leopold experienced it. Educators who want to help students deepen their awareness of nature and develop a land ethic, will find a variety of practical ways of achieving these goals, according to Joe Gartner of the Agassiz ELC.

All participants must pre-register by Thursday, September 8. Registration will be limited to 20 participants. To register, send complete name, address and telephone number along with the program(s) planned to attend and a check for the proper amount to Agassiz ELC. P.O. Box 388, Fertile, MN 56540. For more information call 945-3129.

Primary election to be held September 13

Pennington County Recorder position only local race on ballot; other voting must be along party lines

Voters will have an opportunity to exercise their right to vote on September 13. Voting will be along party lines on the state partisan primary ballot, but local residents will have an opportunity to vote for one of three candidates running for Pennington County Recorder.

This election will determine which candidates will advance to the general election on November 8. In the race for Pennington County Recorder, a primary election was necessitated because more than two individuals filed an affidavit of candidacy for the position. This election will determine which two candidates will be listed on the general election ballot.

As is the custom at The Times, candidates were asked to write a first-person letter to voters in Pennington county. Each letter describes their qualifications for office, background and addresses any issue(s) they believe are pertinent to the election. The letter and pictures were provided free of charge to the candidates because The Times believes it is a public service. The Times hopes voters will use this opportunity to become familiar with the candidates and vote on September 13.

Candidates for Pennington County Recorder are: Lemay Moe, Ken Schmalz and David Schneider.

Only registered voters will be allowed to vote on September 13, but voters will be able to register when they go to the polls to vote.

On the State Partisian Primary Ballot, the candidates are as follows:

Democratic-Farmer-Labor (DFL) party ticket — U.S. Senator: Tom Foley, "Dick" Franson, Buford Johnson, Gary L. Legare, Leonard J. Richards, Ann Wynia;

U.S. Representative District 7: Collin C. Peterson.

State Representative District IB: Ken Murphy.

Governor and Lieutenant Governor: Tony Bouza and Kim Stokes, Mike Hatch and Bob Schmitz, John Marty and Nancy Larson, and Richard T. Van Bergen and Glenn Mesaros.

Secretary of State: Joan Anderson Growe.

State Auditor: Gregg A. Iverson, Donald M. Moe, Todd Otis, George Perpich.

State Treasurer: Jim Dunlop, Robert R. (Bob) Johnson, Leroy L.

Candidates review their qualifications for office

Tim Finseth
Candidate for District 1B
State Representative

Dear District 1B Residents:

Thank you for the honor and privilege of serving you in the Minnesota Legislature. During my first term in office, I found District 1B residents to be greatly concerned with what is going on in state government. My work as your state representative benefitted from your comments, suggestions and advice.

Northwestern Minnesota has always been my home. I was born and raised on a farm south of Oklee and still farm with my brother. Following my graduation from McIntosh-Winger high school, I received degrees from Thief River Falls Community College and Moorhead State University. I am currently employed as a manager of the Marshall County Soil and Water Conservation District, and live in Angus with my wife, Ruth, and our son, Cameron.

This legislative session, I was appointed to the following House Committees: Judiciary, Judiciary Finance Division, Housing and Local Government and Metropolitan Affairs. Although I did not serve on the House Agriculture Committee, I received the Freshman of the Year Award in the area of Agriculture for my legislative efforts concerning farmers and our agriculture industry.

Gathering input from the district, I authored legislation that set out to reform Minnesota's workers'

State Representative

Seeking office of State Representative was not something I made a commitment to lightly. But over the years serving on committees and traveling between the Capital in St. Paul and Thief River Falls, one thing became clear to me. If Northwestern Minnesota is to continue to grow and compete with the metro area and other regions of our state, we need active, full-time representation for District 1-B.

I have served on many state boards and commissions with metro people who are very strong in their support for metro concerns. Unless we are equally strong and determined to speak out for our interests, rural concerns will not be addressed. That is why I have become a candidate for state representative.

Whatever the issue, our voice must be part of the discussion. Whether it's education, property tax, senior citizens' concerns, transportation, agriculture or our quality of life, we must be heard. I have always taken an active role on issues that affect Northwest Minnesota by my participating on state, regional and local committees. I don't think that is exceptional, but rather what the public expects of its elected officials.

It is with this same commitment, that I would serve you as your state representative. I would use my many years of experience working

I am the daughter of Earl and Angie Marquis. I attended Grygla grade school, Goodridge high school, Minnesota Business College of Minneapolis and Thief River Falls Technical College. My education background is in the field of accounting and personal computer.

My husband Alec and I have three children, Heather, Lance and Andrea. We have been on our farm in Smiley township since 1968, and have operated a family hog and grain operation for 18 years. I do the production records, bookkeep-

Having been a lifelong resident of Pennington County I take great pride in our cities and community. I am married to Susan and have four children, Jason, Kimberly, Jeffrey and Aaron. I have been a member of Zion Lutheran church all of my life and for the past several years have been treasurer of the Landstad church and cemetery association. I am also treasurer of Thief River Falls Amateur Hockey Association. I am president of the Zion Aid Association for Lutherans (AAL) and involved in the school district's Parent Volunteer Program. Hello. I am Ken Schmalz and a candidate for the office of County Recorder. I would like to thank The Times for this opportunity to present my qualifications for this important position to the voters of Pennington county.

My experience in this office is considerable. I have worked within this office since September of 1988 and have recently been appointed by the Pennington County Board of Commissioners as acting county recorder and registrar of titles. This experience has given me the opportunity to become very familiar with all areas that this office encompasses. As acting county recorder I am currently responsible for recording and providing information concerning all land titles, mortgages, estate and various other documents that affect your land title. I am responsible for the duties of registrar of titles under the Torrens system of land documentation which has a certificate of title in place of an abstract. In addition to these

Member protection caused break in ranks

Engineers' union president reviews his union's position

What had been apparent unity among all 16 unions of the Soo Line Railroad in support of the United Transportation Union's (UTU) strike which began in mid-July broke down August 22 when members of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers (BLE) were released by their international president Ronald P. McLaughlin to return to work.

The UTU, largest of the Soo Line unions in membership, cited safety, working conditions and wages in its dispute with the Soo Line, a division of the Canadian Pacific Railway. All 15 of the other unions having contracts with the Soo Line joined in the walkout and supported the strike.

A rift in the union membership became apparent on August 22 when McLaughlin announced that his BLE union's advisory board, comprised of 14 local leader members from throughout the country, had voted to allow BLE members to cross UTU picket lines if the UTU would not withdraw four of its demands. The BLE considers the four points to be contrary to its best interests and even survival.

When the BLE released its members to return to their regular jobs, the UTU headquarters immediately branded McLaughlin a traitor and the engineers returning to work as "seabs." The term scab is generally applied to people who cross picket lines to do the work of people on strike.

"The BLE decision to return to work to perform only the normal duties of a Soo locomotive engineer is for the strict purpose of protecting our union's jurisdictional and contractual rights," McLaughlin said in a statement August 22. "....I again emphasize that returning engineers will not perform any duties of striking employees."

"It is a last resort and comes only after repeated notices to the UTU that it was proposing bargain issues that infringe upon our union's rights, and which have nothing to do with the UTU's ability to negotiate wages or work-rules with the Soo," he added.

McLaughlin said that UTU international president G. Thomas DuBose had been asked four times by the BLE to withdraw the four demands before the BLE imposed a deadline for withdrawal of the demands. When the deadline passed by several hours, the BLE released its members to return to work.

News releases from the UTU during the first several days following the BLE decision to release its members for work noted that only a few BLE members had chosen to cross the UTU picket lines.

Stephen FitzGerald, a public relations representative at the BLE headquarters in Cleveland, OH, told The Times in a telephone interview that he knew of "more than 100" members who had called in to report that they were available for work. He said that the railroad's call for engineers to go to work was expected to be slow since they would not be called unless needed as train runs were formed.

Shortly after the BLE authorized the return to work and the UTU had announced the consideration of a secondary boycott, President Bill Clinton intervened; ordering the strikers back to work and establishing a Presidential Emergency Board in an effort to resolve the differences between the Soo Line and the UTU. The board will have 30 days to propose a solution and the UTU and Soo Line will have 30 days to accept or refuse it. If either side refuses to accept the proposed agreement, the strike may resume.

The four points that UTU was demanding from the Soo Line that the BLE insisted be removed if it was to continue support of the strike as it had done for the first 40 days were listed by McLaughlin as follows:

(1) An agreement that governs the exercise of seniority for engineers.

(2) Contrary to the provisions of the Railway Labor Act, UTU has demanded that engineers pay full dues to UTU while working as engineers in order to continue accumulation of train service seniority. This strikes at the heart of an individual's free choice of representation which we view as a fundamental right.

City council and school board discuss bus stops

Representatives of the Thief River Falls city council and school district board 564 met Tuesday, August 30, to discuss maintenance of in-town bus stops, the Northrop and Knox properties, strategic planning for community-wide telecommunications, and the Mark Twain and Knox school playgrounds.

For the past few years, the city council has held regular meetings with the school board and county commission. The purpose of the meetings is to keep each other informed of separate activities and work on issues that are of joint interest.

Tuesday, the representatives agreed that officials from the city, school district and Minnesota department of transportation should sit down and discuss maintenance of in-town bus stops.

As a result of construction of the new elementary school, bus routes in the community have changed substantially. Of specific interest Tuesday were 29 school bus stops in the city.

Superintendent of schools, Bob Duncan, wanted to know whose responsibility it was to maintain the school stops, especially during the winter months.

Several city officials explained that the city has a set schedule. Adding cleanup around 29 school bus stops would be too much for the street department to handle. Dale Wennberg, city councilman, didn't think it was fair to ask the city to assume liability for the bus stops, especially when the city didn't agree to the location of some of bus stops.

Jean Heinrichs, vice mayor, said it sounded logical to her that if the city were cleaning sidewalks on certain routes that they should clean bus stops on those routes.

It was explained to her by Wennberg that the city park and recreation department, not the street department, cleans sidewalks on only a few routes and that the small snow-blower used was not good enough to remove large amounts of snow.

Darla Twomey, school board member, wondered if the city and school district could somehow divide up the stops between the city and school district.

Mayor Robert Reeve explained that they had already discussed the matter in a city council committee meeting and that the street department had already expressed its opinion that it would not be able to handle 29 extra stops with their current work load. He added, however, that this issue needs to be resolved before the first snow fall.

Duncan said then that what the city is saying is that the school district will have to find a solution on their own.

Mayor Reeve said the city will probably be able to help haul some of the snow away after it accumulates over a period of time.

Dennis Kiesow, school board chairman, suggested that the city and school district employees responsible for snow removal and maintenance get together so that at least the city is aware of what is going on.

Representatives at the meeting agreed, and later it was suggested that the Minnesota department of transportation be included in discussions at that future meeting.

A request for proposal is being prepared by attorneys for the school district in anticipation of the sale of Knox and Northrop.

Duncan said that a lot of interest has been expressed in these two properties, which will now be vacant because of the construction of the new elementary school. He said the school district is sensitive to the needs of residents living around Northrop, but the bottom line is that the school district intends to sell those two properties.

He added that the matter should be important to the city because once the school district sells the property, it pretty much becomes a city problem regarding zoning and other matters.

Duncan said the school district does not anticipate making any money on the sale of Northrop or Knox, but the request for proposals should limit potential buyers to developers with serious plans.

Kiesow explained that even if the school district sells the properties for $1 they are ahead because it would have cost them a great deal more to tear down the buildings.

Local officials are being encouraged to participate in developing a strategic plan for community-wide telecommunications. Duncan explained that at a recent conference, it became clear that communities that have a strategic telecommunications plan in place will be successful in the future. Other communities without a plan will be outside looking in. Telecommunications, he said, will have a huge impact, not unlike the impact from typewriters, radio and television.

Duncan said letters had been sent to various governmental groups about a proposal to develop a strategic telecommunications plan. In the future, he said, businesses and industries will go to communities that have the infrastructure to handle their needs and keep them in touch with the world.

The construction of Challenger elementary school has meant the closing of Northrop and Knox elementary schools, and re-assignments at Washington and Mark Twain elementary schools. Lately it has also meant that playground equipment has been moved from those locations to the new school. This has upset a number of residents in the area of the old schools who have utilized the playgrounds as park and recreation facilities.

Duncan said the school district has moved the newer more recently donated equipment to Challenger, but intends to leave some equipment on the property as long as it retains ownership of the property. But, the school district is not in the park and recreation business, Duncan said.

What happens to playground equipment at those facilities depends upon what happens when those facilities are sold. There is a strong possibility that the city will purchase some of the equipment and put it on nearby parks.

BLE president reviews his union's position

(3) While it is a standard practice that the carrier designate who is in charge of the train, UTU seeks by agreement that the conductor will be in charge of the train. This responsibility has been traditionally shared by the engineer and conductor.

(4) In Presidential Emergency Board No. 219, BLE was awarded the right to exclusively represent engineers. The UTU has demanded an agreement that would nullify this exclusive representation provision.

"Such demands by the UTU run counter to the concepts of solidarity," McLaughlin wrote, "because they are, in reality, a direct assault on another rail labor union and prevent the enforcement of BLE contracts."

In a letter to BLE members on the Soo Line dated August 30, McLaughlin pointed out that "the issues that became the center point of our jurisdictional dispute (with the UTU) were issues that we were unaware of when you were first asked to honor the late UTU picket lines on July 14.

"....While I am the first to recognize the emotional issues involved when you ask someone to take a stand contrary to popular belief, especially when many of our Soo Line members have family and friends that belong to the United Transportation Union, the bottom line was that it became an issue of survival for the BLE," McLaughlin wrote.

"....Each of you is personally aware of the decrease in the number of operating employees on our railroads and that change is due primarily to technology in the industry which, more than likely, will require fewer workers in the future. The UTU on the Soo Line was asking for issues that would eventually cause our numbers to decrease and place the engineer in a subordinate position. I could not and cannot sit by and let such a situation develop.

"Regardless of the traditional union principles, we could no longer honor the picket lines of an organization and assist them in forcing a railroad to give them contractual provisions that would be harmful to the BLE's existence. We can't prevent them from asking for the agreements, but we don't have to help them get them."

McLaughlin also reminded his members that, if no settlement is reached through the Presidential Emergency Board recommendations, the BLE could be in the same position at the end of the 60 days as it was when President Clinton ordered the strikers back to work.

Both the UTU and the BLE are members of the AFL-CIO which, as of now, has not intervened to settle differences between the two unions which earlier this year had opened merger talks but later broke them off.

compensation, welfare and juvenile justice systems; protect the American and Minnesota flag from intentional mutilization; create stricter penalties for repeat criminal offenders; institute term limits for election officials and constitutional officers; limiting PAC contributions/gifts to legislators; and allow Minnesotans to vote on a constitutional amendment for the right to keep and bear arms.

Recognizing that over-regulation and excessive wetland legislation threaten farmers' control over their lands, I authored an amendment to exempt type six wetland of two acres or less from the Wetlands Act and make those wetlands eligible for the permanent wetland preserve program.

One issue of great concern to our area is that echoed throughout Minnesota is the high level of taxation we are subjected to by our state government. We are already taxed more than our fair share. I strongly opposed tax increases and consistently voted to eliminate wasteful government spending.

You are my top legislative priority. With your support, I plan to work to create a strong business climate that encourages job growth; develop quality education initiatives so that our children can compete in a global economy; create a welfare system that encourages independence and self-sufficiency without draining taxpayer dollars; decrease government over regulation from the agricultural industry; return our state government to a citizen legislature and institute term limits to halt the power in the hands of a few career politicians; and enforce stricter criminal penalties so that our rights to be safe in our own homes and neighborhoods transcend the rights of criminals.

In addition to serving in the Minnesota legislature, I am a member of the Warren Jaycees, the Warren Snowmobile club, the Thief River Falls Chapter of the Minnesota Deer Hunters Association, the National Rifle Association and the Warren Evangelical Covenant Church.

Thank you for your support. I encourage you to contact me with questions or comments regarding my legislative record, campaign or issues that may concern you. I look forward to hearing from you.

with people to educate other legislators to our needs. In this sense, experience and dedication will be a great asset for us all.

Wands and I have two sons Kim and Kevin. We also have three grandchildren. Kim is a deputy sheriff with Cass County and Kevin is a special education teacher in Grand Forks. We live in Thief River Falls and I am retired from US West, where I was employed for over 36 years. I am a member of St. Bernards church, the American Legion and Kiwanis.

Presently I am the chairman of the Pennington County Board of Commissioners. Before my election to the county board I served as the Thief River Falls second ward Alderman for nine years. Previous to that I was on the Thief River Falls school board for 12 years. I am also chairman of the Minnesota Office of Waste Management committee, a member on the Lt. Governor's commission on local and state government relations and was also director of the League of Minnesota cities. I serve on several other state, local and regional committees. I have always been an active member of my church and community.

There are a great many issues and concerns that effect us, that could be discussed here, but the important thing is that I have the time, concern and the commitment to serve as your DFL State Representative.

I would appreciate your support in November.

I would like to thank the Thief River Falls Times for giving us this opportunity to present our views.

I have also done seasonal accounting for Northwest Asphalt Maintenance of Goodridge. My present employment with the National Associations of State Department of Agriculture involves personal interviews with farmers regarding their crop, livestock and financial practices that flow into the U.S.D.A. reports. Presently, I have five other employees under my supervision.

If elected I will assure you courteous, prompt and accurate service. Your vote will be appreciated on September 13.

Over the years, I have had occasion to attend a great number of schools and classes from laws to dealing with the public. responsibilities, this office also handles personal property liens under the Uniform Commercial Code laws, State and Federal tax liens and military discharges.

In May of 1992, this office took over the records of birth, death, marriage and notary public recordings. This office now has the responsibility of property filing and maintaining these vital records and to work with the Minnesota Department of Health to insure the accuracy, confidentiality and the safeguarding of these important documents.

I am a graduate of the accounting program and a past computer software utilization instructor for the Northwest Technical college and intend to use this training to keep this office up to date with the opportunities of utilizing computers to maintain this office in the most modern methods of maintaining these records.

I have been a resident of Pennington county for over 15 years and currently reside within the city of Thief River Falls. It is my intention to make the position of county recorder a lifetime career.

The records within your county recorder's office are some of the most important that you will ever have. The job of preserving and protecting them should be left to someone with the experience and qualifications to properly handle them.

I would appreciate your support and would urge you to exercise your right to vote in the upcoming primary election. Thank you.

The Warning Signs of Diabetes

Are you experiencing excessive thirst or extreme hunger, frequent urination, dramatic weight loss, irritability, weakness and fatigue, nausea or vomiting, and frequent or persistant vaginal infection or dryness? These could be the warning signs of diabetes.

Additional symptoms include recurring or hard-to-heal skin, gum or bladder infections, drowsiness, blurred vision, tingling or numbness in hands or feet, and itching.

Of the 14 million Americans who have diabetes, nearly half are undiagnosed. Type I, the insulin-dependent form of the disease, often develops in childhood but sometimes strikes older people. It stems from the body's failure to produce insulin, a hormone that allows glucose to be used by cells. About one million people have Type I diabetes, which has warning signs that appear suddenly. Treatment consists of daily insulin injections.

Type II, or non-insulin-dependent diabetes, is far more common. It affects an estimated 13 million people, six million of wham do not know they have the disease. This type occurs when the body does not produce enough insulin, or does not use it effectively, or both. A person is at greatest risk for developing non-insulin-dependent diabetes if he or she is over 40, overweight, and has a family history of the disease. Symptoms usually develop gradually.

Type II diabetes often can be controlled without insulin injections. Patients, together with their physicians, develop an individualized management plan that consists of eating small, frequent, healthy meals and exercise, which help the body to utilize insulin more effectively. Left unchecked, soaring blood sugar levels can lead to diabetic shock or coma, which require immediate medical attention.

A third type, gestational diabetes, affects about three to 12 per cent of all pregnant women. Again, family history and obesity are major risk factors, along with advanced maternal age. Left untreated, the disorder may be associated with serious problems for the baby. Pregnant women age 30 and older should Campaign to save this Thief River Falls landmark—the Soo Line depot—has made a fast start with $40,000 pledged after the first week of community fund raising.

Soo Depot drive off to fast start as $40,000 is pledged

After only the first week of campaigning, the fund raising effort to save the historic Soo Line depot in Thief River Falls has met with $40,000 worth of success, according to Dave Strong, co-chairman of the effort.

Strong says he is pleased with the response to the private/public partnership to raise funds for restoration and commercial development of the landmark.

"This really is a community project," he said. "To save this building will take everyone working together if we hope to reach the goals of sufficient fund raising for restoration and accessibility, gaining placement on the National Register of Historic Places and securing private development to keep the property useful and on the tax rolls."

A year ago the Canadian Pacific began taking bids to demolish the depot which was built in Thief River Falls in 1913. A private benefactor stepped forward with an offer of matching funds of up to $200,000 to save the building and attempt to secure placement on the National Register of Historic Places. Negotiations were reopened with the Canadian Pacific, resulting in a purchase agreement dependent on cammunity fund raising and private develapment.

"I think we can do this," Strong said of the fund raising effort. "Our button campaign and pledge drive have gone very well, even though we're just a little over a week into them. The cammittee has only until November 11 to complete its wark. If we can't meet our goal the funds will be returned and the depot's fate is...well....sealed, I guess. As far as I know, we only get one chance."

Strong says the committee is warking on opportunities for memorials, in addition to tax deductible contributions, and invites others in the cammunity to get involved in the preservation fund drive. For more information, contact the city develapment office at 681-2500.

In most cases, gestational diabetes can be controlled through diet and management. It usually disappears after birth, but in 50 per cent of cases it returns as non-insulin-dependent diabetes within five to 10 years.

Being diagnosed with diabetes requires that a person take a very active role in managing his or her own health. The sooner it is regulated, the easier it is to control.

Franklin middle school art department also needed some final touches to be ready for students Wednesday. This photo was taken Friday afternoon. The ceiling of this room will have the open beams and indirect lighting shown here. There is some new cabinetry, but much of the storage for the department was moved from the previous art area. Start of school at Franklin was delayed one day to permit further construction completion.

SPEAKING OF

Sherry LaCoursiere

... More Dizzy Drivers

After a brief detour, here are a few more gripes about driving in Thief River Falls:

One of the most irritating and perhaps one of the most dangerous driving habits of some drivers is swerving out when turning. By this I mean the driver who swings out to the left, sometimes even as far as into the left lane, when turning right, or vice versa.

When driving in Thief River Falls, one learns quickly not to put one's faith in the turning signals of others. One certainly learns not to trust the other drivers on the road after a few experiences such as those in which other drivers make a left turn with their right signal blinking, or, again, vice versa, one follows a car with its turning signal blinking for several blocks and never sees it turn, or finds oneself behind a driver who changes his or her mind at the last minute and decides to turn left after signalling right at a stop sign.

The signal problem is compounded when a driver swerves out into the opposite lane when turning. A driver behind could just assume that the person, driving in Thief River Falls, after all, had just made a mistake and flipped the turn signal the wrong way and was really planning to turn the other way. The unaware driver behind could even begin to pass the car when it starts to turn, which could be disastrous.

There is a law that allows a right turn at a red light as long as the driver stops, checks for oncoming traffic, and there is no sign saying "No right turn on red." Yes, there is! Did some people miss hearing about it? How many times have you and several other cars behind you waited behind someone in the right lane of a perfectly clear intersection while they waited for the red light to turn green and all of you could have been off and gone a long time ago?

What about those trains? Even with the Soo Line strike and all, they are still traveling through town right at the time someone needs to get to work or to school or, as often the case, needs to be at work or school and is late. It doesn't seem to matter if people try to be at the railroad tracks a minute or two early or come a minute or two later, it seems as if they will still come smack dab upon the train, dawdling along as it crosses the road.

And it never fails, if you try to race around to one of the other crossings to try to avoid it, you can be sure that train will stop what it is doing and back up and get you there, too.

What about those cars facing us at a stop sign or lighted intersection who scoot into a turn in front of us? This must be another one of those laws that people have not heard about. The law says the driver going straight has the right-of-way. Yes, it does. I once had a local judge turn in front of me at an intersection when I was going straight, so perhaps it is a very little known law. He did have his turn signal on, however.

Crabby drivers are another one of my pet peeves, but I wonder if I am the one to bring up the subject.

I once saw a cartoon with Goofy (the comic dog). Until he got into his car he was a mild-mannered, gentle character, but once he got behind the wheel, he had a complete change of character, turning into a crab, yelling and screaming at other drivers, making faces and shaking his fists. I think there might be a lot of us who are like that.

As much as I hate to admit it, I think I am something like that. I get a little irritable and short-tempered when I am driving and seem to have very little patience with others on the road. I often think of the Goofy character and wonder if I, too, don't become a crab behind the wheel. Maybe I should try to be a little more tolerant.

TIMES FOR TODDLERS

ACTIVITIES

Picnic Puppets

If you still want to get in a few picnics, your children can have fun with the leftover picnic supplies. You will need a plastic spoon and fork and paper plates.

Use markers to draw a face on the spoon. Use pipe cleaners to wind around the neck of the spoon and you have instant arms. Draw a face on the paper plate. Use the fork to wedge into the bottom and you will have a plate puppet. You could also cut another paper plate in two, and tape it to the back of the plate with a face. Put your hand into the pocket that is formed and you have a hand puppet. Now all you have to do is use your imagination to produce a puppet play.

SCAVENGER HUNT

For next week's Activities feature, you will need clear plastic bottles or jars, food coloring, water, cooking oil, glitter, small shells and pebbles.

BOOK OF THE WEEK

The Thief River Falls public library invites you to browse through its new selection of children's books including the following:

Kelley, True. I've Got Chicken Pox. Jess gets chicken pox and enjoys staying home from school and having unlimited ice cream. But then her fever rises, the itching starts and an oatmeal bath barely helps. A story that both entertains and reassures.

Boelts, Maribeth. Dry Days, Wet Nights. The whole family shares Little Bunny's nighttime adventures as he tries to sleep without diapers.

VIDEO VARIETY

Corduroy. Corduroy encounters all kinds of perils in the darkened store during an adventuresome search for his missing button.

PARENTING TIPS

Showing Love

All the toys and special learning activities in the world are not as important to your child as your time, your attention and your love. So how can you find enough time to give your child attention and love, especially when your life is so full and busy? And what if you have more than one child? Certainly giving individual time and attention (love) can be complicated.

One solution to this problem is to make the best possible use of the time that you do have together. For example, if you're cooking breakfast for your child, take a moment to be with her, look into her eyes and squeeze her hand. Tell her "good morning" and let her know how glad you are to see her. In other words, focus your mind and attention on your child for a moment to two. Consciously think about her and the person that she is.

It doesn't really take that long to let her know that you care. Thirty seconds here and there during the day to share a few moments of love and conversation can make the rest of her day and yours more rewarding. Besides, when your child is an adult, what kind of memories do you want her to have? Do you want your child to remember the moments you spent listening and talking and sharing or the moments you spent doing "things" to keep your life organized and running smoothly.

SOMETHING TO TALK ABOUT

Focus on your child's conversation. Really listen and respond to what he/she is saying, just as you would an adult.

SAYING GOOD-BYE TO SUMMER

Labor Day weekend has always been difficult for me to deal with. It signals the end. The end of summer. The end of three months being carefree. The end of three months at the lake.

For the last 30-some summers I've been going to "the lake." Our vacation was the lake!

The visits started out a week, turned into two weeks, then a month and finally into three months. We'd move out to the lake, get jobs and make friends with the local kids.

When Labor Day arrived, we'd pack it all up and go home.

As we rolled in the dock, dragged the boatlift to shore and stored the boat, we said good-bye to summer.

We said good-bye to lazing on the dock and floating in the water. We said good-bye to swimming, water-skiing and collecting clam shells. We said good-bye to the quiet nights and watching the sun set on the still lake. We waved good-bye to the mosquitoes that dive bombed our head and the crickets that kept us awake at night. We said good-bye to soggy swimsuits and sand-covered cabin floors.

Tears rimmed my eyes as we slammed the screen door for the last time and forced the car trunk closed. It was hard to imagine that soon the water would be ice, piled with feet of snow.

Again this year, as we drove away from my parents' summer home, tears filled my eyes when I remembered all the really good things of the summer—family gatherings, kids jumping playfully off the dock, trying to catch sunfish and playing card games during stormy weather.

It seems silly to be sentimental about a season, but summer teaches me to relax, slow down and reflect.

Summer is a time to read all those good books and magazines. It's a time to eat more brats and burgers than are good for you. Summer is a time to toss out the routine and go off in a different direction. My summer passion is outdoor craft shows and festivals. Others camp or play softball. Then when September arrives, we switch gears.

It was hard to leave the lake again, because it symbolized the end of a different kind. After five years of living in Detroit Lakes, my family and I moved to Thief River Falls. I not only said good-bye to summer, but also to what had become home—to what was familiar to me.

Yes, tears fell as we drove down the highway, but I started to think of what we have to look forward to. A new house. New neighbors. New friends. A new community. A new church. New everything. These will create their own warm memories.

And we have fall to anticipate; it carries its own personality. We experience the beautiful changing colors, peruse the pumpkin patch, go back to school, watch football games and treat little Halloween goblins.

For some reason, through, fall doesn't hold the same sentimental feelings for me as does summer. But the great thing about Minnesota is that we know summer will return. Good-bye summer! See you next year!

Gordon Graham named to Athletic Trainers Hall of Fame

Gordon L. Graham, son of Max and Marie Graham of Springsteel Island and formerly of Thief River Falls, has been inducted into the National Athletic Trainers Association Hall of Fame at Dallas, TX.

Graham is also a charter member of the Minnesota ATA Hall of Fame, having been inducted with Lloyd Stein and Jim Marshall of the University of Minnesota and Fred Zamberletti of the Minnesota Vikings.

Graham, who heads the NATA approved program at Moorhead State University—which along with Gustavus Adolphus College has the only approved instructional program for athletic trainers in Minnesota—initiated and developed the nationally approved athletic trainer program in the United States. It was established as a college minor in 1969 and as a major in 1979.

Dear Readers,
If your spouse has died, you will probably experience some of the common symptoms of grief. You may also find yourself filled with anger. You may feel angry at the doctors and nurses who couldn't save your spouse. You may even be angry at God. Many feel angry at their spouse for leaving them, and then feel guilty for their anger. You may be surprised and frightened by the intensity of your feelings. It is important to realize these reactions are normal.
Respectfully,

Thygeson teaches math at Lincoln

After spending the last year in Alaska, Bryan Thygeson has returned to Minnesota as a mathematics teacher at Lincoln high school in Thief River Falls.

A native of Middle River, Bryan and his wife Kathy spent last year at Sand Point, Alaska, a remote community on Shumagan Island in the Aleutian Island chain.

Bryan Thygeson

Thygeson taught junior high school mathematics and science and coached basketball and cross country at Sand Point, which had an enrollment of 800 students.

"I really enjoyed the people and the change of pace," he said. "It is definitely a different culture. Ninety per cent of my students were Aleut Native Alaskan."

Coping with distance in competitive sports was also a challenge. "Instead of taking the bus," he said, "our team would hop a plane to the next school district."

Life for the Aleut families is hard, Thygeson said. Children help with family and commercial fishing, with an acute awareness of local politics typical of students of every age. "I've taught in Hawley and Red Lake Falls, but I came away from Sand Point with a lot more empathy for children in general," he said.

Before returning to Minnesota, Thygeson capped off his summer with a thee-week National Science Foundation Fellowship in volcanology through the University of Hawaii. Based in Hilo, on the island of Hawaii, Thygeson was part of a group researching continuing eruptions of the nation's only active volcano, Mount Kilauea. Thygeson says the results of research he performed will be used to help set up a seismic station at Lincoln high school.

Thygeson is a graduate of Middle River high school. He holds a bachelor of science degree in education and mathematics from Mayville State University in North Dakota and expects to finish his master's degree in administration at Bemidji State University next spring. He will instruct senior high school algebra, applied math and advanced math at Lincoln.

New cafeteria at Lincoln high school will utilize this seating area as well as an adjacent serving area offering a variety of foods from which students may choose. Last minute preparations were being made Friday in anticipation of the school opener Tuesday.

Allows readers to speak out on a variety of issues

by Rep. Jim Tunheim

The law we passed during today's special legislative session will provide the public with greater protection from dangerous sexual offenders.

It will ensure that some of the most feared criminals in our society will be kept off the streets longer, if not permanently.

Today we strengthened the state's psychopathic personality commitment law. Previously, sexual offenders could be committed to a treatment facility only if they showed an "utter lack of power" over their sexual impulses and inflicted injury on others. The new provisions approved by the Legislature added "sexually dangerous persons" to those who can be committed. These are criminals who may be able to control their impulses but act on them anyway.

Because the legislation focused on the state's civil commitment law, rather than a criminal statute, two sexual predators recently released under a state Supreme Court order may be recommitted. Sixty-six other sexual predators currently in confinement will have a more difficult time attaining their release.

The new law affects anybody who can be defined as sexually dangerous, whether or not they have already served a prison sentence. The public wants and expects us to protect them from dangerous people like these.

The Legislature was working to revise the law even before the court ordered the release of the two predators in July. During the 1994 session the Legislature established a task force to determine how the state should update or replace the law, which was enacted in 1939. That law has been used to protect citizens from dangerous sexual predators after their prison sentences have expired. The panel was to recommend solutions to the Legislature in time for the 1995 session.

But with two dangerous felons already freed by the court and others lining up for appeals, we had to act fast. I am pleased we were able to update the law before the court released more dangerous criminals.

Service grant to target dropouts and alternative students

Governor Arne Carlson has announced that a $904,369 Youth-Works grant has been awarded to the Minnesota Department of Economic Security to establish a statewide youth service corps program for economically disadvantaged high school dropouts and students enrolled in alternative learning centers.

"This grant gives more than a financial boost to Minnesota's youth," Governor Carlson said. "It provides another opportunity for our youth to develop the work ethic and commitment to community that people in this state embrace."

Initially, the Youth Service Corps program will serve 84 participants, ages 17-24, at about a dozen sites throughout the state. Participants will earn monthly stipends while working on community projects in the areas of public safety, environment and human service needs, and education.

"The program will awaken high school dropouts and alternative students to a wide range of career possibilities in community-service fields such as human services," said Commissioner Jane Brown, of the Minnesota Department of Economic Security. "They will become a part of the solution that meets the department's goal of helping people help themselves gain economic security."

Projects proposed for the program include: working with child development in Head Start centers; mentoring and tutoring school-age children; assisting youth recreation centers that address delinquency and drug issues; helping low-income senior citizens live at home; increasing affordable housing opportunities for low-income families and the homeless; and restoring public land, rivers and wetlands.

Collaborating on the grant proposal with the Minnesota Department of Economic Security were the Minnesota Job Training Partnership Directors' Association and the Minnesota Community Action Association. The Minnesota Department of Economic Security (formerly Jobs and Training) has program offices in more than 70 communities throughout the state, helping 1.2 million Minnesotans annually help themselves gain economic security.

The Youth Service Corps Program is expected to begin October 1. For more information about the program, call 1-800-456-8519.

Bull rider who won in TRF is doing well

(Editor's Note: Chad Brennan of Ellsworth, NE, is a 19-year-old rookie bull rider in the Professional Rodeo Cowboys Association who won first place in the four-day bull riding competition at the 1994 TRF Stampede this spring. He is currently in 11th place in the national standings with earnings to date of $33,362. The following article by Brennan, which mentions Thief River Falls, appeared in the August 24 issue of ProRodeo Sports News under the heading "Brennan's dreams are coming true." He was asked by the rodeo magazine to talk about how he got started in the sport and how his first season in the PRCA is going.)

My dad always competed in the team roping event, so I started doing that when I was six. I rode a horse before I could walk; riding was my true love. I remember riding milk cows for fun and then competing at junior rodeos when I turned 10.

My dad helped me. He never discouraged my wanting to work the riding events, though I don't think he thought I'd ever ride bulls.

He was wrong.

I got on my first bull at a Little Britches rodeo in Gordon, NE. I scored 54 points and have been hooked ever since. I made the national high school finals in bareback riding and bull riding three of the four years I tried. I got my PRCA permit last year and it took me nine rodeos to fill it.

My plans are all coming true. When I was in high school, I started thinking about 1994. Somebody told me what the Resistol Rookie of the Year Award was when I was 16, and I started thinking about it. I though, "Hey, I'll graduate from high school in May 1993, get my permit, fill it and crack out with full membership in 1994 and go for the rookie of the year."

Well, that's all coming true so far. I'm leading the (rookie) bull riding standings and, even better, I've been in the Top 15 a lot. I've got about $30,000 won, and my goal has always been to win the rookie and qualify for the National Finals Rodeo the same year. That would be a dream.

This year didn't start off very well. I bucked off at Kansas City, the first rodeo of the year. Then I won second at Dayton, Ohio, and rode Burns' Dodge bull for a $1,500 bonus. That was a big confidence-builder.

Unfortunately, confidence didn't equal great performances. I was as cold as you could be in February and March and was about to go broke, so I didn't even enter Fort Worth or San Antonio. But in April I won $2,000 at Corpus Christi, Texas. In May, I won $2,000 at Thief River Falls, Minnesota. Then in July, I won the Greeley (Colorado) Independence Stampede. I rode Cervi's Copenhagen Chase for 88 points and won about $5,000. That's the boost I needed. I had a great feeling that weekend that something good would happen.

It's weird, because the guys I'm competing against are my heroes—Ty Murray, Terry Don West, Jerome Davis. I mean, it wasn't all that long ago that I was a little kid, and those were the guys I watched. Sometimes I actually beat those guys. Strange.

Last winter, I worried so much it about made me sick. I learned from that. I told myself that if I just try to win first place on every bull I get on, eventually I'll win first place. And you can't worry about what everybody else is doing. You can't control that.

My three little brothers are into basketball, football and wrestling. That's O.K. Maybe I'll be the only one in the family, besides Dad, to rodeo. I have a plan to win a world buckle someday. I figure this year is going according to plan, so I better not mess with getting greedy about it.

SCS seeks recruits for AmeriCorps

AmeriCorps members are being recruited by the USDA Soil Conservation Service in Minnesota, according to Al Gustafson of the Pembina Trail Resource Conservation and Development Association in Red Lake Falls.

AmeriCorps is a national service initiative which allows people to earn money for college tuition or to repay college loans while performing public service for environment, health, public safety or education. Participants in the AmeriCorps program work 1,700 hours and earn between $7,600 and $12,000 plus an educational award of $4,725.

Twenty AmeriCorps positions have been approved for the State of Minnesota, according to Gary Nordstrom, SCS State conservationist. "These positions focus on helping rural and urban residents understand the values related to soil and water conservation, resource management, grassland and pasture management, animal waste storage and waste utilization, recreational plan and trail development, public information and technical assistance related in watershed project areas," Nordstrom said.

Minnesota's SCS AmeriCorps participants will be headquartered in several locations, including Twin Valley, Rochester, Lewiston, Cloquet, Thief River Falls, Red Lake Falls, Warren, Crookston, McIntosh and Mahnomen.

Applications for USDA AmeriCorps positions in Minnesota can be obtained by calling the Pembina Trail RC & D at 253-2646, SCS area office at 681-6600 or SCS state office in St. Paul at (612) 290-3677.

Estimated tax payments due September 15

The Internal Revenue Service reminds people who make estimated tax payments that the third installment for 1994 is due Thursday, September 15.

The payment should be sent to the IRS along with the third quarter payment voucher from Form 1040ES, Estimated Tax for Individuals. To be sure that the payment is properly credited to your account, the IRS asks that you write your social security number and the words "1994 Form 1040ES" on the check.

If you expect to owe $500 or more in federal tax at the end of the year, you probably should be making quarterly estimated tax payments, the IRS says. Although retirees and business people are most often affected by this requirement, it can potentially apply to anyone who receives income not subject to withholding, such as unemployment benefits, capital gains, interest, dividends, alimony, and rental income. If you work a second job, you may also need to make these payments.

According to the IRS, Form 1040ES has a worksheet which you can use to figure out how much you should be sending in each quarter. Publication 505 has more information on the subject, including some helpful examples. To get a free copy of this booklet or the form, call toll-free-1-800-TAX-FORM (829-3676).

To listen to a recorded summary of the estimated tax rules, call Tele-Tax at 1-800-829-4477 and request tape number 355.

Cancer society warns against another drive

A fund drive by an organization calling itself the Cancer Center for Detection and Prevention has come to the attention of the Pennington County Chapter of the American Cancer Society.

The organization has sent materials to Thief River Falls residents for a door-to-door volunteer fund raising campaign. Volunteers are encouraged to visit five neighbors or members of their family, distribute educational materials and raise $30 in contributions.

Representatives of the American Cancer Society in Pennington county advise potential contributors that the agency is not affiliated with the ACS in any way and its motives or potential benefits for cancer education are unknown. The American Cancer Society uses a copyrighted sword symbol on its campaign materials.

MN Revenue dept. and IRS offer workshops

The course being offered in Thief River Falls is on sales tax. The course provides a basic understanding of the types of goods and services subject to sales tax. Use tax requirements, record keeping, filing requirements, forms preparation and the use of purchases with exemption certificates will be discussed.

High school swimming opener...

Otters win 116-68 dual vs. Prowlers

Fergus Falls continued its dominance over Thief River Falls in girls high school swimming Thursday when the Otters beat the Prowlers 116-68 at the Franklin Middle School pool.

It was the 1994 dual opener for the Prowlers, and the results weren't surprising. "They always beat us," acknowledged Thief River Falls coach Ryan Lokken. "I don't think I've ever beaten them. They're a good, consistent team."

However, Lokken wasn't selling his team short. "I know the score doesn't show it, but I thought we swam well. I was very pleased with our performance. We had a lot of personal-best times, and that's pretty exciting for this time of the year. It may take a while, but by the end of the year we should be pretty solid."

Alexandria presents second TRF challenge

Second portion of Thief River Falls' two-part season-opening high school football challenge awaits the Prowlers Friday – a 7:30 p.m. match-up against Alexandria at Prowler Field.

Thief River Falls started the year with a 21-8 loss on the road against two-time defending Class A state champion Detroit Lakes. Week No. 2 isn't expected to be any less of a challenge against the veteran Cardinals, who figure to challenge for Section 8AA honors this fall.

Alexandria opened with year with a 41-7 romp over Fergus Falls.

"I think we have a nice football team, and if we get some breaks here and there, we could do very, very, well," Cardinals coach Dennis Kalpin told the Alexandria Echo Press. "I think we have some talent here. I'm optimistic."

The contest will match the Prowlers' size and strength against the Cardinals' speed and quickness.

"I think our team speed has increased dramatically, but we're not very big," pointed out Kalpin. That combination makes the Cardinals more likely to strike quickly from long-range than to score on sustained drives. "We have some speed, and our quarterbacks are real solid," added Kalpin.

It will be the first-ever football appearance in Thief River Falls for Alexandria, a 39-6 winner when the two teams met for the first time last year in Alexandria.

"They're a very good football team," confirmed Thief River Falls coach Jeff Mumm, who watched the Cardinals beat the Otters. "They're pretty impressive. Their speed is phenomenal. We can't make any mistake on defense, or we'll be watching the backs of their jerseys as they head to the end zone. They're scary."

The Prowlers will regain the service of lineman Jason Hruby, who missed the opener with an injury.

After hosting the Cardinals, the Prowlers will be back on the road for games against Wadena-Deer Creek, Staples-Motley and Park Rapids Area before closing the regular season at home vs. Crookston, Fergus Falls and East Grand Forks.

NCC starts year with 10 returning sophomores

Northland Community College heads into the 1994 football season with a 51-man squad, but only 10 of them were part of the last year's co-champion Northern Division team.

"Defensively, I think we're just as salty as last year," said Northland coach Gene Klinke. "Defensively, we will be tough. We have our best athletes on defense. Offensively, I don't know. At this point, we have no offensive linemen."

The Northland offense suffered a major off-season loss when Jason Svir, last year's starting quarterback as a freshman, was knocked out of football by a back problem.

Looking to succeed Svir are three newcomers – Brian Remick, Red Lake Falls; J.P. Lammers, Ann Arbor, MI; and Eddie Fleurant, Miami, FL.

Sophomores who are back after helping to lead Northland to a 6-2 regular season record and a Minnesota Community College Conference state playoff berth last year include Dan Koehmstedt, Middle River; Ray Reinhart, Darrin Fish, Warroad; Daniel Nelson, Redwood Falls; Rick Rivera, East Grand Forks; Rick Ostby, Thief River Falls; Antonio Parker, Ronnie Anderson, John Atkinson, Chicago, IL; and Rick Anteau, Toledo, OH.

In addition to the quarterback candidates, the other new faces include Eric Fonville, Robert Perkins, Clarence Davis, Chicago; Shawn Ostenaa, Erskine; Jim Mertens, Bob Ballard, Ogema; Josh Majerus, Glenwood; Robert Carlson, Win-E-Mac; John Lee, Warroad; Kyle Golby, Maple Lake; Dave Hofman, Dave Simmons, Olins Pierre, James Zephyrin, Miami; Jeff Fesch, East Grand Forks; Mark MacDonald, Portland, ND; Brian Tutich, Tallahassee, FL; Brent Miller, Greg Bjerk, Mahnomen; Erik Hamre, Erskine; Joby Looker, Thief River Falls; Pat Robinson, Detroit Lakes; Matt Kennelly, Grafton, ND; Dave Nyhus, Prior Lake; Travis Knutson, Scott Staufenecker, Warren; Terrance Nefzger, Bejou; Tony Salerno, Orlando, FL; Chris Nyland, Fosston; Shawn Blockman, Ann Arbor; Jon Hoefer, Kurt Reynolds, Red Lake Falls; Shane Auginaush, Bagley; Steve Aasond, Drayton, ND; Marc Zeien, Hastings; Brian Siemec, Woodbury; Chris Shawstad, East Grand Forks; and Robert Blake, Minneapolis.

Three of those new people are sophomores: Reynolds, who played at Northland two years ago but sat out the 1993 season; Hofman, who played junior college football in California two years ago; and Salerno, a transfer student from Florida State, where he picked up a national championship ring as a red-shirt player. Anteau, another Florida State transfer, begins his second year with the Pioneers.

Each member of the two-division Minnesota Community College Conference will start the year with three nonconference games against teams in the opposing division before beginning league play. Two regular season finishers in both the Northern and Southern Divisions will advance to the MCCC state playoffs.

Northland starts the 1994 season with nonconference games vs. Worthington, Fergus Falls and Willmar. The Pioneers' Northern Division rivals include Mesabi, Itasco, Vermilion, Hibbing, and Brainerd.

1994 Northland Football

Blue Devils win opener 50-0

■ Gators win; Mustangs, Nordics lose first games

Competition is expected to be more formidable Friday when Goodridge/Grygla-Gatzke takes on Tri-County in a 7:30 p.m. Nine-Man high school football game at Goodridge.

"They're quick," pointed out Goodridge/Grygla-Gatzke coach Darwin Hagen. "It'll be a tough game for us."

The Blue Devils won easily in their 1994 with a 50-0 September 1 conquest of Ulen-Hitterdal.

Jim Verbout rushed for 100 yards and scored three touchdowns in the game played at Ulen that was wrapped up at the end of the third quarter on the Minnesota State High School League 45-point rule for Nine-Man teams.

"It was a pretty good opener," said Hagen. "Some of the kids who didn't get a chance to play a lot last year did pretty well."

Verbout carried the ball only nine times, but scored on runs of 16, 6 and 32 yards. Brady Wiseth, Aaron Holthusen, Steve Grosz, Jessie Lunsetter, and Scott Simpson also scored for the Blue Devils. Lunsetter came off the bench to rush for 86 yards on only three carries.

Goodridge/Grygla-Gatzke netted 310 yards on 34 running plays and went 2-for-3 in the air for 45 yards. Ulen-Hitterdal was held to just 35 yards on offense.

In other Thursday area openers, Badger/Greenbush-Middle River beat Ada-Borup 26-6, Red Lake County Central lost to Fosston 18-7 and Marshall County Central was shut out by Stephen 43-0.

This week, the Gators will face Warren-Alvarado-Oslo at Badger, the Mustangs meet Ada-Borup at Plummer and the Nordics play East Grand Forks Sacred Heart in Newfolden. All three games have 7:30 p.m. kickoffs.

Volleyball will start with Pirates, Tigers

Thief River Falls, after a Tuesday season opener at Crookston, will begin its 1994 home high school volleyball schedule Thursday against Stephen. The varsity match will start at the conclusion of the 6 p.m. junior varsity contest.

The Prowlers hosted a pair of jamborees last week, getting in three scrimmages Wednesday and six more on Friday. Thief River Falls coach Helen Anderson was happy with the progress the team showed in the preseason outings. "Wednesday, our front row looked good, but we struggled with our passing," she explained. "Friday, we did a better job passing. Every game we did a little better."

Anderson said she will start the year rotating nine players through the Prowlers' line-up, including seniors Jenny Drury, Kelly Skeim, Carrie Lawrence, and Sarah Huschle; juniors Heather Holthusen, Kendra Dimich, Carrie Rud, and Maren Thorson; along with sophomore Michelle Mathson.

"They have the talent, and they work really well together," noted Anderson. "If we can put it all together – passing, setting and hitting – I think we'll do well. We just have to be consistent."

Thief River Falls' varsity will be at the Roseau Invitational Saturday. Thief River Falls C squad will host a tournament that same day.

The Prowlers begin their North Sub-Section 8AA campaign next week with a Monday, Sept. 12, match at Detroit Lakes, and a Thursday, Sept. 15, contest at home against Bemidji.

Lake Bronson fish are completing comeback

Re-establishment of fish stocks in Lake Bronson is "right on schedule," according to Michael Larson, Minnesota Department of Natural Resources Fisheries Supervisor in Baudette.

Fisheries personnel conducted a scheduled assessment of the Lake Bronson fish community during the week of August 22-26 to gauge the progress of efforts to re-establish the fish community following a chemical rehabilitation project that was conducted in October, 1992.

Rehabilitation effort involved the application of chemicals with the goal of killing all fish in the lake. This management strategy was chosen for Lake Bronson because of the large number of black bullheads and carp that inhabited the lake. Plans then called for restocking the lake with game fish.

Walleyes of various sizes and adult largemouth bass, yellow perch, and bluegill have been stocked into Lake Bronson during the past two years by DNR fisheries personnel. Fisheries assessment conducted in 1993, combined with the work in August, indicated that besides the stocked fish, several other fish species have become re-established in the lake naturally – primarily via the Two Rivers. Among the additional species are northern pike, white sucker, shorthead redhorse, darter species, and stickleback species. Investigators also sampled four bullheads in 1993, but none were found in the recent assessment.

Larson was not surprised to see species of non-stocked fish show up in the sampling. "The Lake Bronson watershed is very large, and we expected to see many fish species recolonizing the lake naturally from within the watershed. The critical thing from our standpoint was that predator fish such as walleye, northern pike and largemouth bass re-established quickly, so that species such as bullheads would no get an early stronghold."

According to Larson, results from the recent assessment give cause for optimism for the future of angling in Lake Bronson. "We encountered high catch rates of northern pike in the one to three-pound range," he stated. "These appear to be mostly one-year-old fish that hatched in the watershed during the spring following the rehabilitation project."

Of the 36 walleye asmpled by researchers, most appeared to be either one or two-year-old fish. The walleye ranged from 9 to 15 inches in length. Investigators also found large numbers of yellow perch in their nets. "Most of the perch sampled were young perch that have quickly grown to a length of about six to seven inches," said Larson. "Some of the originally stocked perch, though, had grown to nearly 12 inches, and weighed nearly three-quarters of a pound. Workers also noted large schools of young-of-the-year perch that hatched in Lake Bronson this spring.

Although personnel did not find large numbers of bluegill in their nets this summer, they found that the fish that were stocked in 1993 exhibited extraordinary growth. "We sampled bluegill that were as long as 10 inches and weight more than a pound," said Larson. These large bluegill should provide exciting action for anglers. In addition to the large bluegills that were found, investigators were pleased to find young bluegill that hatched in 1993 as well as some that hatched in 1994.

Largemouth bass are not usually sampled well with the the standard nets that fisheries personnel used during the 1994 assessment. Data from the 1993 project, however, show that there was good reproduction by the stocked adults, with many young-of-the-year being sampled up to four inches. These young fish are expected to contribute to a strong population of bass in the future for Lake Bronson.

Another benefit of the rehabilitation is the revitalization of the aquatic plant community of the lake. This new lush growth of vegetation, which provides critical fish habitat, is probably due mostly to increased water clarity. Exposing the lake bottom to the atmosphere during the draw-down procedure probably also helped the plant community to flourish by firming up the sediments.

After looking at the data collected thus far, the project of re-establishing a balanced community of fish in Lake Bronson appears to be progressing well. Anglers should soon start seeing the dividends of all the work that has gone into the project, according to Larson.

Fisheries managers are planning to host a public meeting later this fall to update citizens on the progress of the project, and to solicit information on the future management of Lake Bronson. Information on the meeting will be publicized when the date is finalized.

Two arrested on drug charges

Two men are in custody at the Pennington county law enforcement center following their arrest for possession of a controlled substance in the third degree with intent to sell.

Both men, who were working in Thief River Falls and staying at a local motel, were arrested after illegal drugs were delivered to them.

Pennington county sheriff Gerald Moe said the investigation and surveillance began when the sheriff's department received information from a narcotics task force in Oklahoma that drugs were being delivered to the men. When a search was conducted of the men's motel room, officials seized 35 grams of methamphetamine and about one-quarter pound of marijuana.

Both men were expected to make their initial appearance in a Pennington county district courtroom on Tuesday.

Shoreland projects require permits

Since adoption of the shoreland ordinance in Pennington county, a permit is required for the construction of buildings, additions (including decks and signs), installation and/or alteration of sewage treatment systems and grading and filling activities in the shoreland area.

Land within 300 feet of a river or stream is considered shoreland and will require a shoreland permit. Applications for a permit can be obtained at the Soil and Water Conservation District office at 1305 Dale Street. Cost for a permit is $5.

The city of Thief River Falls has its own shoreland ordinance and is not covered by the county ordinance. Some townships in Pennington county also require an additional building permit.

Money available to seal wells

Pennington County Soil and Water Conservation district has cost share money available to assist with sealing abandoned wells.

Cost share is 50 per cent and state law requires all abandoned wells to be sealed by licensed well drillers. Local drillers are working with the SWCD to make this program successful.

To apply for cost share to seal a well, stop at the SWCD office located at 1305 Dale Street in Thief River Falls. Application takes only a few minutes and two bids are required for each well. Most wells can be sealed quickly and easily.

For more information on the program, contact the SWCD office at 681-3348.

First day at FMS delayed for one day

Classes at Franklin Middle School in Thief River Falls were delayed a day. The delay gave contractors an opportunity to complete some work, and gave sixth grade students and parents an opportunity to orient themselves to the school.

Dr. Robert Duncan, superintendent of schools in School District 564, said it was important for incoming sixth graders to tour Franklin, ask questions and ease the transition from elementary to middle school. The Franklin Middle School construction schedule had made the traditional orientation impossible.

Duncan explained that until Tuesday, they just couldn't get into the building. Over the weekend, the classrooms really came together, and administrators were able to plan orientation and give the students the same advantage all other sixth graders have had.

Grade six students and their parents were invited to tour the school Tuesday evening. Individual class schedules and locker assignments were available.

Class schedules and locker assignments for seventh and eighth graders was distributed in the Franklin gymnasium Wednesday morning at 8:30 a.m.

Duncan explained the delay stating that, "although the Franklin building passed fire and electrical inspection, administrators decided Sunday to delay classes one day, to complete the main entrance and lobby, home economics area, and the computer/lego lab."

Lincoln high school classes went ahead as scheduled Tuesday.

Five Lincoln students serve in medical intern program

Students from Medical Careers class have opportunity to earn while learning more about their special health interest area

Northwest Medical Center in Thief River Falls recently hosted a dessert and coffee session for the five Lincoln high school students who are completing their summer health care intern program.

Conducted at Northwest Medical Center and the Falls Clinic Division of Dakota Clinic Ltd., the program is an extension of the shadowing opportunity students received in the Medical Careers class taught by Ila Flesche at Lincoln high school.

Participating in the program as student interns this year were Jenni Halling and Jeanne Nelson at the Falls Clinic Division of Dakota Clinic and Rachel Demarais, Rikka Flesche and Jennifer Seibel at Northwest Medical Center.

Flesche and her students expressed their appreciation at the event to the medical center and clinic for participating in the program and giving students such an important educational experience.

"The Summer Health Care Program gives students an opportunity for exploring health care careers with direct personal experience and knowing how it feels to be a paid employee in a health care facility," Flesche said.

Under the program, students work for 12 weeks of 40 hours each and are paid $5 per hour— half of which is provided by the employing facility and half through a grant from the Minnesota State Legislature.

This is the third year of the program locally and the first year in which the clinic has been involved. Three students took part in each of the first two years at the medical center and all six pursued careers in the health care field. Jan Nyflot, clinic administrator, and Mike Parker, director of human resources at Northwest Medical Center, both spoke highly of the students' performance.

"The goal of this program is to create an interest in students to pursue a medical care career in hope of reducing the shortages that exist in many areas of the field," Flesche added.

In order to qualify for participation in the intern program, students must be entering their senior year at Lincoln in the fall and have taken the Medical Careers program at the school or be science-oriented students with an interest in a health care career.

All five students participating this year have health care career goals in areas of nursing, occupational therapy, medical lab technician and medical records.

Lincoln high school offers two two-hour sections of Medical Careers classes, one in the morning and one in the afternoon during the school year. Those classes are open to students in 10th through 12th grades.

Organizational meeting of Minnesota land rights group planned Sept. 14

Organizational meeting of a Minnesota land rights group will take place Wednesday, September 14, at 1 p.m. in the public library located next to the civic center in St. Cloud.

Several area people who have been concerned with private land rights, particularly as they are affected by the state's wetland law, are expected to attend the meeting. All persons interested are invited to the session which is open to the public.

A preliminary meeting to assess the interest in formation of such an organization was held a couple of months ago. That meeting revealed a number of land rights concerns and sufficient interest to attempt to organize, with the September 14 session to be that attempt.

Further information on the meeting can be obtained from DelRay Larsan of Gatzke at 459-3364 or Dave Zavoral of Grygla at 294-6536.

BIBLE STUDY

How to overcome anxiety

After you read through this Bible study, go back and look up the Scriptures and highlight them in your Bible.

If you are a disciple of Jesus Christ and you are now living for God every day by imitating the Father and the Son on a daily basis, then you are keeping the commandments of Jesus Christ and you are performing the Will of God (Eph. 5:1; I Cor. 11:1; 1 John 2:6, 17; Matt. 7:21; 12:50; 1 Peter 4:2; John 7:17). You are keeping Christ's works and acting on His words by being careful to engage in good works (John 14:12; 12:47; Luke 6:47; 8:21; 11:28; Titus 3:8). You are not to be foolish, but understand what the Will of God is and then do it from the heart (Eph. 5:17; 6:6).

Christ commands us to cast our anxieties on Him (1 Peter 5:7). He says we are to practice thinking only what is beautiful and peaceful. We are to seek peace and pursue it earnestly and turn away from evil by doing good for Him daily (1 Peter 3:11; Rom. 12:21). This is the Will of God (Rom. 12:2).

We are to clean up our speech, clean up our thoughts and clean up our actions by practicing righteousness daily to glorify God (1 Peter 4:11; Eph. 4:29; 5:10; Matt. 5:16; 1 John 2:29; 3:7). We are to pray to God for all our needs and wants, as well as for the needs and wants of others. Then, we are to have confidence that we will receive what we have asked of God in our prayers because we are living to please Him daily (John 15:16; 16:23-24; 1 John 3:22).

Jesus Christ wants us to enter the good life that He has waiting for us (John 10:10). We enter this good life when we start doing good for others for the glory of God. This is how Christ is formed in us and we become new creations (Gal. 4:19; 6:15; Col. 1:28; 2 Cor. 13:9, 11). Our anxieties begin to disappear when we enter this good life and rest from all our works of the flesh (Heb. 4:10).

Keep in mind that Jesus' Ways are easy and pleasant (Matt. 11:30). That's why God is calling the unwise, the foolish, the sinners, the lowly and the simple-minded (1 Cor. 1:26-28).

Satan would like you to think this is real hard because he wants you to continue to be held captive by him, doing his will instead of God's Will (2 Tim. 2:26; Matt. 6:10).

Those who are living for God are to commit all their thoughts, words and deeds to God until their new heart is completed. So, next time you are anxious about something, give it to God so you won't have to have a bad day. Satan wants you to have a bad day so he can work on you instead of letting God work with you as you live to please Him daily.

Last Sunday Morning at 9:20 Nathan Left Home!

It wasn't the first time. It happens almost every week.

You see, Nathan spends Sunday morning with about 26 other kids his age at Our Saviour's Lutheran Church. His parents don't let Nathan go off by himself. They take him.

Nathan loves every minute of it. And his mom and dad love it too. Not just because of the way Nathan is growing. But because of the way the church helps the whole family stay closer together, but because they're learning about Christ and eternal life.

Maybe you should think about leaving home this Sunday morning. It's Visitor Sunday at Our Saviour's. If you do, bring the whole family.
